Inquiry Credited to Hoover's Desire for Fairness.

SENATE GROUP IN NEW SNARLS

Authority of Steering Committee Stirs Controversy.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Special investigators of the Postoffice Department were assigned yesterday to an administrative inquiry into "sales literature" sent through the United States mails during the last two years in connection with several Nation-wide flotations of both domestic and foreign securities.

Following disclosure last week before the Senate banking and currency committee of pool manipulations, market rigging and price-pegging operations on the New York Stock Exchange, the postal inquiry was credited in official circles to President Hoover's determination to enforce reestablishment of a free, open and fair market for stocks and bonds in the United States.

Although the order to place the Federal Government's first-line detective force in operation in New York went forward from Washington yesterday afternoon, Postoffice officials declined last night to reveal the scope of the investigation. A hint that criminal action under the Federal statutes against fraudulent use of the mails was in contemplation, however, was seen in the fact that at least one comparatively recent security issue was specifically mentioned in the Washington orders.

New Senate Wranglings.

The financial operations of the Kreuger & Toll group have been the subject of recent conferences at the State Department, but there was no official suggestion that this issue had been selected as the starting point for the postal investigation.

While the administration moved vigorously to enforce an effective house-cleaning in the New York Stock Exchange, the Senate banking committee tangled itself into new snarls throughout the day on the question of its next step.

At the close of a day of vehement wrangling over half a dozen questions of procedure, Chairman Norbeck announced once more that the investigation would "go on" with "a big surprise" today. But even this audacious bid for the headlines was not ventured by the bewildered chairman until the committee's executive session had prepared a legal ground for brokers and market operators who may elect to refuse their books to Senate agents.

Row Over Authority.

This legal snarl developed over a question whether the banking committee had authorized its special steering committee of five members to send accountants to New York, or had reserved this authority to the full committee.

Some members of the committee understood last night that the steering committee was vested with complete authority to shape the future course of the investigation, but others contended the meeting reserved to the

Auto Crash Fatal To Capital Builder

J. J. Portewig's Machine Hits Tree in Try to Pass Another Car.

His automobile crashing into a tree when he attempted to pass another machine on the Washington-Richmond highway a mile south of Woodbridge, John J. Portewig, 45 years old, Washington superintendent of the Putman Construction Co., was instantly killed at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Portewig had spent the week-end with his wife and three small children, who live in Richmond, and was on his way back to work in Washington.

Dr. E. H. Marstellar, Prince William County coroner, held an inquest and a verdict of accidental death was returned. There was a lone witness to the accident. Robert Lewis Carter, of 1223 Vermont avenue, said that the man attempted to drive around his machine, lost control of his own car and struck the tree. The machine was demolished and the tree uprooted. Mr. Portewig's neck was broken.

The body was taken to the funeral parlors of Hall & Davis at Occoquan and sent to Richmond at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon for funeral and interment. Mr. Portewig is also survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Portewig, of Richmond.

LaGuardia May Be Bear Quiz Surprise

(Associated Press.)

It was strongly indicated last night that Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, is to be the surprise witness whom Chairman Norbeck announced yesterday would be called today in the Senate banking committee's investigation of short selling of stocks.

LaGuardia declined last night, when questioned, either to deny or confirm that he would testify. Recently he left at the Washington police station for safekeeping documents which he said certain people in New York would like to get their hands on.

Asked last night whether he would take these papers before the Senate hearing he replied with a query: "Have you stopped beating your wife yet?"

Senator Norbeck, suddenly announcing yesterday that the inquiry into short selling would be resumed today instead of tomorrow, said a mysterious witness would be called who would provide plenty to write about.

TRACTION MERGER DENIED HOUSE VOTE

30-Year-Old Measure Again Put Aside as Hot Debate Features Consideration.

The 30-year-old ghost of a District traction merger paid a five-hour visit to the House of Representatives yesterday, precipitated such a controversy as has seldom attended a District session, then returned to spectral haunts, farther than ever from realization.

Although Mary T. Norton, House District chairman, sped back from Boston to fight for the measure, and members of her committee stood stanchly behind her throughout the fray, the bill was bitterly contested until adjournment at last was taken under threat of a quorum call.

Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, chairman of the House District utilities subcommittee, will ask that the bill be called up again on May 9, next District day.

One amendment, requiring the traction companies to pay one-half of the cost of paving between tracks and for 2 feet outside, was approved before the bill was laid aside. As agreed to by the House District committee only one-fourth of the cost would be assigned to the companies. At present they are required to pay three-fourths of the paving cost.

Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, fought the bill every inch of the way, so vigorously, in fact, that at one point he almost came to blows with Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia. Mr. Blanton said Mr. Bowman always had been a "friend" of the street railways, that he "had to call him down every day" when both were members of the District committee.

Representative Bowman replied that "every word Blanton said was untrue," that he had been "more of a friend to the District" than Mr. Blanton.

Mrs. Norton rallied to Bowman's defense, asserting he "always had been a valuable member of her committee."

The Texas representative made an initial effort to kill the bill by moving to strike out the resolving clause. His motion was lost. He proposed a 5-cent fare for the District in another amendment. It lost on a point of order. He proposed a 5-cent fare as a new section. It was voted down.

Oklahoma Republicans Instructed for Hoover

Oklahoma City, April 25 (A.P.).—Oklahoma Republicans today named Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, to head their delegation of 25 to the national convention and instructed the group to vote for the renomination of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis.

Secretary Hurley, the first Oklahoman to serve in the Cabinet, was the keynote speaker of the State convention here. While the convention struck several discordant notes, it agreed unanimously in assailing the State's Democratic governor, William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, for alleged "dominance of the judiciary and legislative branches" of the State government.

TARIFF IS KEPT IN REVENUE BILL BY SENATE UNIT

LA FOLLETTE LOSES EXCLUSION MOTION

Levy of 1 Cent a Gallon on Oil and $2 a Ton on Coal Voted by Committee.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Theoretical Democratic opposition to high protective tariffs gave way again yesterday before the practical question of helping home business, and the Senate finance committee, with the aid of Democratic votes, approved embargo tariffs as a part of the $1,000,000,000 tax bill.

The committee not only approved retention of the tariffs on oil and coal, which had been put in with the acquiescence of Democratic leaders in the House, but added copper to the bill. A duty of 1 cent a gallon was given to the oil business and $2 a short ton was voted on coal. The rate on copper is to be determined later.

Not all of the tariff advocates were satisfied, however, but after the committee had rejected motions to include various lumber and forest products in the favored list of tariff items their advocates announced their determination to take their fights to the floor of the Senate.

Senator Robert M. La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, brought the tariff question to a decision soon after the committee met in its first executive session to consider the tax-revision measure. He proposed that all tariff items be excluded from the bill. His motion was lost by a tie vote, 9 to 9.

Others Join La Follette.

Senator Henry W. Keyes, of New Hampshire, and Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, of Rhode Island (Republicans), New England protectionists, whose home industries are opposed to the oil and coal barriers, joined with Senator La Follette.

But Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, and Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma (Democrats), joined the majority of the Republicans and the La Follette move was beaten. Texas and Oklahoma are large producers of oil.

Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, unyielding opponent of protective tariffs; Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, and other Democratic leaders, have been seeking to keep the Democratic record as clean as possible during consideration of the tax bill, having an eye on the anti-Republican material the Democrats may make out of attacking the Smoot-Hawley tariff law as at least partially

Blast Injuring 7 Demolishes Boat

Coast Guard Liquor Craft Chaser Sinks at Pier at New London.

New London, Conn., April 25 (A.P.).—An explosion in the engine room of the Coast Guard patrol boat CG290, veteran rum craft chaser, while it was taking on fuel today, injured seven men and demolished the vessel.

The commander and five members of the crew were taken to a hospital, where two were regarded in a critical condition. Another man helping fill the gasoline tanks was slightly hurt.

The explosion, just after the fueling had been finished, tore the ship almost in two. The noise of the blast was heard for miles, its force broke windows in buildings near the pier. Accumulation of gas fumes in the engine room was believed responsible.

The twisted vessel sank at the wharf, but part remained above the surface because of the shallowness of the harbor. Firemen and policemen aided in removing the injured.

Caillaux Attacks Tardieu On Import Quota Limits

Nantes, France, April 25 (A.P.).—Former Premier Joseph Caillaux criticized Premier Andre Tardieu in a campaign speech tonight for his recent praise of the French system of limiting imports by quotas, which has been protested by American interests.

M. Caillaux, who spoke here in the late Aristide Briand's former electoral district as a candidate for the French Chamber of Deputies in next Sunday's election, warned that the quota system was a dangerous expedient, although he conceded it might be temporarily necessary.

Senate Votes 33 to 31 To Hear Heflin Today

Defeated Alabaman Wins Permission to Plead for His Seat; Kean Changes to "Aye" to Prevent Curtis' Breaking Tie.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A golden voice, stilled by the 1930 election, will sound again in the Senate today, when J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, addresses that body for two hours.

Heflin, a Democratic member of the Senate for eleven years, was given the unusual privilege of speaking from the floor by a vote in the Senate yesterday of 33 to 31, as strange a vote as Capitol Hill has seen in many a day, with Hoover Republicans lined up almost solidly on the side of the Alabaman.

Heflin takes the floor today, not to renew his war with the Pope, but to try to win back his seat in the Senate. He is prepared to tell the Senate that he was robbed of the election, and that Senator John H. Bankhead, his successor, ought to be thrown out.

The only benefit that will accrue to Heflin will be of a physical nature. By this time his oratorical boilers must be about ready to explode, and today's speech will give him a chance to blow off steam.

After listening to him, and no doubt thrilling again to the melody in his voice, the Senate will decree that his rival, Senator Bankhead, is entitled to retain his seat.

The motion to permit Heflin to take the floor today was offered by his old friend, Senator Park Trammell, of Florida, who has stuck by Tom through thick and thin; that is to say, while Tom was scourging the Pope and Al Smith in 1928, and since then when, as a result of these attacks, Tom virtually has been a man without a party.

But Tom had plenty of friends in the Senate yesterday. True, they were strange friends, for the most part, but they had the votes.

Senator Jim Watson, of Indiana, seemed to be in high glee as the Trammell motion carried. There was the suspicion that even Jim headed off a tie vote. He was sitting right near Senator Ham Kean, of New Jersey, who had voted against Heflin. Then, as it appeared that the "ayes" and "nays" were running a dead heat, Kean got up and switched, announcing that he voted "aye." Thus, instead of being a 32 to 32 tie—which

ARGUING IN MASSIE CASE BEGINS TODAY

Both Sides Rest After Third Alienist Says Officer Was Not Insane.

Honolulu, April 25 (A.P.).—Picturing Lieut. Thomas H. Massie as a sane, normal Southerner aroused to anger and vengeance when he shot Joseph Kahahawai, Dr. Joseph Catton, alienist, provided a vehement finale today to the prosecution's case against the naval officer and three others accused of the lynching.

Both sides rested and the trial reached the point of closing arguments after Dr. Catton and Dr. Robert Faus, city and county physician, had been called in a last attempt to smash the insanity defense set up in behalf of Massie by two alienists.

Dr. Catton, San Francisco psychiatrist, was the third mental expert to contend Massie was sane the moment he stood, pistol in hand, before Kahahawai and heard the native allegedly confess attacking his wife, Mrs. Thalia Massie.

The lieutenant and the defense alienists had asserted his mind had gone blank at that moment and that he did not know what he did immediately thereafter.

Heated clashes, sometimes requiring the interference of Judge Charles S. Davis, marked the questioning of Dr. Catton by Clarence Darrow, aged leader of the defense.

Testifying only from examination of the record—Darrow had refused to let the prosecution alienists observe Massie—Dr. Catton spoke to the jury with an emphasis that irked Darrow.

The San Francisco alienist, between many defense objections, reviewed the story of the attack related on the stand by Massie. The detail of his

Enormous Locust Army Moves 100 Miles Daily

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, April 25 (A.P.).—A horde of locusts is moving in an irresistible tide at the rate of 100 miles a day through the districts of West Africa and the adjoining portions of the Union of South Africa.

Farmers in the area said it seemed as though the cloud of insects was 500 miles wide in some places and three times that long.

TORNADOES KILL SIX IN MEMPHIS SECTOR

Hail Damage Is Extensive in Alabama; Many Houses in Tennessee Demolished.

Memphis, Tenn., April 25 (A.P.).—Tornadoes killed at least six persons in farming communities of this vicinity today, injured a score or more, and also did extensive damage in other sections of the State and in Arkansas and Kentucky.

Several communities in northern Alabama were damaged by hard winds last night.

All of the deaths so far reported were in the Millington, Kerrville and Rosemark communities in the northern end of Shelby County, of which Memphis is the seat.

Mrs. T. J. Dale, 65, a farmer's wife, was fatally injured as the storm wrecked her home near Kerrville.

"The storm hit our house with a terrific roar and the home seemed to lift for a second and shake," said her husband, who was slightly injured. "Then, with a deafening noise, everything seemed to pile around me and on top of me. I was stunned for a few seconds."

The other dead were:

Robert Harris, 65, Negro, of Millington.

Dick Spigee, a Negro child, Rosemark.

Kethel Adams, Negro, Millington.

Irene Sparks, 6, of Rosemark.

Unidentified Negro, of Rosemark.

The storm apparently swept across the Mississippi River from Arkansas after striking in the eastern section of that State. Eight Negro farm hands were injured near Osceola, Ark., and property damage in that vicinity was reported heavy. Two

Woman Editor Will Run In Indiana for Congress

Griffith, Ind., April 25 (A.P.).—Miss Cora M. Riggs, editor and publisher of the Calumet Weekly News, aspires to be the first woman to represent Indiana in Congress. She announced her candidacy today for the Republican nomination in the First District.

Nine men are also seeking the Republican nomination, while ten candidates are fighting for Democratic nomination. The primaries are May 3.

3 Nicaraguan Rebels Killed In Marines' Vengeance Raid

More Insurrectionists Slain in Counterattacks Following 25-Minute Battle; Belongings of Dead Americans Recovered in Captured Camp.

Managua, Nicaragua, April 25 (U.P.).—A national guard detachment of 40 men, led by United States Marines, captured an insurrectionist headquarters camp at Guambuco today in a severe 25-minute battle.

Determined to avenge the deaths of Marines and guardia early this week in fighting near Apali, the government forces killed three rebels, wounded many others and seized a large amount of supplies.

The guardia lost one wounded in the fighting, which was near the Honduran frontier.

Marine Sergts. Hamas, Burns and Wallace combined their detachments to make a total of 40 men in the force which attacked more than 100 insurrectionists, led by Gen. Carlos Salgado and Gen. Fulgencio Hernandez.

When the rebels had been driven out of the camp, the guardia consolidated their position and repulsed two counter-attacks in which several more rebels were wounded or killed.

The guardia captured munitions and provisions which were lost when insurrectionists wiped out a patrol several days ago, killing eleven guardia. Lieut. Lawrence C. Brunton, Corpl. Laurin T. Covington, of the Marines, and Pharmacist Mate Finis H. Whitehead, of the United States Navy.

Clothing and equipment belonging to Whitehead and Covington were found in the captured camp.

COLONEL AND WIFE STUDYING HIS OFFER

Hesitate at Sponsoring Gang Chief's Release to Aid Kidnaping Search.

Hopewell, N. J., April 25 (A.P.).—Al Capone was described tonight by a high official as being held incommunicado in his Chicago jail cell on orders from the White House pending the Lindberghs' decision on proposals of the gangster to recover their kidnaped son.

The Lindbergh family was represented by the official as debating the advisability of proceeding with the Capone offers.

Their concern for the baby, missing since March 1, was intensified by the failure of a $50,000 ransom payment, and the family has given much thought to the Capone problem.

The gang leader first publicly offered to post bail bond and endeavor to return the stolen baby. Later he was understood to have "guaranteed" the child's recovery in event of his release. Bail has been denied him by the courts.

Lindbergs' Attitude.

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, suggested Saturday in the Senate that the baby may have been kidnaped by an associate of Capone for the premeditated purpose of liberating the gangster.

The Lindberghs were described as willing that whatever "credit" might properly attach to Capone in event he could recover the child be given him, but did not wish to place themselves in the position of sponsoring his release.

Chicago, April 25 (A.P.).—Federal officials announced tonight they have curtailed issuance of passes for visitors to see Al Capone in the Cook County Jail. H. W. C. Laubenheimer, United States marshal in charge of Capone's custody, said his instructions in the matter came from Assistant Attorney General George A. Youngquist in Washington.

(Associated Press.)

An unqualified denial that President Hoover has issued orders that Al Capone be held incommunicado in the Chicago Jail was made last night at the White House.

It was said that no such proposal had been submitted to the Chief Executive for action.

Norfolk, Va., April 25 (A.P.).—John Hughes Curtis, who has taken to the air on several missions in his efforts to recover the stolen Lindbergh baby, tonight was off on another secret trip, this time presumably traveling by water.

Extortion Plot Causes 3 Deaths

Friend of Man Threatened Is Slain After Killing Two Blackmailers.

Taylorville, Ill., April 25 (A.P.).—Three men were shot and killed tonight in a gun battle that started as the result of an extortion plot and ended in a 40-mile chase by State police. The dead are Pete Larocca, 40, Vincenzo Manteller, 40, both of Springfield, and Henry Allegrucci, 58, of Langley, a village near here.

The shooting occurred at the home of Arthur Cioni in Langley. Cioni said Larocca and Manteller had attempted to extort $1,500 from him, threatening him, his wife and his 10-year-old son, with death.

Cioni said Larocca came to his home tonight with Manteller and another companion. Cioni said he had prevailed upon Allegrucci to assist him, and that Allegrucci was in the house when Larocca approached with a machine gun in his hands. Cioni said Allegrucci fired twice with a shotgun through the door, and Larocca fell. Larocca's two companions shot and killed Allegrucci, Cioni said, and then fled.

State police pursued the fleeing men and stopped their automobile by shooting the tires. They found Manteller dead in the automobile. His companion escaped.

Loss of $1,035 Jewelry Is Reported by Woman

Mrs. Dorothy Hyde, of 4611 Davidson drive, Chevy Chase, Md., yesterday reported to police that a quantity of jewelry valued at $1,035 fell from her handbag as she walked along the street near her home.

The lost articles, she said, were a platinum wedding ring valued at $35 and a platinum ring, set with 26 diamonds, valued at $1,000.

OMNIBUS SAVINGS BILL CHANGED FOR MENACING HOUSE

Retrenchment Measure Is Reported by McDuffie and Rule for Privileged Consideration Is Obtained.

DRASTIC ECONOMY PROPOSALS ALTERED ON STRONG PROTEST

Provision Made for Debate on President's Enforced Furlough Plan in Place of 11 Per Cent Salary Cuts.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Surviving a final operation to make distasteful provisions "more palatable" to Congress, the omnibus retrenchment bill, proposing economies estimated at $217,029,000, last night was ready for presentation to a House ominously unreceptive.

The bill was reported late yesterday by Economy Chairman John McDuffie. Earlier he obtained a rule for privileged consideration of the measure. Tomorrow the House will vote on the rule. Day and night sessions will follow until the bill is disposed of.

Following a scathing blast from members, protesting the more drastic provisions, economy committee members sat in executive session yesterday afternoon to write nearly a score of changes into the measure. The group was given until 5 o'clock today to file its printed report.

36 Amendments Proposed.

The rule reported yesterday provided four amendments to each title of the bill or thirty-six amendments in all. This would permit, among other things, consideration of the President's enforced Federal furlough plan as a substitute for the committee proposal of 11 per cent pay cuts with $1,000 exemption.

Under an understanding reached yesterday, the chair would consider an amendment from the floor to raise the pay cut exemption to $2,000. If adopted it would mean reduction of pay-cut savings from $67,000,000 to $18,000,000, Chairman McDuffie said.

Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, urging defeat of the committee rule, led yesterday's fight on proposed economies. Joining in the assault were Representatives Edgar Howard (Democrat), Nebraska; John J. Boylan (Democrat), New York; John C. Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, and Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas.

Green Assails "Trickery."

Meanwhile, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, labeled the special rule "a form of legislative trickery" designed to force the omnibus bill through the House. House pay cut opponents called it "gag rule procedure."

The following changes were made in the bill at yesterday's session of the committee:

Restrictions on veterans' compensation further modified to make all cases "in the zone of fire" during the war eligible for allowances and free hospitalization. Provision was made for a joint committee of three representatives and three senators to review existing veterans' legislation.

The Philippine government relieved of the $5,000,000 cost of the Philippine scouts, saddled on them in the earlier draft.

Mileage allowances for representatives and senators reduced 25 per cent.

Transfer of Radio Division.

Saturday half holidays for all postoffice employes, except railway mail clerks, abolished. Half holidays for other employes had been previously stricken.

Transfer of the radio division of the Commerce Department to the Federal Radio Commission provided.

Salary of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, cut from $12,000 to $10,000. Salary of proposed public works administrator reduced to $10,000.

Cost of Army and Navy transportation, made necessary by abolition of

SMITH-ROOSEVELT SHOWDOWN TODAY

(Associated Press.)

The long-awaited test on Alfred E. Smith's challenge of Franklin D. Roosevelt's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination last night was in the hands of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania voters.

With 112 Democratic delegates to the national convention at stake in the two Eastern primaries today—36 in Massachusetts and 76 in Pennsylvania—partisans of the two New Yorkers brought their furious campaigns to a close with expressions of confidence.

Smith chieftains predicted their principal gains would come from the Bay State, which gave the former New York governor its electoral vote in 1928. Roosevelt supporters looked to the Keystone State to provide the biggest boost in his delegate total—now 267—and to end the "stop-Roosevelt" movement.

In addition to the 112 delegates to be chosen in these two States, the Democrats also will name six in a primary today in far-off Alaska. The Roosevelt camp long has forecast victory there.

Affording less popular interest, the Republicans today will select 119 delegates in three primaries and two conventions—34 in Massachusetts, 75 in Pennsylvania, 2 in Alaska and 4 each in Arkansas and South Carolina.

President Hoover, who has 423 delegates pledged and claimed for him to date, faces little opposition in the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania voting. A slate of delegates pledged to his renomination is opposed in only three district contests in the Bay State.

Virtually all of Pennsylvania's 75 emissaries to Chicago are expected to be friendly to the President and controlled by William S. Vare, who turned the tide for Hoover at the Kansas City convention in 1928.

There will be no preference balloting in Massachusetts on either side. In addition to having delegates in the field in Pennsylvania, Smith and Roosevelt are candidates for the preference vote there. This is not regarded as binding on delegates, however.

Former Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, Mr. Hoover's only avowed opponent for the Republican presidential nomination, is the lone candidate for the preference vote in Pennsylvania, where the Republican senatorial nomination race between Senator James J. Davis and Maj. Smedley D. Butler, retired, of Marine Corps fame, has stirred up the most din.

"Buffoonery and rip-snorting tactics" have been denounced by Davis

Prince of Wales Goes Slumming to Aid Needy

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

London, April 25.—The Prince of Wales departed tonight on another of his famous quests for first-hand information about conditions among the poorest of British workers.

The British heir went first to Newcastle-on-Tyne, and will go tomorrow into the industrial sections of Wales. He declined to disclose his plans even to high officials but it was known that he intended to make personal inquiries into measures for the alleviation of distress among working families.

HOOVER TO ADDRESS GOVERNORS' SESSION

24 Executives Pay Tribute to Jefferson and Monroe at Charlottesville.

Charlottesville, Va., April 25 (A.P.). Governors of 24 States came here today to pay tribute to James Monroe, author of the Monroe Doctrine and to Thomas Jefferson, his friend and neighbor, author of the Declaration of Independence and founder of the University of Virginia.

At Ash Lawn for 26 years the home of President Monroe, the governors heard Claude G. Bowers, New York author, praise Monroe as the stout champion of the constitutional rights and sovereign dignity of the States. The occasion was the dedication of the Piccirilli statue of Monroe, originally carved for the Venezuelan government before the fall of the Crespo regime.

"Jefferson had given us a declaration of national independence; it was reserved for Monroe to issue the declaration of independence for the entire Western world," Mr. Bowers said in praising the Monroe doctrine. "The hopes and plans of the Metternicks and Talleyrands crumbled like a house of cards before the bugle blast of indepnednce sounded by James Monroe."

Visit to Monticello.

After a brief visit to Monticello, home of Jefferson, and a reception at the University of Virginia, the governors were guests at a banquet before returning to Richmond.

The announcement today that President Hoover would address the governors Wednesday afternoon on economy and taxation and the relationship between the Federal and State governments added interest to the conference. Although politics will not be brought into the subjects for discussion, the coming of the President will make possible a meeting with the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Several others mentioned for the Democratic nomination for the presidency will be present, including Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, Gov. George White of Ohio and former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

Iowan Opens Conference.

Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa opened the conference sessions at Richmond today by advocating that the Federal Reserve banks aid in stabilizing the farm dollar and also recognize debts secured by land as subject to rediscount.

Tax revision was urged as necessary in Government along with economy to cause those able to pay to help support the Government. He classed governmental extravagance and the need for tax revision with centralization of Government and lawlessness as major enemies of democracy.

Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, told of the "revolutionary experiment" in his State in 1931, when 45,000 miles of county roads were taken over for State maintenance and a six-months' school term supported by the State. He said that in the nine months since the program became effective both services had the most satisfactory standards in the history of the State.

8 Jurors Are Selected In Short-Weight Plot

Chicago, April 25 (A.P.).—Eight jurors were accepted today in the trial of two former city officials on charges of conspiracy to defraud housewives of millions of dollars through allowing Chicago merchants and tradesmen to give short weights and measures.

The defendants are State Senator Daniel Serritella, city sealer under former Mayor William Hale Thompson, and Harry Hochstein, who was his deputy. Serretilla was recently designated by Frank J. Loesch, crime crusader, in testimony before a congressional committee, as an associate of Al Capone. The indictments were returned a year ago, but postponements prevented trial sooner.

Large Boston Bank Is Closed by State

Exchange Trust Company Was Member of Federal Reserve.

Boston, April 25 (A.P.).—The exchange Trust Co. failed to open its doors this morning. A notice posted on the doors of the institution stated the bank's affairs had been taken over by the State Commissioner of Banks.

The bank had invoked the 90-day clause regarding the withdrawal of savings deposits on December 17, 1931. At that time it was announced that the National Credit Corporation, the Boston Clearing House, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the City of Boston together had deposited $2,600,000 in the bank to stabilize the institution.

The bank was a member of the Federal Reserve system and the Boston Clearing House. In its last statement, it reported total deposits of $10,775,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $1,498,000. It was capitalized for $1,500,000.

Delegates From Alaska To Be Selected Today

Juneau, Alaska, April 25 (A.P.).—Delegates to the two national conventions in June will be selected tomorrow when Alaskans ballot in the Territory's primaries. Two Republican and six Democratic delegates will be chosen.

Only local disputes are involved, the Democrats being generally united behind Gov. Roosevelt of New York and the Republicans supporting President Hoover.

Former Princeton Mayor, 99, Dies.

Princeton, N. J., April 25 (U.P.).—James L. Briner, 99, twice mayor of Princeton and former chief of police, died today at the Princeton Hospital. Briner had been in the hospital since he fell several days ago. He was one of the oldest residents in Princeton, being born in 1832 and coming to Princeton in 1854.

The President's Callers.

Budget Director J. Clawson Roop.

White House Social Arbiters List Democratic Aspirant Near President at Reception for Governors; Ritchie Farther Away.

(Associated Press.)

The prospect is strong that Republican President Hoover and Democratic Gov. Roosevelt of New York, may sit almost side by side at a dinner to be given at the White House next Thursday night.

It developed yesterday at the executive mansion that in a tentative seating schedule drawn up by the official arbiters, Gov. Roosevelt, leading aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination, is ranked third on the list. This might well place him within easy chatting distance of the President.

White House social authorities, who have wrestled in the past with delicate seating problems, have been engaged for some days upon how they would seat the members of the governor's conference, meeting in Richmond, when they come to dine this week with the Chief Executive.

The way the dinner list now stands, John Garland Pollard, Democratic governor of Virginia, who is host at the conference, is at the top and probably will be given the seat of honor. He is followed by Norman S. Case, Republican governor of Rhode Island, with Gov. Roosevelt third in line.

Mr. Hoover and Roosevelt may well meet before the dinner, since the President will address the conference in Richmond on Wednesday only a few hours before the New York Governor speaks to the same group.

Whether the present seating order for Thursday night will be maintained or just exactly what seat—near the President or Mrs. Hoover—Roosevelt will be given under the niceties of White House functions could not be learned today.

Warren Delano Robbins, chief of the protocol division of the State Department and White House social arbiter, was in contact yesterday with authorities at the Richmond conference. He conferred later with President Hoover.

About 27 governors are expected at the White House dinner. In ranking them it was decided members of the conference's executive committee should come after Pollard. Weight also was given to the date upon which the States represented entered the Union. Case is chairman of the executive committee and Roosevelt a member.

Albert C. Ritchie, Governor of Maryland, another avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, is some distance down the White House list, as is Gov. George White of Ohio, "favorite son" choice of the Democrats in his State.

U. S. TO PROBE USE OF MAILS IN MARKET TRANSACTIONS

full committee exclusive power relative to the employment of accountants. The motion formally approved in the executive session was not made public, and Chairman Norbeck, confused and harassed by the tug-of-war within the committee, offered no authoritative word on the powers of the subcommittee, which he also heads.

In a word, the division within the committee is over the question whether the investigation should be conducted from day to day with some particular objective in view, or should be guided strictly according to the quality of the red meat of publicity and sensation uncovered from hour to hour.

Real Inquiry Favored.

Senators Blaine and Brookhart are understood to favor what Senator Brookhart calls "a real investigation," and in this they are believed to command the nominal support of Chairman Norbeck, whose primary election in South Dakota—in which he seeks renomination for the Senate—is scheduled for May 3.

Just at this time Senator Norbeck appears also to favor "a real investigation," yet he is reluctant to align himself openly with those who would deny administrator leaders an opportunity to prove their charge that bear raiding during the last eighteen months has been a controlling factor in the continued decline of stock values and the consequent prolongation of the business depression.

Senator Brookhart also is standing for reelection this year in Iowa, and the opportunity to sit in on an inquisition of the stock exchange while the primary campaign is under way is a bit of political manna which no friend of the farmer could turn his nose up at.

Big Gamblin' House.

As he shrieked at Richard Whitney across the committee table one day last week, Mr. Brookhart feels strongly that "during the last 50 years this country has not been on an even keel for as long as fifteen minutes at a time." And most, if not all, of these economic ups and downs the senator laid, then and there, at the feet of "you fellows up there who are doing nothing but runnin' nothing in the world but a great big gamblin' house."

Senator Blaine, the third member of the banking committee, who supports Senator Brookhart's nebulous plan for "a real investigation," also is up for reelection this year.

Senator Norbeck's headline "surprise" for this morning's session was proclaimed dramatically yesterday afternoon, about three hours after a formal announcement by the same Senator Norbeck that there would be no more public sessions until Wednesday, at the earliest.

Refuses Discussion.

Naturally, there was some speculation as to what the surprise would be, but Senator Norbeck could add only—"I can not discuss it. But we will give you boys something to write about."

Earlier in the afternoon, Senator Norbeck also had announced he would select the steering committee before 4 o'clock; but at 6 o'clock he had decided on only three of the five members—Norbeck, Couzens and Glass.

Thus, the heavy executive session yesterday, called for the special purpose of appointing a steering commitee, leaves the luckless world still without the steering committee.

Nevertheless, Senator Norbeck did not feel that the day was an entirely fruitless one. The exchange of senatorial opinion in the committee room was something, and the decision to "go through" with the investigation appears to have been unequivocal at least so far as the chairman was concerned.

Real Progress Shown.

"We will have full authority to employ assistance and to determine future procedure and policy," Senator Norbeck said. "We are going to get down to a working organization which will function from day to day. The investigation so far has shown real progress. It will continue. We are going through with it."

"Is Mr. Raskob your big surprise?" he was asked.

"I tell you I can't discuss it," he said impatiently.

Senator Norbeck, however, left the clear impression that all persons thus far mentioned in the inquiry would be given an opportunity to explain their stock dealings.

William H. Danforth, of Boston, Mass., reported to be a large market operator, arrived in Washington yesterday from Florida and informed the Senate committee he was prepared to testify immediately.

Meantime, Chairman Norbeck took advantage of the lull to explain the committee's purpose.

Explain's Probe's Purpose.

"The purpose of the investigation," he said, "is to see whether the American buyer and seller has a fair market, or whether it is rigged against him, both up and down, and whether or not there is a general movement on the part of bear raiders at this time to destroy the value of property through the exchange."

He said the committee would get all the information it desires, no matter how long it takes.

"It doesn't make any difference whether it is in New York or San Francisco," he said. "If we want it we are going to get it, that's all there is to it."

The committee decided to recall Matthew C. Brush, veteran trader, who testified last week.

Mr. Brush, in a letter to the committee, asked to correct his testimony that he had never participated in a pool. He said he meant since the stock crash of 1929.

Members of the committee expressed a desire to question him further, however, on this and other matters.

Bogus Grand Duke Taken From Liner

Illinois Man, Posing as Russian Nobleman, Duped Society Hosts.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—A dapper gentleman with a waxed mustache and an engaging manner was hauled unceremoniously down the gang plank of the Ile de France today while first-class passengers, who had been wining and dining him as the Grand Duke Michael Romonoff, of Russia, stood by and wondered.

He was taken to Ellis Island as a stowaway and there quickly identified as Harry F. Gerguson, formerly of Hillsboro, Ill., who had on many past occasions caused embarrassment to society and royalty by discarding and assuming titles at will.

The escapade for which he is famous occurred some years ago when, unable to obtain admission to a function for the Prince of Wales, he had invitations engraved and sent them to New York society leaders bidding them to meet the prince at a reception on Long Island—at a vacant lot. He signed the invitations "Prince Obelewski," and many persons came.

He was, not in evidence on the Ile de France when the liner drew away from Havre. Ship's officers said he slept in a dog kennel on the top deck for the first two nights of the trip and finally obtained a first-class cabin by making a steward believe he had lost his key.

Man Lives After 150-Foot Dive.

Kansas City, April 25 (A.P.).—Telling friends he was "tired of living and ill," Alex Handren jumped 150 feet from the top span of the Hannibal Bridge into the Missouri River. For a man 65 years of age and ill, Mr. Handren made a highly successful dive. But he was seized with the desire to live after regaining the surface, and swam rapidly through the swirling stream until rescued by a boatman.

Woman's Kidnaper Believed Captured

Ship Deserter Tallies With Description of Mrs. Donnelly's Abductor.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—James R. Page, a Missouri prosecutor who turned sleuth to hunt the kidnaper of wealthy Mrs. Nell Donnelly, of Kansas City, believed his long trail at an end tonight, and had high hopes Marshall Deputy, alias Martin DePew, is in custody at Johannesburg, South Africa.

To his complete satisfaction, Page established today that Deputy sailed under the alias of John M. Long last January 30, on the City of New York, as an engine wiper. He carried pictures of DePew to the ship when she docked and smiled grimly as one after another of the crew and ship personnel said, "Sure, that's Long."

Long deserted the ship at Durban, South Africa, March 27. The man in custody at Johannesburg identified definitely by police as John Long, member of the crew of a ship which docked recently at Durban.

British Board of Trade Head's Post Is Legalized

London, April 25 (A.P.).—The comedy which began last Thursday with the discovery of Lord Hailsham, war minister, that presidents of the British board of trade were not technically entitled to a seat in the House of Commons, ended this evening when a bill regulating the position became law. The bill, introduced hurriedly when Lord Hailsham announced his discovery, has been passed by both the Commons and House of Lords.

The present president of the board of trade is Walter Runciman, who with his predecessors in office would have been liable to heavy penalties for occupying a seat in the House of Commons contrary to an old statute passed in the time of Queen Anne.

RAIL MERGER PLEAS MADE BEFORE I.C.C.

Spokesmen for Four Lines and Opponents Begin Final Arguments.

(Associated Press.)

Plans for consolidating $10,000,000,000 worth of American railroads yesterday came before the Interstate Commerce Commission for final argument with attorneys for and against the four-system Eastern merger presenting their divergent views.

After approximately four days of argument the commission will take the case under advisement. A decision may come in two or three weeks or it may be as many months.

The Baltimore & Ohio, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central are seeking to have the commission approve consolidation of all carriers below New England, east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, in addition to the Virginian and Norfolk & Western in Virginia. The commission in outlining a consolidation plan in 1929 provided for five systems, including New England lines.

Three Argue for Merger.

R. B. Tunstall, for the Chesapeake & Ohio; Henry Wolf Bikle, for the Pennsylvania, and Luther Walter, for the Baltimore & Ohio, outlined the carriers' argument. Clyde Brown, of the New York Central, held his argument over to the end.

Bentley W. Warren, representing five New England governors, opened the opposition by urging the commission to refuse to allot the bridge lines from New England through Hudson River gateways into Eastern trunk line territory to any of the roads. Such an arrangement, he argued, would be detrimental to New England business interests and against public policy.

Mr. Warren also urged that the Pennsylvania Railroad and its subsidiary, the Pennroad Corporation, be required to give up their stock holdings in the Boston & Maine and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads. This connection with the Pennsylvania, he argued, resulted in traffic being switched to that system and tended to kill off competition in New England.

The fifth Eastern system—known as the Wabash-Seaboard—outlined by the commission in its 1929 plan, came in for heavy fire from railroad attorneys. All referred to it as unworkable.

Carriers Made Sacrifices.

Mr. Tunstall told the commission that the four-system plan was launched only after long and careful consideration by the carriers and sacrifices by each. He asserted that all the railroads now asked of the commission is amendment of its own plan. Actual consolidation, he said, will come in later.

Attacking the impracticability of the fifth system, Mr. Walter recalled that President Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio, had stated that he would not endeavor to gain control of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway so long as its present owners, the Southern Railway and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, want to retain it. He said that no effort whatever would be made without the consent of the Southern and the Louisville & Nashville.

The question of control of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, a North and South line, had brought stern opposition from Southern business interests and the owners of the line.

Quiz of Walker's Dealings Launched

Hofstadter Group Places Delaney on Stand in Bus Probe.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The Hofstadter investigation launched a series of hearings into the affairs of Mayor Walker today and selected for its first subject his handling of transportation problems.

John H. Delaney, chairman of the board of transportation, was placed on the stand by Counsel Seabury and produced testimony that tended to link Mayor Walker and State Senator John A. Hastings in the granting of a franchise to the Equitable Bus Co. The company was given a permit to operate buses in Manhattan, Queens and Brooklyn in 1927 over the protests of numerous civic organizations, but the franchise never became operative because the State Transit Commission refused to extend a certificate of convenience and necessity.

Delaney admitted that "with the wisdom that comes after the event" he was now satisfied that the concern was at no time financially responsible, although he had reported to the board of estimate in 1926 that it met the financial requirements.

Vote on Dry Law Urged By Vermont Republican

St. Albans, Vt., April 25 (A.P.).—The first open agitation against the prohibition law in the Republican party of Vermont appeared today in a caucus case for the town of Fairfield.

The town committee, of which I. H. Northrup is chairman, sponsored a resolution instructing delegates to the State convention next month to support action for resubmission of the law to the States of outright repeal.

Detroit Explosion Kills One, Hurts 30

Debris Hurled 150 Feet in Air From Highland Park Building.

Detroit, April 25 (A.P.).—One was killed and 30 were injured in an explosion of gas that ripped a one-story plumbing shop out of a row of buildings, in Hamilton avenue, Highland Park, this afternoon and wrecked several other stores nearby.

The blast, coming with a roar that could be heard throughout the suburb, sent debris hurtling 150 feet into the air, blew one woman out of the shop and smashed windows in stores and houses several blocks away.

Most of the injured were in a radio shop, a laundry and apartments above them on either side of the plumbing shop. More than a score of men, women and children were treated at the Highland Park Hospital for lacerations, bruises and burns received in the fire that followed the explosion. William Hyman, 28, died tonight in the hospital.

House to Work Nights For June Adjournment

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic leaders in the House evidently are determined to end this session of Congress early in June if the Senate will permit. They are going in for night work.

Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader, asked the Democratic leader, Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the program for the week.

Mr. Rainey replied, "We'll have calendar Wednesday on Tuesday, the private calendar on Tuesday night, the legislative and economy bills on Wednesday and Wednesday night and Thursday and Thursday night and Friday and Friday night. Saturday we'll bring up the Hill Muscle Shoals bill."

"Then you expect to complete the business of the House early in June?" Mr. Snell asked.

"We do," Mr. Rainey replied.

HOOVER VETOES BILL TOO LOOSELY DRAWN

Words 'Or Otherwise' Cause Rejection of Minor Senate Indian Measure.

(Associated Press.)

Because the two words "or otherwise" were inserted in a Senate bill, President Hoover yesterday vetoed the measure on the ground it might throw unknown burdens of expenditure upon the Government.

The rejected act was a comparatively minor one, as was the only other measure vetoed by the Chief Executive during this session. It conferred jurisdiction upon the Court of Claims to settle the claims of certain Indian tribes living in the State of Oregon.

The President's veto message follows in full:

"I am returning herewith Senate bill 826, 'an act conferring jurisdiction upon the Court of Claims to hear and determine claims of certain bands or tribes of Indians residing in the State of Oregon,' without my approval.

"The bill limits the claims which can be presented to those 'arising under or growing out of any treaty, agreement, act of Congress, executive order,' and then throws the door wide open by adding 'or otherwise.'

"I can not assent to the proposition that the Government should be obligated after 75 years to defend a suit for unknown claims of such ancient origin and for persons long since dead not based upon any treaty, agreement, act of Congress, or Executive order.

"I want full justice for our Indian wards and would have no objection to the presentation of claims arising under the treaties named in the bill, both ratified and unratified treaties.

"I am advised, however, that all funds promised to these Indians under the ratified treaties have been appropriated and paid, and that lands were set aside for and occupied by the Indians who were parties to the unratified treaties. I am further constrained to this action at a time when the Government can not assume additional and unknown burdens of expenditure."

Robber Who Killed Boy Sent to Prison for Life

Detroit, April 25 (A.P.).—Theodore Liley, who pleaded guilty to the fatal shooting of 8-year-old Billy Reynolds during a grocery store holdup, was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor and solitary confinement today. The sentence is the maximum under Michigan law for first degree murder.

The holdup occurred Friday evening, and the boy, shot through both lungs and the abdomen when he unwittingly interrupted Liley and a companion, died Saturday afternoon. Frank Mohr, who admitted he was Liley's partner in the holdup, pleaded not guilty when arraigned today on a first degree murder charge.

BONUS FOES HISSED AT HOUSE HEARING

United Manufacturers Rap Plans as 'Economic Bunk;' Confidence Held Need.

(Associated Press.)

New money plans for cashing the soldiers' bonus were assailed by organized manufacturers as "economic bunk" yesterday in a House hearing broken by the hissed resentment of veterans against former war comrades who opposed the $2,400,000,000 payment.

Shortly after James A. Emery registered the strong opposition of the National Manufacturers Association before the ways and means committee, Fred C. Reynolds took the stand as spokesman for a group of Baltimore veterans opposed to the bonus payment.

Reynolds said that every justifiable claim of the able-bodied veteran has been met by the Government and attacked the Patman bonus bill as "class legislation."

Declared Unpatriotic.

"We want you to know that there are some veterans who consider this appeal unpatriotic," he said.

This statement was hissed by other veterans who have been crowding the committee chamber at every hearing. A muttered "throw him out" was audible from the rear of the room.

Representative Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, immediately objected to "this demonstration." Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader who was presiding, rapped for order and warned spectators the rules must be observed.

No further expressions were heard when Gaylor Lee Clark, who came with Reynolds from Baltimore, also opposed the payment. An atmosphere of strong resentment persisted, however.

Is Termed As "Bunk."

"I do not believe the veterans are honestly and faithfully led," said Clark, who enlisted as a private and left the Army as a captain.

"I think if the proposition had been put up to them squarely they would not be for it. Veterans will holler for what they can get, but when it comes to doing something to disrupt the Government if they do not get it, that is all bunk."

Emery said confidence, not money, is needed by the country.

"The whole history of paper currency should be a warning at this time" he said. "This is no time for experiments, especially with a historical lesson behind us and the contemporary experience of Great Britain before us.

"Everything that urges perilous experiment increases uncertainty and defers the hour of recovery."

Boy, 13, Held in Shooting Of Parents; Father Dies

Phoenix, Ariz., April 25 (A.P.).—Robert Merrell, 13-year-old schoolboy, sought for the killing of his father and wounding of his mother and brother at the family home in Gilbert, Ariz., was found loitering in the stockyards here today.

The boy disappeared last night, riding his pony, after his mother said he had run amuck with a revolver. The stockyards is about 25 miles from his home. He told arresting officers: "I was mad."

Questioned by County Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews, he said he had been forced to attend a theater with his family against his wishes.

Governor to Take Plane To Probe Illegal Fishing

Manila, April 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt will leave Manila in an Army airplane tomorrow afternoon for the northern end of the Luzon Island, where Japanese fishermen were reported fishing illegally in Philippine waters and robbing forests of timber.

The governor is to land at Aparri on the northern shore of Luzon and proceed overnight by the Government yacht Pasco to the capital of the Batanes group, 100 miles south of Formosa. The announced purpose of the trip is to inspect the air field at Aparri.

FARM BOARD SPURNS U. S. WHEAT OFFERS

Stone Firm on Policy to Sell Stocks Abroad, Despite Leaders' Appeals.

(Associated Press.)

The Farm Board has rejected offers for private sale of its surplus wheat.

This became known yesterday as agricultural leaders gathered here for a general conference today with the Senate agricultural committee on farm relief.

Chairman Stone of the board has definitely turned down offers for private purchase of the wheat held by the Government in face of appeals from Republican leaders in Congress to take this action.

The board now has about 107,000,000 bushels on hand. It is Mr. Stone's intention to continue the present policy of sales at the rate of 5,000,000 bushels a month.

It is understood a private dealer came to Washington recently from Chicago with an offer to buy all the board's surplus at the market price and to dispose of it abroad.

Senators Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader; McNary, of Oregon, the chairman of the agriculture committee, and Capper, of Kansas, and Representative Purnell, of Indiana, all Republicans, joined Secretary Hyde and Chairmn Stone in a conference and urged favorable action.

It was their contention that disposition of the surplus would bring about early stabilization of wheat prices and better the outlook for the coming harvest.

Mr. Stone is confident of getting rid of the surplus abroad and in a way that will not disturb the market.

Senator McNary will preside over the farm-relief conference today in his committee room. Representatives of organized agriculture will join the committee and Secretary Hyde in the conference.

What, if any, legislative remedies will be undertaken at this time will be decided.

Gilligan to Speak On Health Tonight

Poster Contest Prizes to Be Given at Central; Doctors to Judge.

Henry Gilligan, member of the Board of Education, will outline the purpose of "Child Health Week" and the aims of the District of Columbia Medical Society in this connection at tonight's meeting at Central High School under the auspices of the Dental Society. Dr. Herbert C. Hopkins, president of the Dental Society, will preside and will introduce Mr. Gilligan.

Dr. John R. Hogan has been added to the list of judges who will pass on the merits of the posters in the contest for senior and junior high school students. Felix Mahoney and Dr. B. E. Erikson are the other two judges. The awards in this contest will be made by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of public schools.

The meeting tonight officially opens "Child Health Week" activities for the District of Columbia Dental Society, which are conducted under the direction of the committee on oral hygiene and public instruction, of which Dr. George Albert Smith is chairman. Dr. C. Willard Camalier is chairman of the committee directly in charge of tonight's meeting.

Dr. Wallace Seccombe, dean of the University of Toronto, of Toronto, Ont., and Dr. E. V. McCollum, M. D., Ph. D., of Johns Hopkins University, will speak on "Nutrition and Its Relation to Child and Adult Health."

Quiet Prevails in Mine Strike Region of Ohio

Columbus, Ohio, April 25 (A.P.).—Quiet prevailed in the eastern Ohio mine strike district today. National Guard forces in the area, reduced from 600 to 400 over the week-end, had little to do except patrol mine properties.

Two meetings, connected with the strike, will be held tomorrow and Wednesday. Coal operators of the field will come to Columbus Tuesday to meet with Adj. Gen. Frank D. Henderson to discuss an unannounced subject.

Snow Falls in Nevada; One Place Has 21 Inches

Reno, Nev., April 25 (A.P.).—Snow fell lightly in most of western Nevada today, while in the high Sierra severe storm made travel difficult over the transcontinental highways. Twenty-one inches of snow had fallen at Soda Springs, on Donner Summit, at noon. The snow here melted as it fell.

In the Rocky Mountain region, where week-end storms claimed two lives, weather conditions were back to normal.

11,000 Needy Families On Emergency Rations

Detroit, April 25 (A.P.).—Emergency rations of bread and milk were being issued to nearly 11,000 welfare families in Detroit today, while the city sought means of obtaining additional funds for the Department of Public Welfare.

Already overdrawn in its April budget, the welfare department has borrowed from the funds available for next month and additional funds still are needed. In an effort to alleviate the situation, the city council today authorized the city comptroller to use other city funds for welfare needs.

Simone Is Indicted As Amick's Slayer

Defendant Was Wounded in Bladensburg Roadhouse Battle.

Thomas Simone, wounded in a gun battle in Bladensburg, Md., roadhouse last fall, yesterday was indicted in Prince Georges County for the murder of Grover J. Amick, killed in the same battle.

Charles Leavitt, alias Doggie, was named in an indictment charging him with operating the place as a disorderly house. Peter Abbott, said to have been a member of a gang which attempted to hold up the roadhouse, was indicted several days ago for Amick's murder. Abbott is in the Marlboro Jail, while Simone is still in Gallinger Hospital. Simone's alias is given as Paris DeSimne.

Others who were indicted yesterday were: Leory Klock, alias Roy Klock, false pretenses; Grace Boswell, possession of liquor; Joseph T. Brooks, possession; William K. Kennedy, destruction of private property; C. P. Brewington and C. A. Nolan, false pretenses; Lou Soller, sale of liquor; John Dickerson, assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on Mattie Dickerson and Agnes Burroughs and E. A. Rollins, false pretenses.

DAUGHTERS OF 1812 OPEN 3-DAY PARLEY

National Group Hears Eslick Talk on Reds; Business Comes Up Today.

The fortieth associate council of the National Society United States Daughters of 1812 was called to order last night at the Willard Hotel for a three-day meeting. Members from several States were registered for the first session which was featured by an address, "The Red Menace," by Representative Edward E. Eslick, Tennessee.

The council was called to order by Mrs. Robert Johnson, the national president. The delegates recited "The American Creed," led by William Tyler Page, its author.

Invocation was delivered by Mrs. Samuel William Earle, national chaplain. Presentation of colors by members of the Marine Band, which played "The Star-Spangled Banner" and other patriotic airs.

Business sessions this morning and afternoon will be followed by the official banquet tonight. Mrs. Edward Gann, of Washington, and Mrs. Horace M. Towner, regent of Mount Vernon Association, will be the principal speakers tonight.

Local women who are officers of the association are: Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, second vice president; Mrs. Samuel Williams Earle, chaplain; Mrs. Augustine J. Todd, librarian, and Mrs. Sol Lansburg, custodian of flags. Mrs. Robert J. Johnston, of Humboldt, Iowa, is president. The council will close Wednesday following the election of officers.

Filipino Laborers Begin Exodus.

Banks, Oreg., April 25 (A.P.).—Peaceful exodus of members of the Filipino colony of 84 persons was under way here today after white ranchers had passed around instructions that all the islanders must vacate by 8 o'clock tonight. Scarcity of work for white labor was said to be the reason for driving the Filipinos from the berry fields, where they are hired by Japanese ranchers.

MT. VERNON PLAN NOT YET SHELVED

Treadway Attacks Barring of Children and Again Urges U. S. Control.

(Associated Press.)

The refusal of Mount Vernon authorities to give free admittance to a group of orphan children last week brought forth comment yesterday from Representative Treadway (Republican), Massachusetts.

Mr. Treadway is author of a resolution, now in the hands of the House public lands committee, to provide an inquiry into the possibility of Government acquisition of Mount Vernon.

"Accounts of the refusal," Mr. Treadway said, "are further evidence that control of this property should be in the hands of the Federal Government.

"It is a sad comentary upon private ownership that orphan children should not be admitted because they came on a day not in conformity with the rules under which Mount Vernon is managed."

Mount Vernon rules permit free admittance of children on Saturdays only.

Mr. Treadway's remark were addressed to Boris L. Eisenberg, superintendent of the Jewish Foster Home, where the group of children live.

In a separate statement issued along with the letter, Treadway said his resolution has not been shelved by the lands committee.

Confirming this, Chairman Evans, of the committee, said the committee has instructed him to ascertain the interest of Virginia in the proposed acquisition of the property by the Government.

Expert Warns Women To Get Man Before 27

—By JOHN J. DALY—

HERE comes a consulting psychologist with advice to girls, telling them they must get married before they reach the age of 27, otherwise they may remain spinsters.

It seems that somewhere between the age of 22 and 27 a girl is at her best, her beauty in full bloom, her mental development at its highest. She is then in a commanding position, can talk terms to marriageable men who lose the notion after they attain the age of 33. So the consulting psychologist says.

Old as the world is, this piece of news is just getting around. Up to this time, the world waxed along, men and women married or did not marry and never realized the sacred rites had to be performed at any particular period in life.

* * * *

MARRIAGE is getting a lot of attention from the consulting, not to say the insulting, psychologists, because marriage is about the most interesting phase of life.

In the mature ranks people are either married or single. If they are married they wonder how it would seem to be single again. If they are single they wonder how it would seem to be married. So marriage has the entire race wondering, one way or another.

About being a spinster, a girl does not like that prospect for the simple reason that she would not have a man to boss around—and it is every girl's right to have a man to worry about—to mother. It might be only a brother, or a sweetheart; but it must be a man, since man from time immemorial has been mothered by some woman.

If the girls follow the advice of this consulting psychologist they will get on the job early, for by the time a girl reaches the age of 27 most of the men of her own age have already succumbed to the charms of some siren, or are bent on bachelorhood.

House May Discuss Soviet Recognition

Rainey Declares Failure to Establish Relations Is "Economic Crime."

(Associated Press.)

Agitation for American recognition of Soviet Russia may get formal consideration in the House as the result of a statement yesterday by Majority Leader Rainey terming failure to recognize the Moscow government "an economic crime."

The Illinois Democrat made this assertion in an interview. A little later Chairman Linthicum said he would discuss today with members of his foreign affairs committee the advisability of taking up the Sabath Soviet recognition resolution.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, last week took a stand favoring Russian recognition, a course which Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, has long advocated.

CUBAN GROUP ASKS U. S. TO HOLD ALOOF

Patriotic League Foresees New Revolt and Seeks Hands-Off Pledge.

(Associated Press.)

The Cuban Patriotic League yesterday made public a letter to Acting Secretary Castle, of the State Department, calling upon the department to promise nonintervention in the event of another revolution.

Saying that open revolt, such as occurred last August, would assuredly break out again, the league letter, signed by Secretary Octavio Seigle, said the State Department could at least "aid the Cuban people by clarifying its stand and rendering it apparent that they are free to shape their own destinies unhampered by American intervention of the kind known to them since 1906."

The letter cited Senator Borah's recent comment upon inquiring into the arrest of three Cuban youths charged with attempted assassination of the president, in which he was quoted as saying he wanted "to see whether in this enlightened age the old practices of five centuries ago are to be revived."

The letter charged the "Machado dictatorship" was the "exclusive handicraft" of the State Department, which was camouflaging the real responsibility of international bankers.

KREUGER VICTIMIZED BY VARIOUS WOMEN

Police Find Evidence of Extensive Blackmail of Match King.

Stockholm, April 26 (U.P.).—The discovery of evidence that many women had extorted money from the late Ivar Kreuger was made known tonight in connection with the police investigation of the private affairs of the Swedish match king.

The police were understood to have found many illuminating letters in the so-called "silent room" in Kreuger's apartment, where he often conducted business affairs of his worldwide enterprises.

These letters showed the industrialist was the object of various extortion plots and that many women were able to collect money from him.

The police also found rubber stamps which were the faked autographs of well-known persons. Previously, it had been disclosed that Kreuger had millions of dollars worth of forged Italian bonds which he was alleged to have ordered made by a Swedish printing house after writing the signatures himself.

Meanwhile, Mme. Ingeborg Eberth, who was bequeathed almost $100,000 in the will of Kreuger, said that the Swedish industrialist had given her more than $40,000 worth of debentures last winter shortly before his final visit to the United States.

Man's Vision Restored by Operation on Spine

Montreal, Quebec, April 25 (A.P.).—An operation whereby the sight of a patient blinded by drinking poisoned alcohol was restored without treatment of the eyes, was reported today at the Montreal General Hospital.

Dr. G. H. Mathewson performed a lumbar puncture near the base of the patient's spinal column and withdrew part of the spinal fluid once a day for four days. After the second removal the man could see and after the fourth his eyesight was normal.

Judges Nullify Murray Order in Highway Tilt

Oklahoma City, April 26 (A.P.).—Nullifying an executive order of Gov. William H. Murray, two district judges today ruled that Lew Wentz, wealthy Republican, who was ousted from the Oklahoma Highway Commission April 1 by Gov. Murray, should be reinstated.

The decision vacated the appointment by Mr. Murray of Miss Maude O. Thomas, also a Republican, to succeed Mr. Wentz. An appeal to the State supreme court is expected.

MAJ. JOHN S. COHEN TO SUCCEED HARRIS

Georgia Governor Announces His Candidacy for Senate Seat in Fall Voting.

Atlanta, Ga., April 25 (A.P.).—Appointment of Maj. John S. Cohen, president and editor of the Atlanta Journal, as United States senator to succeed the late William J. Harris, was announced today by Gov. Richard B. Russell, jr.

Maj. Cohen's term expires after the November elections when the people select some one to serve out the remainder of Senator Harris' term which runs until March, 1937.

Gov. Russell issued a statement, saying he would be a candidate for Harris' unexpired term in the fall elections.

Representative Charles R. Crisp of the Third Georgia District, at his home in Americus, said he was considering entering the contest for the long term senatorial vacancy, but would make no definite announcement until he had returned to Washington and consulted Mrs. Crisp.

Maj. Cohen is noted in the South as a newspaper editor and civic leader. He cut short a prospective career as a naval officer to enter journalism.

His career includes service as a war correspondent for the Atlanta Journal and as an officer in the Spanish American War. Earlier he was a reporter on the New York World.

The new senator is 62 years old. He was born in Augusta, Ga., February 26, 1870. His father was an officer in the Confederate Army as was his maternal grandfather, Maj. Gen. Ambrose Ransom Wright.

In 1898 Maj. Cohen married Miss Julia Lowry Clark, daughter of another distinguished Southern family. They have two children, John Sanford Cohen, jr., a graduate of the Naval Academy and now motion picture critic on the New York Sun, and Mrs. Charles D. Orme, of Atlanta, an officer in the Junior League.

Fair Prize Is Given Alfred Kinney, Jr.

Wins Auto for Statement of 14 Words on Dry Law Enforcement.

(Associated Press.)

A fourteen-word statement on prohibition, saying "it is obvious that if national enforcement is difficult, State control would be impossible," has won an automobile for Alfred Kinney, jr., of Washington.

The prize was offered as a part of the prohibition fair conducted here last week to show the change before and since the eighteenth amendment. The contest called for a statement of 20 words or less on "I prefer prohibition to any other method of liquor control because—"

Other prizes, all to Capital residents, were given for:

"No tried or tested middle ground between prohibition and the saloon has succeeded."

"Only with prohibition as the goal, even though never attained, can the furtherest advance against the liquor traffic be won."

U. S. to Pay $5,000 In Border Slaying

Wirkkula's Widow to Be Paid; Bill Passed by Both Houses.

(Associated Press.)

Payment of $5,000 to Senelma Wirkkula, of Big Falls, Minn., whose husband, Henry Wirkkula, was shot to death by Emmett J. White, United States border patrolman, was approved yesterday by the Senate.

The Senate passed a House bill sponsored by Representative Pittenger (Republican), Minnesota, but added an amendment limiting attorney's fees to 10 per cent, which sends the measure to conference between the two houses.

Mrs. Wirkkula and her two daughters, Alice Marie and Bernice Elaine, would divide the fund.

Wirkkula was killed June 8, 1929, while driving with his wife and children near International Falls, Minn. White subsequently was acquitted of a charge of murder in connection with the slaying. White and a companion officer reported Wirkkula refused to heed a road sign ordering him to stop to permit a search of the car.

High Tariff Attacked By Chicago Trade Body

Chicago, April 25 (A.P.).—The Chicago Association of Commerce regards the existing high tariff as a serious obstacle in the way of greater international trade and dispatched messages to Washington tonight asking a more liberal application of the principles of protectionism.

The business group, retreating somewhat from its traditional advocacy of the high tariff, held the present tariff policy responsible for loss of foreign markets and proposed legislation that would facilitate reciprocal concessions on tariff rates with other nations. Telegrams were sent to President Hoover, Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Illinois senators and Chicago members of Congress.

Joseph Henry's Contribution To Science Is Described

Dr. Gherardi, on Centennial of His Discoveries, Says First Secretary of Smithsonian Aided Virtually All Commercial Uses of Electricity.

Contributions of Joseph Henry, first secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, have been essential to the development of practically every commercial application of electricity, Dr. Bancroft Gherardi, of New York, told members of the National Academy of Sciences last night. With W. F. Magie and Charles Greeley Abbot, he paid tribute to the noted scientists in celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of Henry's electrical discoveries.

The academy opened its spring sessions yesterday, bringing to Washington the most noted research workers of the Nation.

That the universe will "live forever" and is not running down is the interpretation placed on new discoveries regarding cosmic rays announced by Dr. Robert A. Millikan and Dr. Carl D. Anderson, of the California Institute of Technology.

The rays were pictured as bombarding the earth with enormous energy up to 500,000,000 volts.

Dr. Millikan and Dr. Anderson gave the first direct measurements of the power of these rays and gave evidence that it is sufficient to smash the nucleus of the atom. Dr. Millikan said he and Dr. Anderson had photographed the smashing of the nucleus of an atom by cosmic rays. The impact threw off "chips" in the form of positive and negative bits of electricity.

Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft, Dr. R. S. Gutsell and J. E. Rutzler, jr., of Cornell University, described a treatment which they believe will cure any drug addict who has no complicating illness and who desires to be cured.

"From experiments on six patients we believe it is possible to cure any addict who is not tubercular, who does not have a weak heart, who does not suffer from a pain-producing disease and who really wants to be cured."

As a foundation work for the treatment the scientists first discovered how drugs and chemicals act on the cells of the brain. They found that morphine thickens or coagulates the proteins in these cells. This effect persists after the influence of a dose of drug has worn off, causing the craving for another and the gradual formation of the habit.

They found that sodium rhodanate acts as an antidote and thins out the thickened proteins again, doing away with the craving and ending the habit.

SENATE VOTES TO LET HEFLIN PLEAD FOR HIS SEAT TODAY

would have called for a deciding vote by Vice President Curtis—the final vote was 33 to 31.

There are in the Republican ranks some who honestly believe that the Alabama election was illegal. But that conviction was not the prime motive behind yesterday's vote to let Heflin talk.

Republicans Turn Tables.

The Republicans, remembering how the Democrats hounded them in the Vare, Smith and other G. O. P. election contests, want to give the Democrats a blast of the same muck. They want Heflin to get up there today and tell of vote buying, of intimidation and of other irregularities.

The Democrats—most of them convinced that Bankhead is entitled to his seat—are afraid of Heflin. They see victory ahead in November, and they don't want Tom to endanger that victory.

At yesterday's session nine Democrats broke away from the leadership of Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, and voted for the Trammell resolution. Why they did so was a subject of much speculation at the Capitol afterward.

Explanations Are Varied.

Explanations varied. Some, it was agreed, voted for Tom because they liked him; some because they feared him; some because they feared the Ku Klux Klan, whose hero Tom remains, and some because they thought it was the only fair thing to do.

Conspicuous among the nine Democrats were three who are strong supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt—Senators Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky; Clarence C. Dill, of Washington, and Edward P. Costigan, of Colorado.

Suppose, it was suggested at the Capitol, that Tom Heflin, out of gratitude, should indorse Roosevelt for President, and thus make him a Ku Klux Klan favorite.

Maybe that was another thought the Republicans had in mind.

Others Who Backed Trammell.

The other Democrats, who, in addition to Trammell and the three just mentioned, broke away from Robinson and voted for a Heflin speech, were the two Texans, Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard, the two Oklahomans, Elmer Thomas and Thomas P. Gore, and the other Florida senator, Duncan U. Fletcher.

The Republicans who joined a majority of the Democrats in voting against a Heflin speech represented both wings of the party. They included, for example, the two outstanding Progressives—George Norris, of Nebraska, and William E. Borah, of Idaho. Included also was Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, the regular Republican whip.

Yesterday's vote can not be taken as an index to the vote that is to come on the question of seating or unseating Bankhead. Senator Norris, for example, who voted yesterday to deny Heflin a chance to speak, is expected to vote against Bankhead's right to his seat. On the other hand, Senator Barkley, who voted yesterday to hear from Heflin, will vote against him on the election resolution itself.

Parliamentary Aspect Debated.

Before yesterday's vote, there was a debate over the parliamentary aspect of letting a nonmember talk. One case was cited which seemed to Heflin's advocates to establish a clear precedent—the case of David A. Yulee, first senator from Florida, and Stephen R. Mallory, who was declared his successor by the State Legislature after some irregular balloting. When the fight reached the Senate, Yulee was permitted to take the floor and plead his cause.

Senator Robinson, getting down to more recent cases, pointed out that the last case—the Vare case wasn't comparable. Vare, he reminded the Senate, came here with credentials, and therefore was clearly entitled to the floor.

Senators Borah and Norris, and others, thought it was dangerous practice to allow a nonmember to speak, the Idahoan contending that if Heflin could speak simply because he was interested in an election contest, then there was no reason why the floor should be denied to a man interested in a tariff bill.

Throughout the debate, former Senator Heflin sat in the rear. He was, as always, the picturesque statesman—long black coat, cream-colored vest, a stand-up collar with flowing tie, and above this a florid face and silver hair.

When the vote had been taken, the first to congratulate Tom was tall, pompous Sam Shortridge, of California, who is convinced that he is entitled to his old seat.

Whirling around Sam's long legs, a group of boys rushed up to Tom to offer their congratulations. These were Senate pages. Whatever others may think of Tom, these Senate pages like him, and that is a good deal in Tom's favor, for these kids are particular.

Heflin's speech today is expected to begin shortly after noon, and is expected to pack the galleries. Certainly it will pack the press gallery, whose occupants haven't been called "squirrel heads" since Tom left.

The vote on the Trammell motion to allow Heflin to speak was:

For the motion—33.

Republicans (23)—Bingham, Brookhart, Capper, Carey, Couzens, Fess, Goldsborough, Hale, Hastings, Johnson, Kean, La Follette, Metcalf, Moses, Norbeck, Nye, Reed, Robinson (Ind.), Shortridge, Smoot, Townsend, Walcott, White.

Farmer-Labor (1)—Shipstead.

Republicans (10) — Austin, Blaine, Borah, Dale, Frazier, Howell, Jones, McNary, Norris, Oddie.

It was announced that if not paired and free to vote, Senators Watson, Hatfield and Vandenberg (Republicans) would have voted aye, and that Senators Coolidge, Wagner and Barbour would have voted no. Senator Bankhead did not vote.

Arms Parley Bans Political Subjects

French Election Through Next Week Is Reason for Action.

Geneva, April 25 (A.P.).—Disarmament conference leaders decided today not to complicate international difficulties by public discussion of any major political issue until after the French elections, which will be held May 1 and 8.

Acting as the bureau of the conference, the leaders approved United States Ambassador Hugh Gibson's suggestion that sessions of the general commission be adjourned for two weeks. A proviso was added making possible resumption at an earlier date if the land, sea and air commissions complete the work of determining what arms are aggressive, but this task is likely to take some time.

The general commission, which is the conference in action, will meet Tuesday to adopt the posponment recommendation. Little political work is expected until after Whitsunday, May 15, as the bureau also recommended a Whitsuntide recess from Thursday to Tuesday.

Cabinet Decides Greece Will Quit Gold Standard

Athens, Greece, April 25 (A.P.).—Premier Eleutherios Constantine Venizelos informed the Legislature tonight that the cabinet had decided to take Greece off the gold standard. The decision, the premier said, was reached after full consultation with financial experts and after drastic economies had been effected.

He offered to yield the premiership to the opposition in order to give it a chance to apply its own financial program. If the offer were turned down, he said, then the opposition ought to support his program.

Man Felled by Taxicab Is Patient in Hospital

Struck and knocked down by a taxicab last night as he stepped from a safety zone at Fourteenth and Harvard streets northwest, Reese E. McDuffie, 78 years old, of 1347 Harvard street northwest, was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he is in an undetermined condition suffering from a fractured left hip.

Alva R. Kidwell, 33 years old, of Kensington, Md., who police say was operating the taxi, was charged with reckless driving at the Tenth Police Precinct.

IF GEORGE WASHINGTON CAME TO VISIT YOU . . .

Of course you would be honored. You would transform your home into a paradise of beauty and cleanliness. The front lawn would be made most attractive with flowers and shrubs. The back yard would be made to bloom. Your house would be made most inviting, of course.

George Washington is coming to visit you in spirit. He is coming to visit every home in the District. Yes, his spirit will visit your home, too, if you prepare for it. You must show that you are ready to welcome the Father of His Country in spirit.

There are men and women eager to help you prepare for this fine visitor. Why not give them an opportunity to do so at very little cost to you. You will hardly miss the few dollars spent that way and to others it will mean happiness and, perhaps, a new hold on life.

DAVIS AND BUTLER CLAIM VOTE TODAY

Senator's Friends Estimate Plurality at 250,000; General's, 200,000.

Philadelphia, April 25 (A.P.).—United States Senator James J. Davis and Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, opposing candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination, tonight claimed victory at tomorrow's primary.

An estimate of 250,000 plurality for Senator Davis was made by Gen. Edward Martin, State chairman, while Gen. Butler told an audience late today that he would win by 200,000, "if everybody does what they promised me."

Gen. Butler wound up his campaign in Philadelphia today by speaking at his headquarters. "Win or lose," Butler said, "this is only the start of a campaign to clean up this rotten gang in Philadelphia."

"Make sure there are no frauds at the polls tomorrow," the general said, "but don't get in any fights."

Smith-Roosevelt Tussle.

On the Democratic side, where there is a contest for national delegates between the supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and the friends of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, no formal statements giving figures were issued.

The managers of the Roosevelt campaign still insist the New York governor will have more than 60 of the 76 votes from Pennsylvania in the national convention. There will be 84 delegates from Pennsylvania, made up of 68 district delegates and 16 delegates at large. The at-large delegates will have one-half vote each.

Supporters of Smith say they expect the former New York governor to carry the State in the preferential primary over Roosevelt. Many delegates have promised to support the popular choice of the party. The promise is not binding, as there is no law compelling a delegate to abide by the preference vote.

Former Mayor's Fight.

Republican State organization leaders expressed confidence that the large majority of the 75 delegates to the Republican national convention will be for Hoover.

In Philadelphia, the fight of former Mayor Harry A. Mackey to win a seat in the State Legislature against the powerful oposition of William S. Vare, Republican city leader, attracted more attention than the senatorial fight among the Republicans. Mackey managed Vare's campaign for senator in 1926 when Vare was elected but not allowed to take his seat on the ground of excessive campaign expenses.

Another fight among the Republicans is that of Representative Benjamin M. Golder for renomination in the Fourth District in Philadelphia in the face of Vare's opposition. His opponent is Arthur Sellers, deputy coroner.

Al Smith Is Promised Connecticut Delegates

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith today received a telegram from Thomas J. Spellacy, of Hartford, Conn., expressing confidence the former governor would carry the Democratic presidential primary caucuses in Connecticut Thursday.

At the same time, headquarters of Franklin D. Roosevelt campaign for President received a cablegram from P. J. Horton, national committeeman of Porto Rico, saying "six uninstructed Roosevelt delegates" had been chosen to attend the party's convention in Chicago.

Mr. Spellacy said the first test of the strength of the Smith sentiment had occurred in district caucuses in the town of East Hartford. There, he said, Mr. Smith's name and his record "inspired the Democratic voters to the utter rout of the well-organized opposition."

Connecticut will send sixteen delegates to the national convention.

Mr. Spellacy said Mr. Smith's recent letter to eight Connecticut mayors "has dissipated all talk of not being 'available,' and the East Hartford voters saw the issue as Smith and refused to be distracted by side issues."

G. O. P. Leader Killed in Plane.

Malta, Mont., April 25 (A.P.).—J. W. Schnitzler, Froid, Mont., banker, State senator and Republican national committeeman, was found dead today in his wrecked plane.

PRIZE WINNER

INGLIS FLETCHER,
of San Francisco, who was awarded first prize yesterday for her juvenile story, "The White Leopard," at the biennial convention of the League of American Pen Women.

DRY LEADER ASSAILS LEADING CANDIDATES

Roosevelt and Ritchie Hit at Parley of Maryland Democratic Clubs.

Baltimore, April 25 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt and Albert C. Ritchie, Governors of New York and Maryland and aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination, both were attacked before the United Democratic Law Enforcement Clubs of Maryland here today.

Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of Georgia, national organizer of the W. C. T. U., laid down a barrage at the New York executive, declaring that her home State had shown primary preference for him but that "200,000 voters were hanging back to show their real preference in the election."

"They tried to accuse us of religious persecution in 1928," Mrs. Armor said. "Well, if they put up a wet Protestant this time let's show them we're not fighting religion but rum."

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Democratic Women's Law Enforcement League, branded Gov. Ritchie as one of the "outstanding nullificationists of the country," and declared that all candidates mentioned by the Democratic party were wet and that none would have support of her organization.

"A wet Democrat was nominated for President in 1928," Mrs. Armor said, "and they had to pick up the pieces, but if a wet Democrat is nominated in 1932, they'll have to pick him up with a blotter."

"We've got the votes, I tell you, and they will make a noise when the election comes," the Georgian said. "You've got to remember we don't belong to the Democratic party, the party belongs to us."

The speaker declared that Gov. Roosevelt was wet, and that he had claimed Georgia has shown preference for him by the primary vote. She declared that only 60,000 persons voted in the primary, and that the remaining 200,000 voters in the State were "hanging back" to show their real preference in the general election.

South Carolina G. O. P. Lily Whites Meet Today

Columbia, S. C., April 25 (A.P.).—The "lily white" Republican faction of South Carolina will hold its State convention in Columbia tomorrow.

Charles H. Small, special assistant to the United States Attorney General, will be the keynote speaker. Other speakers include Jake F. Newell, of Charlotte, N. C., senatorial candidate, and Charles A. Jonas, of Lincolnton, N. C., who recently was refused confirmation by the Senate as United States district attorney in North Carolina. Indorsement of the Hoover administration is a foregone conclusion.

PEN WOMEN CLOSE ANNUAL CONVENTION

Composer's Concert Draws Prominent Persons; Prizes Are Awarded.

Distinguished compositions by American woman composers made notable the composers' concert of the League of American Pen Women held at the residence of Mrs. Eleanor Patterson last night as the concluding event of the organization's biennial convention.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Dorothy De Muth Watson, of Washington, national chairman of music for the league. Among the woman composers who appeared in person playing their own works were Mrs. Mary Howe, whose suite for violin, cello and piano, "Plutot Melancolique," won first honorable mention in the league music contest for 1932. Sydney Homer, cellist, and Louis Ferrara, violinist, assisted Mrs. Howe.

The second group on the program was composed of two songs by Phyllis Fergus, sung by Harlan Randall, barytone.

Mrs. Irion's Composition.

Much applause was accorded Reah Jackson Irion's "An April Bridegroom, which was played by the string quartet and harp, while Edmund Caldwell sang the vocal part.

From California came the next series of songs, "Contos Hondos," by Francesca Vallejo. An ovation was accorded at the end of the fourth song, "Sequedilla."

Four love songs by Mary Carr Moore, also of California, were attractively arranged in a suite for voice, strings and flute, and brought applause. Mrs. H. H. A. Beach played the piano part in a presentation of her Quintet in F-sharp minor, for piano and strings. The third movement of the three was apparently most enjoyed by the audience.

Others who assisted in the program were Alfred Manning, harpist; Domenico Iascone, flutist, and Sophocles T. Pappas, who played the Spanish guitar in the Vallejo group.

At the session in the Willard Hotel prizes were awarded in three contests of this year, book, radio program and radio play writing.

The awards were presented to the winners by Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, national president. The winners were Dagmar Donoghy (Mrs. Joseph Warren Beach), first prize for her novel, "The Border, a Saga of Missouri." A former member of the D. C. branch of the league, Mrs. Estelle Aubrey Brown, who won first honorable mention in this class for her "With Trailing Banners." Second honorable mention went to Carmea L. Kesting for her book, "Repression."

Inglis Fletcher Wins.

In the juvenile field, Inglis Fletcher, of San Francisco, was winner of the first prize for her story, "The White Leopard." Honorable mention went to Alida Simms Malkus for the "Dark Star of Itza." Second honorable mention was won by Anne Belman Inskeep for her book on "Child Adjustment." In the class of books on travel honorable mention went to Regina Jaiz.

Mrs. Edna M. Colman presided and announced that the judges had been Lyman Beecher Stowe, Dr. Henry C. Rowland and Lyman B. Sturgis. In poetry, honorable mention was given to Cora Phebe Mullin for her "Needles of Cedar." A number of winners made brief talks during the book hour.

Two prizes, one for radio program and one for radio play writing, were awarded to Henrietta Wyeth, of Florida. Mrs. Sophie R. Newmeyer, of the Berkeley branch, won honorable mention.

SMITH-ROOSEVELT CRUCIAL TEST TO TAKE PLACE TODAY

in his antiprohibition campaigning. Butler has assailed "that damned Philadelphia gang" in championing the cause of prohibition.

The Smith-Roosevelt clashes will be the first since the 1928 standard bearer inferentially charged Roosevelt with "demagoguery" in calling for aid for the "little fellow at the bottom of the economic pyramid" and Roosevelt's reply that he favored relief for all classes.

This phrase bobbed up in the Oklahoma Republican State convention yesterday with Secretary Hurley, the keynoter, declaring every item in Mr. Hoover's program was "aimed at improving the lot of the little fellow."

Hoover Speech at Richmond.

Hurley told the convention the President had "pointed the way to stabilization" of world-wide economic conditions.

Meanwhile, the President announced a decision to speak tomorrow before the governors' conference in Richmond, where his potential opponent for the Presidency, Gov. Roosevelt, arrived Sunday night to deliver a speech on State problems. Politics has no place in these annual meetings of State chiefs.

The President and Gov. Roosevelt will have another opportunity to talk together Thursday night when the Hoovers hold a White House dinner for the governors attending the Richmond conference.

While Republicans in Washington pondered a batch of suggestions for moist prohibition planks yesterday, the Democrats received a surprise in a statement by Charles M. Hay, bone-dry candidate for the Senate from Missouri in 1928, that he would favor resubmission of the eighteenth amendment if Congress at the same time placed before the States a new amendment safeguarding against return of the saloon or of "unregulated and unrestrained liquor traffic."

Hay, who is a candidate for the senatorial nomination again this year, told the National Woman's Democratic Club here he favored the eighteenth amendment and improvement in enforcement, but would not oppose the public expressing itself again if antiprohibitionists presented a definite alternative policy for simultaneous vote by the States.

He approved the plan of former Gov. Byrd of Virginia, another Democrat, for a constitutional amendment to allow the people a direct vote on the question, but said he would not make adoption of that plan a condition to submission of a proposal by Congress in accordance with the present Constitution.

Hay warned the Democrats, however, not to submerge "bread and butter" problems in considering the prohibition situation and said the people of his State were demanding resubmission of all policies of the "present administration" in Washington, including the farm policy.

Mortgage Relief Plan.

He proposed a farm mortgage relief plan himself, as follows:

"Let the Government take over all Federal Farm Loan banks and Joint Stock Land banks and create an agency through which loans can be made to the farmers on an amortization plan for 50 years; retiring one-fiftieth of each loan each year. The funds that will be needed to supply these farmers' loans can be created by an issue of United States bonds drawing 3 per cent, tax free, and should be loaned at a small rate of interest, say 4½ per cent."

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, said in the Senate yesterday he thought it was a "terrible mistake" that a majority in the last presidential election voted for Herbert Hoover.

Blaine made the statement in an interchange with Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, during debate on the Bankhead-Heflin Alabama election contest.

MYSTERY PAIR FACE FURTHER QUESTIONS

Jersey Troopers to Compare Downingtown Data With Hopewell Evidence.

Downingtown, Pa., April 25 (A.P.).—Two New Jersey State troopers today asked Chester County authorities to hold for further investigation the man and woman taken into custody here in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping.

The request was made after the couple, Albert Lacher and Edith Crebbe, had been questioned at length by the troopers and by Downingtown police.

The New Jersey authorities, Sergt. Moffeet and Corpl. Horn, explained they wished to report the results of their questioning to their superiors at Hopewell, N. J., and compare statements by the couple with information already obtained by investigators of the kidnaping.

"Very Strange Stories."

Chief of Police Chester Gilsson of Downingtown, when asked if the interrogators had learned anything definite to indicate the two were connected with the Lindbergh case, replied: "That's hard to say. They are still telling some very strange stories."

The two, formerly of Upper Darby, a suburb of Philadelphia, were taken into custody last Friday at an inn near here after the woman was alleged to have written a letter to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh indicating that she had information concerning the whereabouts of the missing baby. They came to the inn two days after the kidnaping.

The man and woman, police said, told different stories concerning their movements prior to the abduction and after coming here.

Detroit Request Received.

While they were being questioned, Downington police received a request from police of Detroit that Miss Crebbe be held for them. The nature of the charge was not disclosed. Miss Crebbe, police said, resided at Grosse Pointe, Mich., before moving to Upper Darby.

The couple were removed to the county jail at West Chester, where it is expected they will be held pending further word from the New Jersey police. They are being held on a technical charge of disorderly conduct.

There was an unconfirmed report here today that Col. Lindbergh visited a farm between Downington and Coatesville about two weeks ago to see a child reported to resemble his kidnaped son. After talking to the child a few minutes, it was stated, he announced he was satisfied the child was not his own.

Rapley Honored at Dinner On Turning His 75th Year

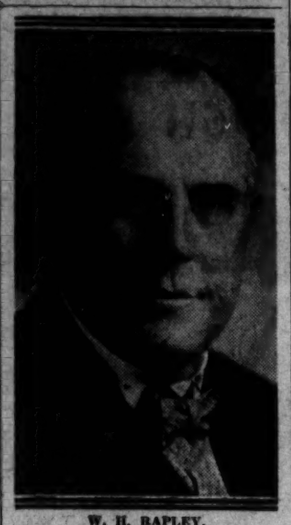
Veteran National Theater Owner Paid Homage by Many Friends.



W. H. RAPLEY.

Everything came to Harry Rapley in bulks of 75 last night. It was his seventy-fifth birthday, there were 75 guests for dinner, a lovely girl presented him with 75 roses and there were 75 other gifts which will come in handy.

William Harryman Rapley, if any explanation is needed, is owner and manager of the National Theater and has been connected with that house for more than 51 years. It is the custom for his wife to give him a dinner every birthday and the annual event was held last night at the Shoreham Hotel.

The guests came from all walks of life, but naturally his friends of the theater were dominant on the guest list. There were old-time critics who followed the plays of years ago for local newspapers and some of them came from New York to pay homage to their friend. All of the current crop of critics were there as well as the manager of every theater in Washington.

A reception was held from 7:30 to 8:30 preceding the dinner.

Ben Minor, who was associated with Mr. Rapley in the start of major league baseball in Washington, recalled those days and Ed Walsh, old-time Washington actor, recited the classic poem, "And the Other One Was Booth."

Among those who paid glowing tributes to Mr. Rapley were Dr. James Shera Montgomery, Andrew R. Kelley, Frank P. Morse, A. D. Marks, Stoddard Taylor and Dr. William C. Fowler.

Mr. Rapley's father before him was manager of the old National Theater and he officially came into the active managership in 1884.

CAPONE TAX REVIEW APPEAL IS OPPOSED

Solicitor General Disputes Gangster's Claim Counts Are Defective.

(Associated Press.)

The Government yesterday vigorously opposed Al Capone's last desperate attempt to find a legal escape from his eleven-year prison sentence.

The gang leader had asked the Supreme Court to review his conviction for evading income tax payments. Solicitor General Thacher filed a brief in reply yesterday saying Capone had no right to have his case reopened.

The court's answer to Capone's plea will probably come next Monday. Ralph Capone, Al's brother, and other members associated with him in profitable years of crime have been uniformly unsuccessful in their attempts to get reviews. Probably Chicago's No. 1 public enemy is not overly optimistic of the outcome but it is his last chance to escape the law through the law.

Declared Defective.

From all that could be told by the dry legal recital filed by Capone's attorneys, Michael J. Ahearn and Albert Fink, the case might simply be that of a man, otherwise law abiding, who attempted to evade payment of his income taxes.

Summed up, Capone contends that the three felony counts in his indictment are defective. His lawyers say they failed to tell the particular offense for which their client was tried; that under them he could be tried twice for the same offense and that the indictment failed to give him sufficient information to prepare his defense.

Every Point Disputed.

Every point was disputed by Thacher. He also charged that the gangster had deliberately failed to raise at his trial the point that he might be tried twice for the same offense.

"He chose to gamble upon the verdict of the jury," the Government brief said, "undoubtedly hoping that should the jury find against him the verdict would run afoul of the snare he had thus concealed."

If the court refused to review the case, it means that Capone's conviction has been upheld. Even if it should decide to take it up, it could rule, after consideration, that the conviction was legal.

GIVEN DEGREE

SACKETT RECEIVES GERMAN DOCTORATE

Tuebingen's Honorary Degree Acknowledges Hoover Moratorium Help.

Tuebingen, Germany, April 25 (A.P.).—A rare distinction, the honorary degree of doctor of science from the ancient University of Tuebingen, was conferred today on American Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett in appreciation for the Hoover moratorium on reparations payments.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, who suggested the honor, referred to the ambassador's "friendly and successful labors in Germany" in a congratulatory telegram.

Ambassador Sackett was credited by Chancellor Bruening with having first suggested the conversations between international statesmen at Chequers, Paris and Rome, which preceded the American proposals of last June for alleviating Germany's financial burdens.

The citation by the dean of the economic and scientific faculty, who conferred the degree, said it was "in appreciation of the fact that Ambassador Sackett recognized in good time the dangers which threatened the world's economy through Germany's crisis and energetically tried to ward off these dangers, proving himself Germany's warm-hearted friend."

Dr. Sackett, in a response delivered at a luncheon after the ceremony, referred to the peculiar difficulties of continuing the intellectual life when the chief concern of a people was for the merest necessities of existence.

JUDSON T. CULL, SR., LAWYER, SUCCUMBS

Attorney, 87, Was Oldest in Capital; Noted for His Realty Opinions.

Judson T. Cull, sr., oldest Washington lawyer, died yesterday in his home at 114 Second street southeast. He was 87 years old and was admitted to legal practice in 1867.

A specialist in real estate law, he was the organizer and first president of Washington's first corporate title company, the Lawyers Title Insurance Co. Later he was president of the Home Title Insurance Co. He was well known for his opinions on real estate matters.

Not long ago his home was condemned by the Government to make way for the development of the new addition to the Library of Congress. Mr. Cull had hoped to move to Maryland and during the past month had laid plans for his new home.

Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, when advised of the lawyer's death, directed that the court records show an adjournment out of respect to him.

Mr. Cull is survived by five children, Mary, Virginia and Florence Cull, Mrs. Morrison B. French and Judson T. Cull, jr., and two grandchildren, Judson and Betty French.

All Is Quiet in Saar After Election Row

Ousted French Customs Officers Returned to Post; "Regrets" May Follow.

Metz, France, April 25 (U.P.).—French customs officials were escorted back into a Saar Basin city today after being driven out by German demonstrators during a clash that arose out of Sunday's state elections in Prussia.

The outbreak in the frontier district—where Franco-German hostility frequently has caused tension—threatened serious developments last night, but probably will be concluded by a diplomatic expression of regret.

The demonstration occurred at Brenschelbach, where French customs officers seized a German automobile driver suspected of smuggling.

Election enthusiasm was at a high pitch among the German Nationalists and a crowd of 150 demonstrators, shouting, "Long live Hitler!" invaded the customs office and forced the officials to release the suspected smuggler.

The crowd sang "Deutchland Uber Alles" and finally forced the French customs officials and their families to leave the Saar territory and cross the frontier into France.

This morning a lieutenant of the Saar gendarmerie came to the frontier and expressed regrets to the customs officers. He then conducted the French officials back to their posts.

Stimson at Parley On Row in Far East

Reported Indicating Desire for Lenient Attitude of League Group.

Geneva, April 25 (U.P.).—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson took an important part in discussions of the Far Eastern crisis today while the League of Nations committee of nineteen prepared for a verbal clash tomorrow on proposals for Japanese evacuation of Shanghai.

Stimson was reported to have indicated the United States desire for a "lenient" interpretation of the committee's resolution, to which Japan is opposed. Such an attitude on the part of the committee would be preferable to an immediate and serious crisis in China, Stimson was understood to have said.

The American Secretary also conferred for an hour with Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese Ambassador to London, who outlined the attitude of his government toward the Shanghai and Manchurian situations.

The position of Stimson, however, did not remove the threat of a controversy within the committee when it resumes discussion of the resolution providing for a mixed commission to report on the most suitable date for Japanese evacuation, with final authority resting in the assembly. This resolution was put through by the smaller powers, which have been hostile to Japan, and it was sharply criticized at Tokyo.

District Kidnaping Bills Get Right of Way Today

Bills to tighten the District's kidnaping laws, providing capital punishment for some offenses, will be given right of way at hearings at 10:30 o'clock this morning before Representative Vincent L. Palmisano's judiciary subcommittee of the House District committee.

cotton gins were wrecked near Osceola.

Eastern Arkansas Affected.

Shortly after the storm struck in eastern Arkansas, it hit in the northern end of Shelby County, about 20 miles from Memphis.

A woman who weighs 200 pounds was picked up from the kitchen door of her home east of Millington and carried through the air for several hundred feet. She landed unhurt in soft mud.

A number of injured in the Shelby County communities were taken to Brunswick, also in this county, for treatment. Newspapermen, after a hurried survey, said at least twelve Negroes were injured at Millington. A check-up of the injured was delayed because the storm ripped down communication lines.

Ambulances were sent to the area from Memphis. Some physicians went there by airplane and other by automobile. A crew of workers from the county health department also went into the storm zone.

Second Storm in 24 Hours.

Mrs. Perry Duringer, 28, was injured critically when the storm wrecked her home near Millington. Charles Ellis, a farm worker, was slightly hurt. Scores of trees were uprooted, houses unroofed and farm buildings damaged or wrecked.

It was the second meteorological disturbance in 24 hours for the Osceola, Ark., vicinity. Hail, wind and lightning struck in that section last night, uprooting trees and breaking out window panes.

Bowling Green, Ky., reported a severe windstorm this morning in half a dozen or more counties in southern Kentucky. One man was hurt in Warren County and another shocked by lighting in Adair County.

Hailstones Damage Autos.

Extensive damage was reported from Portersville and several other communities in that section of northern Alabama, where a storm struck last night. Housetops, crops and automobiles were damaged by hailstones in the area of Birmingham.

A tornado early today damaged several buildings in Sweetwater, Tenn., but injured no one.

Belated reports from Shivers, in Simpson County, Miss., said a twister struck there early today, demolishing two farmhouses and uprooting trees along a patch a quarter of a mile long. No one was injured.

It came and went like a flash, although high winds perceded it and residents were warned to find refuge in sorm cellars.

Alleged Slayer of 7 Arraigned.

Las Cruces, N. Mex., April 25 (A.P.).—Melquiades Espinosa, charged with the murder of his wife, Filomena, who was slain with six other members of his family the night of April 1, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before a justice of the peace today. The elderly Mexican dairyman was returned to jail without bond to await a preliminary hearing May 3.

Scholarship of Bankers Is Placed With G.W.U.

The American Bankers Association has assigned to the George Washington University a loan scholarship for the year 1932-33, according to word received yesterday by President Cloyd Heck Marvin from W. Espey Albey, secretary of the board of trustees of the American Bankers Association Foundation.

The scholarship is for award to a student interested in the banking field, selection being made by the university's committee on scholarships in cooperation with a prominent Washington banker, Joshua Evans, jr., president of the District National Bank, has been designated to serve with the committee in awarding the scholarship.

Debate on Elective Board Friday.

The mooted question of an elective District Board of Education will be debated Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock before Senator Arthur Capper's Senate District committee. Hearings on a bill to authorize 2½-gallon ice cream containers will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

North Capitol Citizens Rap Federal Pay Slash

Any moves for Government pay cuts were opposed last night in a resolution adopted by the North Capitol Citizens Association at a meeting in McKinley High School.

The association also adopted a resolution aimed to furnish employment in Washington, urging that contracts for Government work in the Capital be let to Washington contractors and that Washington resident laborers only be hired. A motion picture of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, "Life and Events of Washington," was shown.

Glass Banking Bill Gets Preferred Senate Status

the Army and Navy transport service, restricted to 25 per cent of the conference rate.

Proposal to increase the number of Federal postal employes by requiring substitutes hired from those who have not worked a full week.

Representative LaGuardia, who tomorrow will lead a coalition fight on paycuts and other features of the savings measure, yesterday assailed the bill as a "legislative monstrosity" resulting from "hysteria" of members disappointed in the revenue bill. He charged that "with one brush of the hand" the bill undoes all the things labor has worked for for years." It is an effort, he said, to make Federal employes pay for the foreign debt moratorium.

Representative Boylan charged the economy committee with "usurping the rights and prerogatives of the appropriations committee;" Representative Colton (Republican), Utah, declared the group is taking over functions of the expenditures committee; Representative Howard said it "dealt only in promises;" Representative Fitzpatrick (Democrat), New York, said it was "playing into the hands of big business;" Representative Sirovich (Democrat), New York, said the committee should be abolished.

Proposed merger of Army and Navy, Representative Schafer said, is "ill-advised and ill-considered." He said House leaders vainly sought to force the consolidation measure through the expenditures committee, but the only witnesses were Admiral Byrns (Chairman Byrns, of the appropriations committee), and Gen. Williamson (Representative Williamson, Republican, South Dakota).

Pou to Lead Fight for Rule.

Chairman Edward W. Pou, of the House rules committee, is expected to lead the House fight for the special omnibus rule. Pay cut opponents saw in this vote an indication of how the omnibus vote will go. Representative LaGuardia called on members to vote it down. Representative Blanton said he will move to "perfect the rule," and if unsuccessful in modifying the provision, will join the fight to defeat it.

Economy committee members were at variance on proposed House procedure, in testimony yesterday before the House rules committee. Chairman McDuffie said the rule making the bill a legislative appropriations rider is essential to getting Senate action this year. Representative Wood (Republican), Indiana, said "an up and down vote" should be demanded.

A statement issued yesterday by President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, read in part:

"Labor has a right to expect on the part of members of Congress definite, detailed and conscientious consideration of every section, title and heading in the bill. Not only will those who are directly affected by the provisions of this bill protest vigorously against the autocratic action which is contemplated, but labor throughout the Nation will unite in protest against the procedure which it is rumored will be followed."

Eble Sees Cut in Funds As Help to Bootleggers

(Associated Press.)

A 10 per cent cut in funds for the Customs Bureau was described yesterday by F. X. A. Eble, commissioner, as the way to give "relief to bootleggers, rumrunners, racketeers and every other class of lawbreakers."

Mr. Eble's views, contained in a letter to Chairman Oddie (Republican), Nevada, of the appropriations subcommittee charged with slashing one-tenth of the $1,059,000,000 Treasury Postoffice supply bill, were put into the Senate record by Oddie.

The curtailed funds, Mr. Eble said, would bring the appropriation 15 per cent below those for the current fiscal year, and would, "in my opinion, create a very dangerous situation." He said approximately 1,100 employes would have to be dismissed out of 9,272.

Mr. Eble voiced agreement with the furlough plan suggested by President Hoover, but said "many difficulties would be encountered even with this plan."

Capital Man Held In Death of Child

Ollie Briggs Is Accused of Hit-and-Run Driving at Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, April 25.—Ollie Briggs, of Washington, was charged today with causing the death of Michael Smoliak, 13, who died earlier in the day at the Baltimore City Hospital from injuries received in a hit-and-run accident April 18. William Bollen, 16, a companion, received minor injuries. Briggs, who has been in jail since last week, will be given a preliminary hearing Friday.

Vernon Tuttle, taxicab driver, of Washington, a State witness, is at liberty in the custody of his attorney. Clarson Strickland, a Washington Negro, also a State witness, is in the Towson Jail.

Dundalk police allege that Briggs was driven from Washington in Tuttle's cab to a shore on Jones Creek, Baltimore County. Tuttle, they said, took a nap on reaching the shore, and Briggs, Strickland, and some friends drove the cab to Baltimore. While returning to the shore, according to the police, the boys were struck by the machine.

Free Attacks Lax Immigration Laws

Californian Tells Citizens' Group Restrictions Are Necessary.

The United States should cease to be a melting pot for the nations of Europe, Representative Arthur M. Free, of California, told the Georgetown Citizens Association last night in a talk which reviewed the history of American immigration from 1882 and bitterly attacked the American Civil Liberties Union.

Representative Free advocated tightening of all laws regarding immigration and said that some method should be devised to prevent immigrants from settling wholly in the metropolitan areas and manufacturing districts. Anyone openly advocating overthrow of the Government should be immediately deported, he declared.

Dorsey Hyde, secretary of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of the library committee, reported that every effort was being made to save the $75,000 appropriation for the Georgetown branch library which was stricken from the House appropriation bill.

Maj. D. H. Rhodes Burial Set Today

Retired Cemetery Inspector Died at Clarendon Home Sunday.

Funeral services for Maj. David H. Rhodes, 82 years old, who died in his home at 126 Norfolk street, Clarendon, Sunday, will be conducted today at 2 o'clock at the home by the Rev. Henry J. Miller, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Maj. Rhodes was born in Handsworth, England, and came to this country as a boy. For 50 years he was an inspector of national cemeteries, stationed at Arlington. He retired a few years ago and moved to Clarendon. He was an active member of St. George's Episcopal Church, having been a member of the vestry for more than 15 years. For the last 2 years he was senior warden.

During the Spanish War and the insurrection in the Philippines he was commissioned as major in charge of the removal of all American soldiers to this country who lost their lives.

THE ARMY-NAVY MERGER.

The economy committee of the House has not favored the public with an explanation of just how it expects to save $25,000,000 through consolidation of the War and Navy Departments. As a matter of fact, that amount can not be saved without crippling some of the activities of the Army or Navy. Apparently the committee is using the consolidation argument to cover unwarranted slashing of important items in the program of national defense.

The most important items in both the Army and Navy budgets could not be reduced by consolidation. These include the pay of soldiers and sailors, seacoast defense, the expenses of the National Guard, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, the organized reserves and similar expenses. No economy could be expected in the purchase of supplies, because the orders of each department are now so large that the lowest wholesale prices may be obtained. It is estimated that nearly $260,000,000 of the Army's expenditures for the next fiscal year could not be reduced in any respect by consolidation. This leaves a total of only about $60,000,000 to which consolidation economies could be applied under any circumstances.

Conditions are essentially the same in the Navy. Large items of expenditure are construction and repair of vessels, the Bureau of Engineering, the maintenance of yards and docks, and the purchase of supplies. None of these could be reduced through consolidation. Possible economies through the proposed merger would be limited to the Bureau of Aeronautics, departmental salaries, general expenses of the Marine Corps, and the subsistence and pay of the personnel at shore stations. Consolidation economies could be applied to only about $60,000,000 out of a budget of $375,000,000.

If the activities of the Army and Navy are to be maintained on the level prescribed in the budget for next year, consolidation economies could be applied only to agencies which spend about $120,000,000 in both departments. Overhead expenses of these agencies are estimated at less than $20,000,000. If that overhead were cut in half by the proposed merger, the saving would be less than $10,000,000. There is no way in which the economy committee could chisel more from the expenditures for national defense without impairing the efficiency of the Army and Navy.

The amount which could be saved through this proposed consolidation could easily be saved by the President by merging bureaus and agencies within each department. Considerable reorganization within the Navy Department could be effected without crippling the naval defense. The same is true of the Army. President Hoover has asked for permission to make these adjustments and Congress seems disposed to give it to him.

The attempt to save money by the amalgamation of two departments that are wholly incompatible and whose functions are entirely different is too absurd for serious consideration. Let whatever retrenchment is considered advisable be made within the departments by the President. Having devised a means by which the desired economy can be effected, the House committee ought to proceed no further with this preposterous idea of pouring the Army and Navy into a single mould, and thus destroying the morale and efficiency of both.

HITLER MENACE GROWS.

Adolf Hitler's National Socialists did not win an outright majority of the Prussian Diet in Sunday's election, but they did forge ahead with a remarkable gain—from 9 to 159 members—to become the strongest party. The Fascist leader is at least in a position to challenge the twelve-year Socialist domination of the state that comprises two-thirds of Germany. Hitlerism is not yet in control, even in Prussia, but its momentous growth again makes this radical movement a disquieting factor in European affairs.

Premier Braun's government has heretofore been sustained by a coalition of Socialists, Centrists and Democrats, which together in this last election secured only 162 seats as against 162 for the National Socialists, who can count upon the support of four minor parties to bring their strength up to 203 seats out of the 450 in the Diet. Thus the 56 Communists and various small parties hold the balance of power and the Braun alliance can retain control until one side or the other can enlist enough additional votes to count upon a majority.

While the Hitler party took numerical lead in four of the five states in which elections were held, in none of them has it yet secured positive control. The same result is reported from the elections to the Diet in Austria, the National Socialists scoring heavy gains, but not electing a majority. The widespread advance of Hitlerism is discouraging to the Bruening government and the conservative element in Germany. Hitler's growing strength will also have a disquieting effect upon both France and Poland, lending added argument to the opponents of arms reduction.

Hitler's gains will be offset by a tightening of France's rope around the neck of the Reich. France will not tolerate the Fascist policy of repudiation. In the coming French election the people will demand a more rigorous policy in dealing with Germany. Every movement toward repudiation of the Versailles treaty and reparation payments in Germany produces corresponding reaction in the French people. Since France has the upper hand, Germany may yet hold on to a common sense policy.

TARIFFS IN THE TAX BILL.

It is difficult to understand the action of the Senate finance committee in voting for a tariff on copper, oil and coal, and rejecting import taxes on lumber, shingles and pulpwood. The United States has been virtually shut out of the lumber export business, because of depreciated foreign currencies, tariffs, quotas, &c. Senator Jones is seeking a duty that would merely reserve the domestic market for the American lumber industry. On the other hand, the United States is a great exporter of oil and its products, which business doubtless will be cut off if an oil tariff raises prices in this country.

Perhaps it is too much to expect consistency from a committee that is harassed by favor-seekers on all sides and which is trying to rush the tax bill through Congress with as little delay as possible. The tie vote on an oil import tax, which leaves that item in the bill, was due to the fact that three of its promoters are members of the committee. Senator Shortridge, of California; Senator Connally, of Texas, and Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, represent the three foremost oil-producing States. The abhorrence of the two Democratic members of this trio for tariff protection in general did not prevent them from fighting for the petroleum embargo as a plum for their own constituents.

Senator Jones, of Washington, is the only ardent promoter of the proposed lumber duty with membership on the finance committee. For this reason the action of the committee may not be indicative of what the Senate will do when these items come up for discussion on the floor.

It is unfortunate that any tariff items were included in the revenue bill. The questions of protective tariffs and taxation are separate in principle and ought to be so in legislation. But all efforts to eliminate tariff items from the tax bill, so that they could stand on their own merits, have been ineffective. The Democratic House opened the door to protective duties by including the impost on foreign oil in the revenue bill. The Senate has no alternative to voting on a bill that is weighted with protective levies and at least one embargo.

The best the finance committee can do is to rush the measure to the Senate floor as soon as it can be drafted. Tariff controversies will certainly develop on lumber, oil and some other commodities. It is to be hoped that the Senate will not run wild on the tariff and thus imperil the revenue measure. But the militant campaigns of minority groups interested in various duties are not encouraging.

McSWAIN TO THE RESCUE.

Representative John J. McSwain, of Greenville, S. C., throws the weight of his intellect into the breach of depression and comes forth with a plan for salvation of the country. His scheme is the essence of simplicity. Last year, when the country was deprived for a considerable period of the guiding hand of Congress, there was depression. Therefore, let Congress recess rather than adjourn this spring so that it may return in the fall and let its radiant genius permeate the distressed economic structure.

According to this Democratic congressman from Greenville, America has been saved during the last two years by mild winters. Is Congress ready to gamble on the caprice of the weather for a third season? "No," thunders Mr. McSwain, of Greenville. Consequently, there must be no adjournment. Congress must stand ready to fly back to Washington without relying upon a call from President Hoover.

The gentleman from Greenville did not expatiate upon what he expected of Congress in this proposed continuous session. Does he anticipate legislation to insure another mild winter, or does he infer that the mere concentration of congressmen in Washington would be relief to the rest of the country? His own notable contribution to levity suggests that the atmosphere might be less charged with gloom in congressional districts if the prophets and prognosticators remained there in person to beat their breasts and amuse the people with visions of economic salvation.

It may be, however, that Mr. McSwain is more subtle than his address to the House would indicate. Most Democrats are painfully aware of the slow motion of gold in the direction of the party's 1932 campaign fund. They realize now that the rank and file of Democrats are not so enthusiastic about the "great opportunity of 1932" as to open their purses and pay for the dead horse of 1928. Campaigns are expensive, even in these days of depression. What will the Democrats do if they can't raise enough money to make the country think they are the voice of prosperity?

No doubt it was this question Representative McSwain was trying to answer. When politicians are unable to raise money for their own campaigns, they let Uncle Sam supply the deficiency. With Congress in session all summer it would be the forum of politics. Instead of swinging around their districts congressmen would make their campaign speeches on the floor and frank copies to their constituents. All the campaigns would center in Washington, with taxpayers footing the bills.

In the meantime business and industry would quake before the threat of radical legislation. Mr. McSwain could not devise a more ingenious means of promoting depression and unemployment.

SCHOOL PATROL PARADE.

A novel feature of the Bicentennial program in the nation's capital is the parade of the D. C. Schoolboy Patrols on Pennsylvania Avenue, scheduled for next Saturday morning. In this safety demonstration, the 3,500 youngsters who wear the familiar white Sam Brown belts and shining badges will represent some 1,800 cities and towns in paying their tribute to the memory of George Washington.

Of the many parades that have moved down historic Pennsylvania Avenue, this will be unusual in many respects. It will be composed almost entirely of boys in their early teens. The place usually reserved for heroes in all parades will go to thirty-five patrol members who have been decorated for saving the life or limb of a schoolmate.

The District of Columbia Division of the American Automobile Association, which equips the local patrols, including the yellow ponchos and caps which the members wear on rainy days, is sponsoring the parade in cooperation with the District Bicentennial Commission, school and police authorities.

The fact that there has not been a single child of school age killed or seriously injured in the vicinity of a school since the beginning of the 1930-31 school term, nearly two years, is sufficient testimonial to the value of these patrols. The members do not direct traffic. They simply direct the youngsters to remain on the sidewalk until traffic is clear.

Every citizen should view this parade, not only to encourage the young ambassadors of safety who will participate, but also out of gratitude for what they have already accomplished.

Congress spends $840 a week printing speeches that never are delivered, and more than that printing speeches that ought not to be delivered.

EUROPE'S COSTLY SOCIALISM

From the Kansas City Star.

In his discussion of the general economic situation in Europe, the editor of the Star, writing from Berlin, has touched upon one factor that has not been accorded nearly so much attention as it deserves. Particularly in this country it is not understood how important a role socialism has played recently in European affairs. It would be an exaggeration, of course, to attribute the economic and financial crisis through which Europe has been passing for the last year entirely to socialism, but there is no doubt now that the socialistic policies of certain European governments did much to promote it.

The reorganization of Europe, following the World War, gave socialism a tremendous boost. The new little republic of Austria fell far under the spell of that doctrine and, although relatively poor, began making extravagant social experiments—on borrowed money. Socialistic projects also became the style in Germany. National, state and municipal governments vied with each other in huge public improvement programs—likewise on borrowed capital. Three years ago Great Britain came under a socialistic government, which "liberalized" the dole and generally pursued a policy that led the country to live beyond its means.

It is immaterial whether the political leaders in these countries deliberately invited bankruptcy, as a weapon against the capitalistic system. The fact is that last year's crisis began in Austria, spread to Germany and then crossed to Great Britain. Financial relief, in the form of foreign credits, had to be rushed first to Vienna, then to Berlin and finally to London. A one-year moratorium on all reparation and intergovernmental debts had to be arranged and both Austria and Germany appealed to private foreign creditors not to withdraw their funds.

It should be noted that France, which has not gone in for socialism, but has remained highly individualistic, has been weathering the crisis far better than any of her neighbors. It is also significant that as soon as the Socialist (Labor) government went out of office in Great Britain and the new National government reduced the dole and balanced the budget British credit began to rise. But whereas the crisis has discredited socialism in Britain, it seems to have played into the hands of the Socialists in Austria and Germany, where, in return for financial assistance, the governments have increased their control over private enterprise.

The recent experience of Europe offers an important lesson to the United States. It is that after a nation has gone so far along the road to socialism, marked by doles, public housing projects and the like, it will reach a point where a decision has to be made. Either it must turn back, as Great Britain has done, or it must go forward far more rapidly toward state control, as Germany now appears to be doing.

MONKS OF ST. BERNARD.

The report that the Great St. Bernard monks will leave their hospices on St. Bernard's Pass because their presence was supposed to be no longer necessary, is not true, and is contradicted by the news received in Rome, according to the Boston Transcript. The hospice is to remain where it is and the monks will continue their ministrations for the future as they have done in the past. The fact that the road is now beaten chiefly by tourists and automobiles does not dispense with their presence in winter. The tourist traffic is intense during the summer only, but in winter there is still a good deal of local traffic between Switzerland and Italy, and the monks have for years improved their service by the establishment of telephone stations all along the pass from which persons in need of aid can always telephone to the hospice.

The picturesque service of the dogs is also maintained, though it is required less often now than in the past, owing to the possibility of a call by telephone. Still some twenty big St. Bernard dogs are always kept at the hospice, and are well trained, and in another hospice lower down the valley the breeding of the dogs is continued as before.

It Isn't Heaven's Fault if Man Builds His House Near a Volcano.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE Chinese farmer has built in one corner of his field a small temple made of clay and within it has established two small figures that are his gods.

He dresses the gods in new paper robes once a year and burns incense before them to win protection against drouth and flood and to insure a generous harvest.

His faith is absolute—while he is blessed with good fortune. But when the earth is parched or covered with flood waters, he accuses his gods of treachery or begins to doubt their power. He neglects them—or perhaps, made bold by desperation, spits on them as he passes the little temple.

Peculiar heathen Yet, after all, not unlike the people of Christian lands.

The superstitious white man forgets his God when times are good and turns to Him with supplications and reproaches when trouble comes.

He regards success as a virtue and prosperity as heaven's acknowledgement of his righteousness; and when his folly or want of prudence brings its natural reward, he cries to heaven: "Why hast Thou forsaken me?"

Success is the result of his own merit; failure the fault of his God.

It would be funny if it wasn't blasphemy.

But, you say, if God is loving and merciful, how can He permit the innocent to suffer and the righteous to endure loss?

The answer is that rain falls on the just and the unjust. There must be order in the universe, as in a manufacturing plant, and order requires laws.

Natural laws, wise and necessary, can not be changed to humor the individual. The individual must adjust himself to them.

Is God at fault if lightning kills a man? That bolt of lightning struck when and where it did in obedience to law. It was the inevitable result of causes that preceded it. The scheme of nature required it to strike in that spot.

But no law of nature required the man to be there. He moved of his own will. If he had kept away, the destined bolt would have done him no injury.

Heaven did its part when it gave man wit enough to put up lightning rods.

Righteousness is obedience to law—not a method of bribing heaven to set aside the law for your benefit.

Well, as soon as Mayor Walker holds his mammoth beer parade and the returns begin to come in, the company can fire up its boilers and let the smoke start belching. But the company, which is doing well enough now to declare its regular common and preferred dividends, had better make cautious investments in fuel and other additional supplies for a little while—until Congress and the Supreme Court check up on the parade results, anyway.

Gov. Roosevelt's particular brand of wetness has been a matter of some speculation. It remained for a citizen of Lacrosse, Wis., to get the governor right down to the cases. His car stopped at that place and a man in overalls sang out: "Governor, are you wet or dry?"

The governor smiled, waved a hand at his interlocutor, as reported by the New York Times, and shouted, "Wet."

"Then I'll see that you get a glass of foaming lager (word obsolete but meaning beer) when you come back as President," shouted another.

The governor pointed toward him and exclaimed, "Don't forget that, for I'll remember it."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Morse Replies to "American" on Bible in Public Schools.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your correspondent, "American," seems fearful that if the Bible is permitted in the public schools dogma will necessarily be taught.

He may hunt the Bible from cover to cover but will find no dogma. The Decalogue contains four requirements regarding the Deity and six relating to mankind; four for religion and six for ethics.

There is a vast amount of history in the Bible not found elsewhere. Poetry in its most graceful cadence is found in Job, the Psalms and Isaiah. The Sermon on the Mount stands alone as a guide in morals, and creeds are not established in either the Gospels or the Epistles.

No other book has ever been published that had as much to guide one into correct living, or to point out the disastrous effects of evil. If our schools can advance these two ideas in their daily work, how much of a real American can he be who will oppose it? Thousands of children get no such instruction at home, and less than half of the children of this country (somewhat more than 18,000,000) are enrolled in any Sunday school.

If their morals and a decent respect for the Sabbath and reverence for holiness are barred from the schools where may we hope that the rising generation will acquire respect for superiors, for law, for others and for themselves?

Reader Pleads for "Superannuated" Expert Employes of Government.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Fair play and a square deal for the so-called superannuated Federal employes are wanted.

Under the retirement act of Congress, faithful expert employes who desired an extension period of two years were granted this consideration where the work required was of such a nature as to need their services. Now it is proposed to legislate out these people who were granted extensions and whose extension period has not yet been completed.

It would work a great hardship to compel these employes to retire June 30. Many have contracted obligations which they can not meet if their services are ended prematurely.

Congress should not pass a law retroactive in character destroying or impairing contracts.

Let these worthy public servants complete the extension period granted them under the law. READER.

U. S. Civil Legion, at August Convention, Will Consider Alien Regulations and Hospitalization of Sick Veterans.

Exclusion of all Orientals, Filipinos and Mexicans, and a requirement for finger-printing on all applications for entry to the United States by all aliens arriving under quotas are included in the resolution.

Congress will also be urged to provide hospitalization for all war veterans in need of the same by contracting for beds in private and public hospitals already erected and maintained, instead of making an appropriation of $65,000,000 for the erection of new hospitals.

POSSESSION.

No need to go grasping and clutching at pleasure,
I can always find something to do with my leisure.
There is always a friend it is pleasant to sit with;
There is always a volume to revel in wit with;
And always the children, my own and the neighbors,
To fill up the time when I'm done with my labors.

No need to have oodles of cash in my pocket.
I've a box of delight if I care to unlock it—
I've stored up within me, or should have, I reckon,
All sorts of enjoyment when cares cease to beckon,
There are games I can play and can right well afford 'em—
It's all my own fault if I find life is boredom.

Who says time hangs heavily nonsense is talking.
I can have fun if I just go out walking;
I can see something my neighbor is doing,
Smell the good dinner some housewife is stewing,
Hear the birds singing and watch the shrubs growing,
And always find something that's very worth knowing.

I've countless diversions inside of me hidden,
If I'll but forget that I'm being care-ridden.
No need to be gloomy, no need to be lonely,
No need to go seeking the gay pleasures only.
I don't need some stranger from brooding to win me,
I'll find my contentment myself, for it's in me.

O'CONNOR HITS BACK AT M'CARL'S ATTACK

Accuses Comptroller of "Erroneously" Criticizing Shipping Board.

(Associated Press.)

Comptroller General J. R. McCarl was accused yesterday by T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, of exceeding his authority and of "an inability to comprehend or a refusal to recognize" congressional acts applicable to the board.

O'Connor's charges came in a voluminous report to the Senate and House analyzing a recent special report of McCarl severely criticizing the financial transactions of the board and its Merchant Fleet Corporation.

McCarl, prefacing his report of an audit into the corporation's accounts, asserted "it is possible there has not been brought clearly to the attention of the Congress the very wide latitude claimed, and exercised, by the Shipping Board in the uses of public money."

"Avoided Regulatory Statutes."

He declared that the board avoided regulatory statutes and "accountability for large amounts of money."

O'Connor replied that "the Shipping Board is not prepared to admit the existence of any irregular accounting procedure," adding "The comptroller general attacks both the legality and the practical effect of the lump sum operating agreements and holds them up as an example of the undesirable results of not having the shipping business of the Government placed under its control through governmental audits as are other departments of the Government.

"A survey of the real facts shows, however, that his premises are erroneous and his conclusions fallacious."

Regarding McCarl's comment on the sale of the United States Lines and the American Merchant Lines, in which O'Connor said the board was accused of losing approximately $2,000,000, the chairman said, "There is no substance to the allegations.

Fair Price for Property.

"The Shipping Board has sold the property of the United States at what it considered to be fair—or even high—prices," O'Connor added, "and it has supplied facilities at reasonable and fair rates."

In summing up the analysis, O'Connor described McCarl's opinions as "an endeavor to exercise authority which is expressly and with full consideration, withheld from the Comptroller General of the United States by the Congress."

Federal Banking Urged By Farmer-Labor Chiefs

Omaha, Nebr., April 25 (A.P.).—Leaders of several political groups, here to attend the national convention of the Farmer-Labor party, today found themselves in accord on a program of "prosperity through Government banking."

Among those proposing that governing bodies enter the banking business were "General" Jacob S. Coxey, mayor of Massillon, Ohio; A. L. Stanley, of Pittsburgh, national chairman of the jobless party, and William F. Kane, of Philadelphia, national organizer for the jobless party. Col. Frank Elbridge Webb, of San Francisco, Farmer-Labor candidate for President in 1928, arrived for the convention which opens formally tomorrow.

COMMITTEE OF SENATE ADDS COPPER TARIFF ON TAX BILL

responsible for the business depression.

In addition to Senators Harrison and Hull, the Democratic members of the committee who voted for the La Follette motion were George, of Georgia; Walsh, of Massachusetts; Barkley, of Kentucky, and Costigan, of Colorado.

Republicans voting against the La Follette motion, in addition to the two Democrats, were: Senators Smoot, of Utah, committee chairman; Watson, of Indiana; Reed, of Pennsylvania; Shortridge, of California; Couzens, of Michigan; Bingham, of Connecticut; Thomas, of Idaho, and Jones, of Washington.

There were several tariff votes. Oil was kept in by a vote of 9 to 9 on a motion to eliminate it; coal was kept in by a vote of 9 to 8; copper was put in by a vote of 10 to 8; a proposal to put in a tariff on wood pulp was badly beaten, 11 to 6; a motion to increase all import duties by allowing for depreciation of foreign currencies was beaten, 10 to 8.

Senator Harrison afterward sought to deprecate any party significance in the tariff votes. The Democrats, he said, did not vote on individual tariff proposals on their merits, but rather with a view of speeding passage of the budget-balancing tax bill, the importance of which transcended the other questions.

Senator Smoot said the votes ended the tariff fight so far as the committee was concerned, but Senator Jones announced his purpose to take the forest products vote to a decision on the Senate floor, after the committee had voted 10 to 8, against a tariff on lumber, logs and shingles. There will be other tariff amendments offered on the floor, the committee having no power to prevent this. There probably will be a few sharp battles over some of the proposals.

Fear has been expressed that once the tariff door is opened it may not be closed, and there will result a long drawn-out tariff battle to delay passage of the tax bill. The action of the committee yesterday, however, may be taken as indicative of the results of careful and secret polls taken by the leaders on both sides of the tariff sentiment. They have given in where they felt there was sufficient strength behind specific proposals to make yielding wise. Mutual tickling arrangements still are being sought by tariff advocates, but it is evident the leaders believe they have pacified the strongest tariff blocs and, possibly, have got in turn promises from them not to join up with numerous individuals and smaller groups who want tariffs on such things as butter, for example, raised to 22 cents per pound.

Having done with the tariff proposals, the committee turned its attention to the tax provisions of the tax bill. The normal, surtax and corporation tax rates were passed over for future consideration. Provisions of the House bill which were approved included that limiting depletion spread; reducing the corporation income exemption from $3,000 to $1,000; the provision limiting deductions for losses sustained in stock transactions designed to balance such losses only against such gains and not permit their deduction from other taxable income; this last provision was amended to exclude State and national banks and trust companies, as well as dealers, as provided in the House bill.

Senator Connally introduced his proposed amendment increasing the surtaxes on high incomes to a maximum of 50 per cent on incomes over $2,000,000. The Connally scale is a graduated one rising from the House maximum of 40 per cent on income over $100,000.

Senator Tasker L. Oddie (Republican), of Nevada, introduced an amendment providing for a 50 per cent tariff surtax on all commodities imported from Russia.

Advocate of Oil Tariff Enters Senate Race

Oklahoma City, April 25 (A.P.).—Wirt Franklin, of Ardmore, Okla., long active in the fight of independent oil producers for a tariff on foreign oil, announced late today he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination to the United States Senate.

He is president of the Independent Petroleum Producers Association.

ARGUMENTS IN MASSIE CASE BEGIN TODAY AT HONOLULU

narrative moved Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of Mrs. Massie and one of the accused, to violent sobbing. He referred to the plotting by Massie, Mrs. Fortescue and the other defendants, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, and then went into his opinion.

Declared Deliberate Action.

Reminding the court that Massie was born in Kentucky, Dr. Catton, whose testimony helped to send Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd to death row in the Arizona Penitentiary to await execution for the murder of two women, said the naval officer's behavior in the Fortescue home the day of the tragedy was not the irresponsible act of an insane person, but the deliberate step of the young Southerner to avenge his wife's honor.

The witness said he found no evidence in the record that Massie was insane; that he had no brain disease and was sane enough to prepare his defense. He said that prior to the attack on Mrs. Massie last September Massie was an average, sane person, and that the naval officer's subsequent nervousness and worry constituted a perfectly normal and natural reaction.

"Massie's instincts to anger and to fight were brought into play," said the witness. "He took steps to see that his honor and his wife's honor were restored."

Not Popular Theory.

The witness asserted that after the mistrial of Kahahawai and four others accused of the attack, Massie became convinced that his theory of the assault was "not the popular theory."

"I move to strike that out," said Darrow. "This California doctor doesn't know any more about the popular theory than if he had been in Australia."

Judge Davis overruled Darrow and Dr. Cattons said Massie's reactions were those of anger and fight, and those of a sane, normal man. He turned to the racially mixed jury and spoke with emphasis.

"I object," said Darrow testily. "Why can't he sit in his chair and talk like any other man? He doesn't have to emphasize his remarks. That isn't honest testimony."

"Has he any right to question my honesty?" Dr. Catton flared, turning to Judge Davis.

"I didn't say you were not honest," Darrow retorted.

"All right, then, resent it," Darrow growled.

Referring to defense alienists' testimony that Massie had "chemical insanity," Dr. Catton said he found no evidence of such, and, in fact, that he "never heard of chemical insanity."

"If he doesn't know what chemical insanity is," Darrow interrupted, "how does he know whether there is evidence of it here or not?"

Dr. Catton didn't answer that and the court ordered their side remarks disregarded.

Darrow's objection prevented Dr. Catton from saying whether he believed Massie's story of the killing true or untrue. The veteran defense attorney's cross-examination in some instances strayed from the immediate question. Finally he asked:

"Are you interested in this case in having Mr. Massie convicted?"

"No."

Does Not Remember.

Darrow then asked if Dr. Catton remembered testifying in the case of a man named Harlow who killed his wife in California nine years ago and in which an insanity plea was introduced. Dr. Catton said he did not remember.

"Do you remember who paid you?" Darrow snarled, showing his teeth.

"Yes."

"Well, then don't you know which side you were on?"

Dr. Catton again resented the questioning and the court stopped the argument.

In his brief return to the stand Dr. Faus testified in his opinion Kahahawai retained consciousness three to five minutes after the shooting in the Fortescue home and probably was dead in fifteen or twenty minutes.

Both Sides Rest.

As Dr. Faus stepped from the stand, Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley said:

"The prosecution rests, your honor."

"We rest," said Darrow.

Thus did the twelve men of varied racial descent receive the final evidence. Dr. Faus was the last of 41 persons who had passed through the witness box in the last two weeks. Thirty-one of these were used by the prosecution and only ten by the defense.

The arguments before the jury will begin at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and Judge Davis then will instruct the jury. Judge Davis agreed to this at the request of counsel on both sides.

Kelley and Barry S. Ulrich, associate prosecutor, will divide the prosecution time, but the aged Darrow expects to do all the pleading for the defense. The latter said he would require about a day.

With the testimony of Dr. Catton, Kelley built up the theory of the slaying which he had sought to introduce early in the trial to forestall the insanity plea, but had been prevented when Judge Davis upheld an objection by Darrow.

Honolulu, T. H., April 25 (U.P.).—Clarence Darrow requested tonight that a physician be permitted to attend him in court tomorrow when he is scheduled to deliver his closing argument. Fear that he might not be able to go through the session because of the heat and his advanced age led the 75-year-old defense lawyer to make the request.

CRISIS IN FAR EAST SPURS SOVIET ARMY

Preparations Include Tests for All in Party of Military Age.

Moscow, April 25 (U.P.).—Spurred by the Far Eastern military crisis, the ruling Communist party is preparing virtualy every physically fit man in Russia to spring to the defense of the Soviet Union at a moment's notice.

It was learned today that the national defense preparations providing for mobilization of 1,000,000 loyalists include:

1. Physical examinations and other tests for all Communists of military age.

2. Military training as an important part of the activities of practically all of 5,000,000 members of the Communist youth organization and of a large part of the 3,000,000 members of the Communist party.

3. Reorganization of the Osoaviakhim (air and chemical defense organization) on a semiwartime basis, with each member obliged to specialize in some form of military activity. All receive intensive training in use of gas masks, drill, &c.

4. Sharp reduction of bread rations in many regions, due in part to harvest conditions and in part to the shipment of large grain supplies to military forces on the Manchurian frontier.

The rations of bread have been cut by 50 per cent for factory workers in Kharkov, Minsk and other cities and the workers now receive one pound daily instead of two pounds. Other persons receive half a pound instead of one pound. Moscow and Leningrad rations probably will be cut after the May day holidays. Sugar rations also are curtailed throughout the nation.

In addition to the needs for troops in the Far East, the last year's harvest was reported below estimates due to failure of many collective farms to safeguard their harvested crops. The bread shortage was especially acute in the Ukraine and caused extreme speculation in the private market where it was reported selling as high as 5 rubles (nominally $2.50) per pound, while nonrationed government shops were charging $3.

TRACTION MERGER DENIED HOUSE VOTE

amendment to exclude the street car companies from operating sight-seeing buses. Members informed him the companies already are in "the chartered bus business." His motion was defeated.

Hits Paving Provisions.

The principal assault was on provisions relieving the companies of much of their present paving burden. Representative Blanton, Representative Ralph Gilbert (Democrat), Kentucky; Representative Ernest W. Gibson (Republican), Vermont, and Representative William H. Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, joined in the fight on this section. Representative Stafford moved that they bear three-fourths of the paving costs, but he accepted Mr. Gilbert's "compromise" on one-half, divided between the companies and the District.

Paving provisions in the bill as drafted "unload more of a burden on District tax payers than all the benefits they received from recent reductions in the gas rate," said Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska.

Representative Blanton in his attack charged stock of the two companies has steadily increased over a period of years. Representative Bowman replied earnings and revenue passengers have decreased to a point where the companies are in "desperate" circumstances.

Defenders of Measure.

The Texan directed most of his vitriol at Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick and his Public Utilities Commission, which he charged "is more interested in looking after the welfare of corporate interests than the welfare of the public." He charged the bill was drafted by the local traction companies and criticised the House District committee for the form in which it was reported.

Many came to the defense of the measure, including Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Republican floor leader, who said it was a "proper bill" to the economic interest of the people, and Representative John Q. Tilson, former Republican floor leader, who joined Mrs. Norton, Mr. Black and Mr. Bowman in support of the measure.

Brazil Head Hunters Weave Their Skirts, Says Explorer

Women Do Most of Work as Jivaros Devote Their Talents to Preserving Skulls of Enemies, Smithsonian Expert Reveals.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The men of the head-hunting Jivaros at the headwaters of the Amazon River in Brazil not only wear skirts, but they weave and launder them themselves, Dr. Mathew W. Sterling reported today as he returned on the Grace liner Santa Rita.

Dr. Sterling is head of the Bureau of American Anthropology at Smithsonian Institution, Washington. He spent four months among the Jivaros in company with eight other scientists who sailed last September 22. The others are on their way home and will arrive next week.

The custom of reserving the spinning and weaving for the men is unique among primitive peoples, the scientist said. The skirts are made of cotton and so carefully woven that many months are sometimes required for the job. The men wear nothing else and they wash their skirts once daily.

Women, he said, wear skirts and blouses. One blouse is the price of a wife.

Dr. Sterling described the Jivaros as well built, only slightly over 5 feet 5 inches tall and adorned with long, black hair which in the case of the men is permanently waved. Both the men and the women paint their faces. When not spinning or weaving the men hunt animals with poison darts which they shoot from blow guns, or they raid neighboring tribes, using lances and muzzle-loading rifles.

The women do all domestic and field work aside from spinning and weaving.

The chief art is the shrinking and preservation of the heads of their enemies.

Once, Dr. Sterling revealed, he and his fellow scientists were close to death.

"We were staying in one of the Jivaros' community houses, which are 80 to 100 feet long, 40 to 50 feet wide and 30 feet high," he said. "We slept on strip bamboo beds. At midnight a chief arose, shouting and waving his lance. We soon learned that one of our carriers was a medicine man. A woman among our hosts was sick, and the medicine man was accused of making her sick. He was threatened with death if she died. To save himself the carrier blamed us. Fortunately, the woman recovered."

Irish Act to Pay Bond Holders; Many in U. S.

Dublin, Irish Free State, April 25 (A.P.).—The Fianna Fail government is taking steps to repay investors in the £500,000 Republican bond issue of 1921, held principally in the United States.

Records relating to the loan were deposited with American courts, but they have been returned to the Free State authorities, who now are investigating to ascertain whether it will be necessary to enact legislation to make repayment. It may be that the government will have to borrow to meet principal and interest on the loan, which at the present rate of exchange will approximate £1,000,000.

COMMUNIST TROOPS MENACE AMERICANS

U. S. Asks Chinese Government to Protect 125 Citizens in Amoy.

(United Press.)

The United States yesterday asked the Chinese Nationalist government to "take all possible measures" to protect 125 Americans menaced by so called "communist" troops at Amoy and Kulangsu.

These two towns, closely joined, are in Fukien Province on the southeast coast of China. A large force of irregulars under Gen. Sun Lien Chung recently captured Changchow, located a few miles northwest of Amoy, and are reported to be moving on that port. In addition to the 100 Americans usually resident in Amoy and Kulangsu, about 25 have been brought in from the interior.

Amoy, China, April 25 (A.P.).—Alarm swept through the native populace tonight when sensational reports were circulated to the effect that local Communists were planning to create disorders within the city, now threatened by the Red army of Gen. Sun Liang-Chen.

Investigation revealed no basis for these reports, but both the Chinese and the foreign authorities increased their precautions.

The Chinese landed a heavy detachment of marines from gunboats offshore, thus augmenting their military patrols throughout the city. Guards and lookouts on foreign men-of-war in the harbor were strengthened.

Additional American, Japanese and French gunboats steamed into port. The American warcraft here now include three gunboats and four submarines, and a submarine mother ship is en route from Chefoo. All told, there are 24 ships of war of various nations in the harbor.

Soviet Terrorist Plot Charged in Manchuria

Harbin, Manchuria, April 25 (U.P.).—A terrorist plot against the new pro-Japanese government of Manchuria was charged in Japanese sources today in connection with Soviet military operations along the Manchurian frontier.

It was charged that 300 active terrorists, aided by some 3,000 other Russians, were involved in the widespread plot again the Manchukuo regime. The information will be turned over to the League of Nations inquiry commission, headed by Lord Lytton, of Britain, when it arrives here.

Dallas, Tex., April 25 (A.P.).—Miss Mary Zita McHale, Dallas tennis champion, was married to Oswald Jacoby, of New York, contract bridge expert, in the rectory of Sacred Heart Cathedral today. A romance which had its inception in their meeting a week ago on a Dallas tennis court was culminated by the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Helen Wilson. Reinhard A. Hohau, jr., of New York, was best man. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. McHale, of Dallas. The couple planned to leave immediately for New York, where they will make their future home.

Anzacs Mark Gallipoli Day.

Melbourne, Australia, April 25 (A.P.).—Thousands of war veterans who served with the "Anzacs" paraded today in all parts of Australia, commemorating that day seventeen years ago when the Anzacs stormed Gallipoli.

FEDERAL DICTATOR MAY RULE PRUSSIA

Bitter Fight for Control of Germany Seen in Gains of Hitlerites.

Berlin, April 25 (U.P.).—A long and bitter struggle for control of Germany appeared inevitable tonight as a result of the state elections which raised Adolph Hitler's militant Fascist party to a position of national dominance.

The deadlock resulting from the elections, in which the Fascists failed by a slim margin to gain absolute control of Prussia, Bavaria and Wuerttemberg, may even result in appointment of a Prussian dictator by the Reich's government, if such drastic action should be the only solution of the struggle.

Various solutions were discussed, but the most probable were:

1. Continuance of the present coalition regime, headed by Socialist Premier Otto Braun, although it is in a minority and would be forced to battle a hostile Diet.

2. Appointment of a federal dictator for Prussia, which would involve virtual abolition of the Diet and might seal the doom of states' rights in Germany.

3. A coalition in which the Catholic center party, with 67 seats, would join the Fascists (162 seats), Nationalists (30 seats) and other "right wing" factions to form a government.

4. Restoration of the recently abolished rule by which the Diet could elect a new premier by a plurality, instead of an absolute majority, as now requited. This would lead to election of a Fascist.

The Braun government is expected to remain in office provisionally, but it will face an impossible situation as the Nationalists can block legislation except when the Communists vote with the Socialists. It also was known that negotiations for a Catholic-Fascist regime had been started, but these conversations thus far were understood to have been unsuccessful.

Mrs. Banting Divorced By Nobel Prize Winner

Toronto, April 25 (A.P.).—Dr. F. G. Banting, codiscoverer of insulin, was granted a divorce today from the former Marion Robertson, of Flora, Ont., on the grounds of infidelity. They were married in June, 1924. The case was not contested.

With Dr. C. H. Best, of Toronto, Dr. Banting in 1922 discovered the insulin treatment for diabetes. He was awarded the Nobel Prize three years later and announced he would share it with Dr. Best.

Washington Collection Presented to Students

Herman H. Diers, of 111 Rhode Island avenue northeast, returned yesterday from Natchez, Miss., where he exhibited an immense collection of maps, pictures and books of Washington.

The collection, which was made possible through members of Congress from Mississippi, was presented to the school children of Natchez after the exhibit.

TREAT YOU LIKE AN HONORED GUEST

CHARGES SO LITTLE
only $3.50 up

"THEY MAKE you feel as if you owned the place at the New Yorker. From bellboy up, every employee is interested in your comfort. They actually look for things to do for you.

"Another feature that goes over big with me is the prices. You expect to get your money's worth these days. But a beautifully furnished, outside room and bath with all the latest conveniences—servidor, circulating ice water, radio, etc.—for only $3.50 a day. That's a real 'buy' even in 1932."

This is typical of what scores of prominent business men in your city are saying about the Hotel New Yorker. No doubt you've already heard them.

Willock, delegate to the League of American Pen Women's convention, of Kansas City, Mo.; Miss Emma Willock, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Robert Keating, State vice president of the League of American Pen Women of Missouri.

Next Sunday the Young Republicans will give a tea at the club, to which all Republicans are invited.

The Chilean Ambassador, Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal, will go to New York the end of the week and will leave about May 1 for Mexico City, where he will act as arbiter of the Mexican-Italian Mixed Claims Commission. His brother-in-law, Senor Don Jorge Matte, who has been spending the winter in Washington at the embassy, will go to New York with the ambassador and will sail on May 7 for Chile.

The ambassador entertained at dinner Sunday evening for Senor Matte when the guests were a group of friends made during his stay in the Capital.

The British Ambassador to Chile and Lady Chilton have left Santiago for England, where they will pass the spring season. They will return to Chile by way of this country, giving Lady Chilton an opportunity to visit her father, Mr. Thomas J. O'Brien, former United States Ambassador to Japan, at his home in Detroit.

The Swiss Minister and Mme. Peter entertained a small company at luncheon yesterday in honor of Miss van Ashvanwyck, of Geneva, who is president of the world organization of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mr. Holmes Will Marry Miss Henrietta Allen Today.

The marriage of Miss Henrietta Allen, daughter of former Senator and Mrs. Henry J. Allen, of Wichita, Kans., to Mr. Julius C. Holmes, secretary of the United States Legation in Bucharest, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Holmes, of Lawrence, Kan., will take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. There will be no guests at the wedding, only members of the two families, and immediately following the ceremony Mr. Holmes and his bride will leave for New York, whence they will sail on Friday aboard the Ile de France for Europe. They will spend their wedding trip traveling on the continent and will arrive in Bucharest about July 1.

The Egyptian Minister, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha, motored to Charlottesville, Va., yesterday to attend the unveiling of the statute of President James Monroe, which took place there yesterday. The minister was the guest of Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia, and was entertained at luncheon at Ashlawn. Accompanying the minister were Mr. Wallace Murray, chief of the division of Near Eastern affairs of the State Department, and Mrs. Murray, and the First Secretary of the Legation and Mme. Aly Ismail.

The Siamese Minister, Phya Suharn Sompati, left yesterday for New York, where he will remain until the end of the week.

The minister will be joined next month by Mme. Sompati, who is making the trip from Siam through Europe.

Mrs. Crump, who, with Representative Edward H. Crump, of Tennessee, has been spending the winter at Wardman Park Hotel, returned to their home in Memphis a few days ago with her sister, and will not return here this season. Representative Crump, who has been in Memphis for several days, returned to Wardman on Sunday, and will be established there until Congress adjourns.

Mr. and Mrs. Linthicum Guests of Honor at Dinner.

The Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the House and Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum were the guests of honor at a dinner given on Sunday evening by the Second Secretary of the Legation of the Dominican Republic and Senora de Espaillat. The party was given at the Army and Navy Country Club.

Mrs. Morris W. Halpin, of Freeport, Long Island, accompanied by her daughter, came to Washington a day or two ago to spend some time at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. P. M. Harwood, of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Frank W. Curtis, of Warren, Mass., are at the Dodge for a few days.

American Colonist Daughters' Supper Is Colorful Affair.

Mrs. John Laidlow Buel acted as toastmistress at the colonial supper given at the Washington Hotel on Sunday evening by the Daughters of the American Colonist. The program opened with a group of early American songs by Miss Lucy Malone. The distinguished guests included Mrs. George Thatcher Guernsey, Mrs. Livingston L. Hunter, Mrs. Henry B. Joy, Mrs. Frank B. Ellison, Mrs. William Russell Magna, Mrs. Grace H. Brosseau, Mrs. Robert Johnston, Mrs. George Maynard Minor. Miss Clara McQuown addressed the daughters.

The colonial idea was carried out by the gowns of the guests. Mrs. Buel wore a handsome costume of deep orange silk with quaint black bows as the only ornament. Mrs. Livingston L. Hunter's dress was of gold and blue brocade silk trimmed with point lace. Miss Emma Crowell's gown was of white satin fashioned in deep flounces of the period of long ago. Mrs. Harry Colfax Grove, the new State regent of the District D. A. R., wore a gown which had belonged to her mother, of white silk embroidered in lavender and gold with a deep bertha of old lace. With this she wore amethyst jewels which her mother had worn. Her daughter, Miss Anna Grove, wore her grandmother's wedding dress of white satin and lace. Perhaps the most interesting costume was worn by Mrs. Katherine Nagle, of heavy silk, cream background with brown dots and stripes. It was lined with crinoline and had a deep lace front. Bunches of little flowers and long streamers of green velvet held the lace in place. The unusual gown had belonged to her great grandmother and was more than 100 years old.

Mrs. Rhees, wife of Dr. Benjamin R. Rhees, has issued invitations for luncheon at Wardman Park Hotel, Thursday, May 12. Her guests will play bridge afterward.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Petrone announce the engagement of their daughter, Philomena, to Mr. Frank E. Campanella, of this city. The wedding will take place in St. Gabriel's Church, Sunday, May 15.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Whicher, of Amherst, Mass., are at the Dodge for a brief sojourn.

Mr. Charles M. Hay Speaker At Women's Democratic Forum.

Mr. Charles M. Hay, of St. Louis, was the guest of honor and speaker at the weekly forum luncheon which the Woman's National Democratic Club gave yesterday. Mr. Hay spoke on "The Road to Victory."

Mrs. Samuel Herrick introduced the speaker. Others at the speaker's table were Mr. A. J. Pickett, of St. Louis; Mr. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Clyde Williams, Mrs. Ewin Davis and Representative Clarence Cannon. Mrs. Edward Keating entertained a party, her guests including Mrs. John J. Knapp. Some of the others at the luncheon, many with guests, were Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mrs. C. F. Russell, Mrs. Florence B. Livingston, Mrs. Donald MacDonald, Mrs. C. K. Harmon, Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mrs. Edward P. Costigan, Mrs. Rufus Weaver, Mrs. P. H. Stewart, Mrs. David Tucker Brown, Mrs. Charles Hamlin, Mrs. William L. Beale, Mrs. Alexander M. Bull, Mrs. M. A. J. Markley and Mrs. E. B. Prettyman.

Among the recent additions to the list of well-known sponsors for the forthcoming farewell concert of the world-famous Russian Kedroff Quartet, which will take place under the auspices of the Community Institute of Washington, on Friday afternoon in the National Theater, are: Mrs. Rushmore Patterson, Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, Mrs. David L. Wing, Mrs. Avery Coonley, Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, Miss Lucy Brickenstein, Judge McCoy and Dr. William Earl Clark.

Mrs. Lyman B. Swormstedt is in charge of boxes and tickets for the event.

Miss Mary Biggerstaff, of Dover, Del., was a week-end guest at the Dodge and was accompanied by Miss Hattie V. Cool, of Wyoming, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. John Homer Chase, of New York, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son on Sunday, April 24. Mrs. Chase, before her marriage was Miss Margaret de Maulsby West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William West of this city.

Constitution Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of the District of Columbia, will have among its honored guests tonight Senora Crystal Hyland de Abelli, wife of the Minister of Bolivia. The meeting will be held at Stoneleigh Court at 8 o'clock, and will be in charge of Regent Mrs. E. Richard Gasch, who will introduce Senora Abelli and the other guest of honor, Mrs. Harry C. Grove, recently elected State regent. Music will be furnished by Mrs. Jewell Downs, who will present Lorraine Esperta Bentley, soprano. Quite a number of visiting officers and delegates to the National Congress, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be present. The chapter members will be in colonial costume.

Baroness A. M. von Blomberg, of Boston, is at the Dodge for several days. Baroness von Blomberg came to Washington to attend the dedication of the new Folger Shakespearean Library Saturday.

Famous Gardens To Aid Afflicted

Trip Through Envoy Bliss' Parklands Will Benefit Home for Incurables.

On Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 7 o'clock, the celebrated gardens of the estate of Robert W. Bliss, Ambassador to Argentina, and Mrs. Bliss, at 3101 R street northwest, will be open to the public at a modest fee for the benefit of the Washington Home for Incurables, a philanthropy in which Mrs. Bliss has long been interested.

The gardens comprise 52 acres of beautiful parklands, terraces, flowers, shrubs and trees. A large staff of gardeners, recently increased to provide employment for men otherwise disengaged, is responsible for the maintenance of the display. These expert guides will be on duty Saturday to conduct visitors through the grounds and explain the various novelties. Many rare and curious plant forms, including many tropical varieties, the Japanese heart tree and the deodar, will be shown.

The Home for Incurables originally stood on a part of the Bliss property. It is now located at Wisconsin avenue and Upton street. In the 43 years of its history it has cared for 1,700 patients, many of whom were cured and returned to active normal work and play. Mrs. Archibald Hopkins has been president of the institution for 30 years.

New Hugh M. Browne School to Open May 16

Determination to occupy the new Hugh M. Browne Junior High School, Twenty-fourth street and Benning road northeast, on May 16, "regardless of what the situation is," was expressed yesterday by District public school officials, after word was received from the District Building Construction Department, that repairs at the school will be completed by that date.

The school was completed in time for occupancy on February 1, but a depression of the cafeteria floor necessitated investigation and repairs. District authorities then promised that the school would be ready by April 1, but the bursting of a water pipe interfered. Occupancy of the school will eliminate 24 part-time classes in Northeast Washington.

1,000 Invitations Issued to Pageant

Eastern Star Fete to Be Opened by Marine Band on May 13.

Selections by the Marine Band will open the elaborate pageant, "Washington's Vision of a Triumphant Nation," to be presented by the Bicentennial committee of the Order of the Eastern Star on the night of May 13 in the Washington Auditorium. More than 1,000 invitations have been issued by the order to distinguished guests to attend the presentation, which will be a feature of the Masonic week entertainment program, beginning May 9.

Rehearsals are in progress nightly for the eleven scenes of the pageant, including a cast of more than 600 persons. Mrs. Selma Klein, author and director of the pageant, announced that a number of descendants of the Washington family in Virginia will participate in the pageant wearing costumes which have been handed down by colonial families.

Mrs. Klein is being assisted by a staff of directors.

Maryland Men's Bible Group Names Officers

Bird H. Dolby, of Mount Rainier, was reelected vice president of the Southern Maryland district of the Maryland Federation of Men's Bible Classes at its annual convention in Hagerstown over the week-end. A. Warman, also of Mount Rainier, was chosen counselor for Prince Georges County.

The federation has decided to hold its convention next summer in Mount Rainier, Mr. Dolby said. The 350 delegates present at the meeting chose H. C. McClintock, of Elkton, president; C. Ellis Diebert, of Elkton, executive secretary, and Harold Day, of Baltimore, treasurer. Speakers at the convention included the Rev. Otho F. Bartholow, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., founder of the federation, and Guy P. Leavitt, of Cincinnati, president of the national federation.

OLD ENGLISH BEEF, WITH FLEMISH CARROTS.

OLD ENGLISH BEEF is to constitute our dinner menu for tomorrow, with Flemish carrots, a salad of French origin, and a New England pudding! What, I wonder, would all that traveling total, should we count the miles! However, our own locale is to be the scene of construction for these dishes which have covered many miles to reach us, so we must be about the business of listing a menu for these recipes in order that the necessary trip to the corner store for provisions may be arranged.

Wednesday's Dinner.

Old English Beef  Baked Potatoes
Flemish Carrots  Chiffonade Salad
Maple Nut Pudding  Coffee

Old English Beef.

Cut 1½ pounds of lean beef into 2-inch pieces and cover with cold water. Add one bay leaf, one small onion, one teaspoonful of whole mixed spice, one-half cupful of vinegar and salt and pepper to taste. Cook slowly until very tender. Thicken the broth with a cupful of ginger snaps, broken in pieces, and cook until smooth. Just before serving add the juice of half a lemon and serve on hot platter garnished with rings of pimento and sweet pepper.

Flemish Carrots.

2 bunches young carrots
3 tablespoonfuls minced onion
2 tablespoonfuls butter
1 cupful stock
1 teaspoonful sugar
1 tablespoonful parsley—minced
Dash of pepper

Cook the carrots in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Cook the onion in the butter until slightly browned, add the carrots, seasonings and stock and simmer for 20 minutes. Garnish with the parsley just before serving.

Chiffonade Salad.

1 small bunch watercress
2 green peppers
4 tomatoes
2 oranges
½ cupful egg dressing

Slice the peppers, wash watercress, cut the tomatoes in quarters and remove the pulp from the oranges, being careful to keep the pieces whole. Arrange peppers on platter, place the tomatoes and oranges on top of them alternately and garnish with watercress. Cover with egg dressing and serve chilled. The egg dressing is made by adding two hard-cooked eggs to French dressing.

Maple Nut Pudding.

1½ cupfuls brown sugar
1 cupful boiling water
Pinch of salt
1-3 cupful cornstarch
¼ cupful cold water
3 egg whites
½ cupful nut meats

To brown sugar add boiling water, salt scalded milk and cornstarch mixed with cold water. Cook over direct heat until mixture thickens, stirring constantly; then over hot water for 15 minutes, continuing stirring. Remove from fire, add egg whites, beaten stiff, and nut-meats, broken in pieces. Pour into molds.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DIRTY AIR.

THE lung is the only part of the body that absorbs and stores much dirt. A man's skin can be unspeakably dirty, yet if he be put in a warm bath and plenty of soap applied with a scrubbing brush he will emerge reasonably free from soil. However, if a man keeps his skin filthy rather habitually, some dirt gets so firmly imbedded that not even a Turkish bath can rid of it. He acquires a mild tattoo with dirt.

But even the dirtiest skin is clean in comparison with the lungs, if we count in the dirt content of the bronchial glands into which the dirt of the lungs is sewered. No other organ of the body picks up and stores any dirt. The digestive tract of a dirt eater, cleaned of its loose content, is a clean tube.

In view of the tendency of the lungs to pick up dirt, a proper regard for perfect health indicates the desirability of having clean air to breathe. Health experts know this. As a first step to getting it they have worked to invent machines to measure the dirt in the air. At least six are on the market. The best of these, according to the industrial hygiene division of the Public Health Service, is one invented by Greenburg and Smith, of the service, ten years ago. Having compared it with the others they have been using it almost wholly for several years. It is available for men who operate factories and for health officials and others who want to know just how dirty is the air that their people must breathe.

A recent report by the service gives the comparative dirtiness of the air in several types of shops. The figures quoted are merely to serve as bases of comparison. The scientific detail is not included.

|---|---|
| Outdoor air after a rainstorm | 0.3 |
| Woodworking shops | 1.5 |
| Grinding and polishing shops | 4.8 |
| Silverware manufacturing— | |
| Nonexposed group | 0.8 |
| Exposed group | 6.3 |
| Cement manufacturing | 26.0 |
| Granite cutting— | |
| Hand operators' pneumatic cutting | 59.2 |
| Machine operators' pneumatic cutting | 38.9 |
| Attendant labor | 17.0 |
| Anthracite coal mining— | |
| Miners and helpers | 231.8 |
| Attendant labor | 34.1 |
| Soft coal mining— | |
| Miners and helpers | 112.3 |
| Attendant labor | 3.9 |

The machine has been used to disclose how much chromic acid there is in the air of chrome-plating establishments. A report on the lead content of air in various locations indicates that industrial workers and people living in cities are getting a variable dosage of that substance. The amount of lead in the air of various places was as follows:

|---|---|
| Factories where storage batteries are made | 3.4 to 180 |
| Cracker and cake factories | .37 |
| Underwear factories | .35 |
| Shirt and overall factories | .26 |

WATCHING AN OPERATION.

Student writes: A short while ago I was given an opportunity to witness a major operation. When I saw the incision I fainted. When I came to I braced up, went back to the operation room, and sat through the proceedings for an hour without further trouble.

REPLY.

You were shocked by the sight of the body being cut. As a result of mental shock your blood pressure dropped suddenly from about 120 to about 70. Your brain was suffering for blood. In order to protect these important structures your consciousness center shut off the power to the nerves and muscles which held your head and body upright. You fell prone. Your brain got the share of the blood and your balance was restored. You came to as soon as you got over your "wooziness" and your pressure became normal. You went back to the operating room. You were now case-hardened and blase, and what you saw did not shock you.

Interpreting the Mode

NEW YORK, April 25.—Personally, I know who is responsible. 'N' if you guess. I will tell you—but you have to guess first.

Anyhow, whether you guess or not, I hasten to report to you that several of the most beautiful and elegant women in Paris have startled even that unstartable city by appearing in costumes consisting of jupeculotte and sweater jumper with rolled neck! The costume is always finished with a sports topcoat, and is usually in navy blue, although an occasional dark red or greeen is seen.

Economy? Hardly, when the inevitable accompaniment to this costume is a diamond necklace worn under the rolled collar of the sweater, and diamond bracelets are worn on the outside of the long sleeves. One can well understand the talk this created, the contrast between the masculine and entirely rough-and-ready serviceable clothes and the gorgeous jewelry being quite too much for well-bred silence or indifference.

* * * *

I say I know who is responsible. Can you guess?

* * * *

Patriotic prints are always amusing, if not strikingly successful. We have had National Park prints and Washington prints. France had her colonial prints during the recent exposition. And now we have Cape Cod prints, tiny, quaint little designs said to have been inspired by the patterings seen in old Cape Cod houses. A New York store features these. I thought it might amuse you to hear about it!

The best part of these prints is that the designs are really good. One can wear them, the designs and patterings being so arranged that they aren't at all obvious.

* * * *

One doesn't wear the little cutoff sleeve without a long-sleeved coat or separate capelet, as a rule. This little sleeve is so wee that it often takes on the appearance of being just a continuation of the yoke, or sometimes becomes a real little capelet right on the dress. Whichever, it is never so cumbersome that the long sleeved coat can not be worn with it, out of doors.

* * * *

What you can do with clever fingers, ideas, and a little paint and a few pennies! This week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to make the most "arty" things for the house you can ever imagine . . . how would you like to make rock candlesticks, for instance? And how would you like to have new and unusual curtains and shades that no one else in your town will have, shades that look and act like a milyun dollars, but aren't? And, oh, just lots of things that you can do in your spare time to make your house look gay and cheerful and new for spring! Better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet!

* * * *

Spring hats are as different in type as in material—it seems as though certain materials best fit certain types of hats, and these types, in turn, best fit the occasion for which they are designed.

I promised to show you the delightful afternoon hat of black picot, with Irish lace cockade held in place with a tiny black bow, and there it is, called a "Canotier" hat Then, above, the largest hat is red leghorn, called a "Shepherdess" hat, and crowned appropriately with a garland of green leaves. A ribbon of peau d'ange needs tie this hat to the head—and shades from pink to red!

Shading from gray to white, a "Toque" for street wear is made of peau d'ange satin. And the new "Tally Ho Cord" is used for the strictly sports hat of "polo" type, sketched below. Lovely?

Au revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: I read your column every day the first thing and have wanted to write and ask your advice but have been too timid to do so. I am past 55 years old—a veteran of two wars—was never married until 1916. A well-educated woman of several fine qualities and while I was in France she died in Texas. Since that war closed I have traveled, written for the papers and lectured over most of the world, besides every State of our country. If all the miles I have traveled were in a straight line, my friends tell me it would reach around the world 30 times. To tell you the truth, I believe I have seen as much of this beautiful world as any man living. I have no children, no debt, and am no spendthrift, no gambler, no grafter, and I have enough money with my Federal pension to live without work anywhere I wish—but not enough for two. I am not lazy. I would much rather work for nothing than to do nothing for pay. I am a Christian and believe the Bible is the Word of God. I believe that Christ enthroned in the human heart is a solution to all our troubles. We need a revival of Bible religion over all the world. We need law enforcement and more respect for authority. Home training on the part of fathers and mothers was never more needed than now. I believe I am a real man and a good American.

I am not happy. I want the love and companionship of some good woman of suitable age, who would depend on me for protection. I could wish that she possess the same qualities as myself or nearly so. People who marry must be "equally yoked" together or there is likely to be "war in the camp." I am wife-hunting, but I do not know how to find the one I want. I need help in this line. Can you help me? How shall I get acquainted? I am timid. To sit around in the lobby of big hotels and watch the women you can't tell who is married and who is not married. I see some who I believe would qualify but do not know how to get acquainted. Is it in good taste for a stranger to introduce himself to a lady? I believe there are hundreds of widows and maiden ladies who would marry if they found the right man. We are all human, but I confess that I am very backward in approaching ladies, for the reason, I guess, my home has been "too long on the road." I have decided to remain here until I find a wife. Can you help me? Do you think I should write to widows or maiden ladies asking for the privilege of meeting them with marriage in view? Please advise me in your published reply.

BASHFUL WIDOWER.

Well, spring is certainly here! We have this week received some three dozen letters from bachelors seeking wives, about a hundred from women remorseful that they spurned love's offers, not to mention a few boxes of posies from long-forgotten swains who once "rushed" us to night clubs and similar haunts. And now comes this soldier of fortune past the half-century mark, but still full of spring!

If we ran a matrimonial bureau we could soon retire. But we do not and so our one suggestion is that this sedate suitor forsake the hotel lobby for some nice boarding house such as widows seek. There he will have his hostess to start with, and her guests as runners-up. Somehow we fear the bright idea of introducing oneself in hotel lobbies might not be entirely the inspiration our Lochinvar believes. Ladies are still subject to shock. And hotel lobbyists introducing themselves might start a little unpleasantness.

Try the boarding house, D'Artagnan, and see what happens!

CAN YOUR SKIN FACE THE SUN?

YESTERDAY I urged each and every one of my readers to take advantage of every sunny day this spring season offers and get a full share of sunshine and fresh air, and I do hope that all of you are following this sound advice which I am sure your own physician would give you.

But I wonder how many feel as Mrs. M. P., who writes:

"I like to get outdoors and am already looking forward to spring sunshine, but I can see the handwriting on the wall—can your skin face the sun? The sun seems to show my skin up, if you know what I mean. It is a little rough and the pores are enlarged and the sun seems to advertise every imperfection. Please! What to do?"

* * * *

How well I know what Mrs. M. P. refers to. Bright sunshine does reveal the glaring imperfections of all badly groomed skins Sunlight has an X-raying effect on the skin. Dim, rose-colored lights give a flattering lie to the large-pored skin, but not so sunshine.

Examine Your Skin.

I am going to ask every reader to become her own beauty specialist. Of course, if you can afford a salon treatment, or wish to consult with a specialist in your favorite beauty rendezvous, that is a good plan. But for those who can not do this, take your hand mirror to a sunny window and study your skin. Are there any imperfections? Large pores, eruptions, little blackheads, stubborn things, marring an othewise lovely complexion? Blackheads and pimples, by the way, are often regarded as a sign of uncleanliness. Oh, I know that isn't fair, but it is so, nevertheless. Blackheads may indicate lack of external care, or improper internal functioning Diet and elimination are something to look into. And, of course, exercise is important, and rest.

A muddy, sallow skin may indicate that there's a constipation condition. This should be corrected, and must be, before the complexion can change for the better.

Study your skin in the sunlight. Adopt the right regimen to correct any imperfections, the proper external treatment and the necessary health measures. After a month or so I shall again ask you to take your hand mirror to a sunny window, and I am sure it will reveal a different story—a more beautiful one

I have a splendid general, balanced diet; a set of exercises and health rules which should interest you. You may also check the bulletins you may be interested in (only one check, please):

2. Counteracting Dryness.

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF April 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:35 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Curious influences will be in force on April 26 and it will greatly depend upon the individual whether the cards of fortune are to be played for success or failure. Much emotional activity, with either attendant irritability or unusual hilarity.

Children born on this April 26 will have careful, prudent natures, and will not be given to extravagant adventures—theirs will be a safety first policy all through life. They will be lacking in adaptability, and will seek well charted paths. They will be very affectionate.

Born on April 26 your personal qualifications include a broad outlook, a sense of humor and a sympathetic understanding of human nature. You exhibit at all times a willingness to learn. Not content to let well enough alone, you are always thinking and planning how to improve existing conditions. You are quick to adopt and to adapt, if it is to your benefit to do so.

You are capable of appreciating and understanding the artistic things of life, and you can revel in dreams of imagination. On the other hand, you are no fool in the business and commercial world, and you quickly desert your castles in the air when it is necessary to come to earth and to deal with the practical bread and butter side of life. There are few who have had the pleasure of "putting one over" on you. You are shrewd but never tricky. You want your share of the good things in life, but you only wish to gain them through honorable methods, and you only want that which you deserve. If you make silly mistakes, you never try to shift the blame on to other shoulders.

You have a sunny smile and optimistic temperament for "every day" use, but nature also gave you a spice of temper and a shadow of irritability to be used on occasion.

Successful people born April 26:
Benjamin F. Tracy, lawyer.
Charles F. Browne ("Artemus Ward"), humorist.
James P. Kimball, geologist.
Erminnie A. Smith, scientist.
Harvey Fisk, financier.
Henry Morgenthau, Ambassador to Turkey.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

IS it too late to set out evergreens?
WILLIAM F. U.

No; evergreens may be planted later than deciduous trees, but do not neglect to soak them with plenty of water daily for several weeks after they have been moved, because if the roots once dry out they can not be revived.

Please give me a list of shrubs or small trees that are thought to attract the birds, especially wrens and cardinals. MRS. L. D. McDONALD.

Sweet birch (Betula lenta), American larch (Larix laricina), bayberry (Myrica caroliniensis), smooth sumac (Rhus glabra), mountain ash (Sorbus Americana) and weigelia all furnish food for birds.

Please tell me the best soil in which to transplant a pandanus and a poinsettia. A. G. W.

The pandanus does best in a soil composed of good loam, sand and well-rotted manure in equal parts. This plant demands perfect drainage. The poinsettia does best in a soil that is rather heavy and one that retains moisture. The soil I mentioned above will do very well for the poinsettia.

Will the primrose, known as the primula obconica, be apt to do well in a cold, but rather sunny room?
MRS. JOHN D. L.

Yes.

May I sow annuals in May where they are supposed to flower?
JENNIE D. S.

Most hardy annuals may be sown early in May.

I will be unable to reach my summer home before the middle of May this year. I want to transplant a magnolia and some rose of Sharon bushes. Will the 15th of the month be too late to do this work?
MRS. GEORGE F. A.

The shrubs you mention can be moved with perfect safety the middle of May, provided you dig them with a solid ball of earth about their roots

I have a most beautiful magnolia tree which I brought from Florida last year. I have kept it all this time in a lawn tub. Now it has outgrown its quarters. What do you suggest? Is it hardy? MARGARET E. W.

Better plant your magnolia tree in some sunny place on your lawn. Unless I know the variety, I can not say whether it will prove hardy in your locality.

Please tell me about the care of peonies. I am especially interested in they way they should be watered while their buds are developing.
SARA D. B.

Peonies require an abundance of water while the buds are being formed in May. A spray of 1 pound of bluestone and 1 pound of lime to 50 gallons of water, applied when the buds are the size of buckshot, is said to prevent blight, and early applications of bonemeal will supply nourishment. Wood ashes are good, but should be kept 2 or 3 inches from the crowns. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, we will be glad to send you a leaflet on the care of peonies.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Here's a darling frock of navy blue and white polka-dotted crepe silk.

Don't you think it is unusually attractive?

It's really very simple—a little molded bodice with dropped shoulders that form cap sleeves, and a straight, slim skirt. Inverted plaits at either side of the front and at either side of the back, kick out prettily in motion.

A wee frill finishes the smartly shaped white crepe collar.

Style No. 2664 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39-inch material, with ¾ yard of 39-inch contrasting

Beautiful styles covering the complete range for the woman, miss, child and the stout, articles showing what hats will be worn, hairdressing hints, afternoon wear, subdeb frocks, &c., &c.

It points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

MR. TAYLOR'S SLAM CONTRACT.

THERE are Contract players who always add the spice of the dramatic and the sauce of the spectacular to their bidding. Two of these—so a correspondent tells me—are Messrs. Tommy Hall and Gordon Taylor, favorite partners, who play at the National Club, Toronto, Canada. Each has a different system, varied, according to their friends, from time to time, so that neither they nor their opponents understand what it is all about. Mr. Taylor uses the Approach-Forcing System sometimes, and Mr. Hall sticks to his own system of bidding all the time. Rarely do they fail to arrive at a game contract, if one of them opens the bidding.

North—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable; part-score—60.

Mr. Hall, sitting North, having an Ace, a King and two Queens, made a typical bid of one notrump. Mr. Taylor modestly responded with two hearts, this being sufficient for game and rubber. Mr. Hall, holding three of his partner's hearts to the King, bid three hearts, and Mr. Taylor accepted the Slam invitation by bidding six hearts.

The conversation: Mr. Taylor (when Dummy's hand went down): "—!"

Mr. Hall: "Well, how did I know we had 60 on? I'm not keeping score. Anyway, I didn't ask you to bid a Slam."

The Play: The club Queen was opened, won by South, followed by two more rounds of clubs, the third being ruffed by South; then the Ace and a low heart were led, won by Dummy with the King. The diamond Queen followed, and Mr. Taylor was quite perceptibly happier when the King was located in the right place. On the succeeding three leads of diamonds, West discarded three low spades, but to no avail, as he was thrown in with a heart and forced to lead away from the spade King. Mr. Hall's system was again vindicated!

"Well, Gordon, what's the matter with that bidding? Would you arrive at a Slam with your Culbertson System?"

Mr. Taylor, with becoming modesty, pointed out that the Slam might have been defeated, but for the fact that the trumps were divided 3-2; that West had only three clubs; that East held the King of diamonds; that West had both the third trump and the King of spades, and that South played the hand to perfection by ruffing a club on the third trick.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The success of an inaccurately bid contract should not encourage the player to believe that the fates will always be kind. Small Slams should be bid when the chance of success or failure is about even. A sure game should not be sacrificed for a greater uncertainty.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

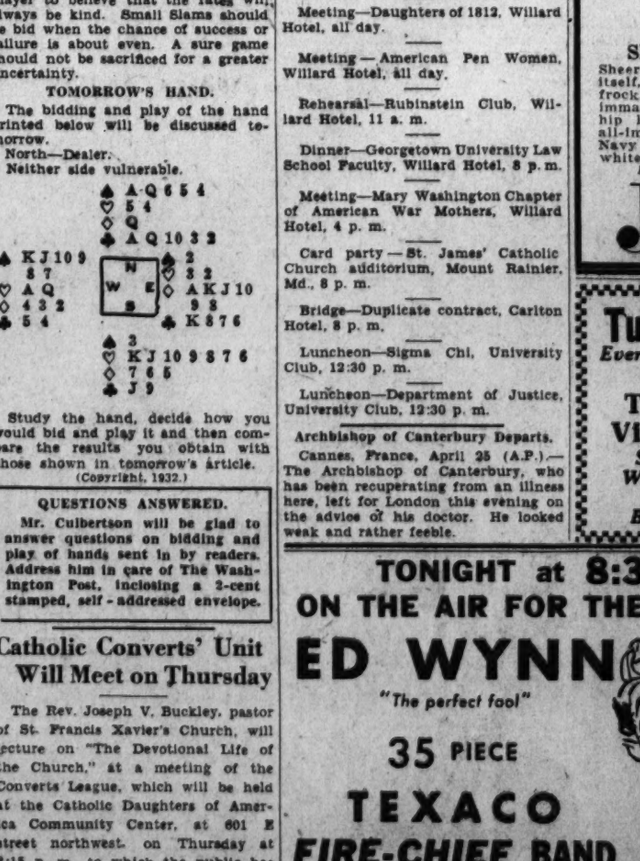
The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

North—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 2-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PRESS SERVICE HELD UNSCATHED IN CRISIS

Ogden Mills and Kent Cooper Address A. P. Board on Financial Problems.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The newspapers of America "have not shirked their duty to the public of publishing the news in adequate form," in spite of present conditions, Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, said today in his annual report to the board of directors of the association.

"To maintain the standards reached in recent years all publishers have had to sustain severe losses," Mr. Cooper said. "Although advertising revenues have fallen off tremendously, circulation has not decreased materially. Sustained circulations in such times show that newspapers have established themselves as a necessity.

"Each community requires a complete supply of intelligence, more necessary in times of depression, perhaps, than in a prosperous era. To dig themselves out of depression people must think and they can not think unless they are reliably informed. Newspapers have carried on admirably and they have been aided to some extent in doing so, in spite of heavy losses, through increasing reliance upon the Associated Press."

Factors in Recovery.

In reviewing the work of the Associated Press Mr. Cooper called attention to developments in both the domestic and foreign fields.

Credit and confidence were described as the prime factors in economic recovery today by Secretary Mills of the Treasury, who praised administration activity for the "average American man and woman" in an address at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press.

"I am talking," he said, "about the work we have performed to save the average American man and woman, the average citizen in this country, to protect him in his business activity and to protect him from being deprived of the use of his savings. * * *

Antihoarding Drive Cited.

"I am talking about the unknown men that some people do not know about."

In presenting statistics outlining the efforts of the Government the Treasury chief said "from the standpoint of bringing greater relief and protection to more individuals needing protection passage of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has done more good than any other measure suggested by any one."

He said 86.4 per cent of the banks aided by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were in towns of less than 25,000.

Results of the antihoarding campaign coupled with additional activity indicate clearly, Mr. Mills said, that there is a "definiate, if gradual," return of confidence.

Ministers' Parley In Final Sessions

Drew University Professor Leads Interdenominational Conference.

The Interdenominational Pastors Conference will continue for its second and last day's sessions at Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church today, under auspices of the Washington Federation of Churches and American University.

Led by Dr. Lynn H. Hough, professor of homiletics at Drew University, Madison, N. J., the conference is discussing the basic problem: "What is the task of the local church?"

The program this morning will start with devotions led by the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, pastor of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church. There will be a discussion period led by the Rev. John C. Millian, director of religious education of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and participated in by Dr. Hough. The morning session will close with an address by Dr. Hough at noon.

Members of the conference including ministers from Washington and nearby communities will take lunch at the American University dining hall, and the sessions will close during the afternoon with a final address by Dr. Hough.

United Typothetae Speakers Listed

150 Executives Expected at Sessions Thursday and Friday.

Final plans have been made for the midyear meeting of the United Typothetae of America, which will take place at the Willard Hotel Thursday and Friday for a series of important business discussions, John V. Deviny, of Washington, and secretary of the U. T. A., announced. Approximately 150 executives of the association are expected to be present for the meeting, it is understood.

Local men who will take part in the discussions are: William J. Eynon, president of the Typothetae of Washington, who will make the welcoming address; Philip P. Gott, United States Chamber of Commerce, who will speak on "Trade Association Responsibilities and Opportunities in 1932," and Oscar T. Wright, who will discuss the international activities of the organization.

Current trade problems, their solution through cooperation, will be the general subject of discussion, with special talks on "Typothetae at Work" and "The Printing Industry Today" by officers of the U. T. A.

Tuberculosis Institute To Hold Opening Today

The tuberculosis institute, to open today and continue through tomorrow at the headquarters of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society in the Albee Building, will be in charge of Mrs. Violet H. Hodgson, former supervisor on tuberculosis of the Visiting Nurse Association of New Haven, Conn., it was announced yesterday.

The institute will be held under auspices of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing. Charles W. Pimper, chairman of the public health committee of the local society, will introduce Mrs. Hodgson.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN Mr. Carl Laemmle, pere, gets an idea, that idea may be said to have been very, very thoroughly got!

For instance, Mr. Carl Laemmle, pere, now has the idea that in "The Doomed Battalion" he has at least another "All Quiet on the Western Front." So he plans to stop at nothing and practically isn't!

On Friday evening of the current week, "The Doomed Battalion" will be given its world premiere in the Rialto Theater in this city, thus temporarily sidetracking the new policy of stage attractions, consisting of "name" acts, that has got off to a reasonably flying start these three weeks it has been tried.

The current bill at the Rialto, as I understand it, will close its run Friday at 6:30 p. m. The house will be closed at that hour until 8:30, when the thoroughly gala goings-on—searchlights, motion picture and still cameras; the political, social and professional elite of the Capital present as invited guests and all of the customary trimmings of such events as they are celebrated in Hollywood—will begin.

The world premiere is not to be a private, invitational affair from which the general public will be excluded. On the contrary, the house will be sold Friday night strictly upon a reserved seat basis. Prices, as they have been sketchily outlined to me, will range from $1 to $3.

I am given to understand, further, that Mr. Carl Laemmle, pere, feels so positively that "The Doomed Battalion" is the greatest picture so far to come out of the war that he will be immeasurably disappointed if it fails to play to capacity for at least three weeks on Ninth street.

Upon the conclusion of the run of the "Battalion" it is the present intention to resume the combination screen and stage policy which has brought us the Tashmans, the Mackaills, the McLaglens and the Judelses.

Louise Cromwell, the little linegirl of Fanchon & Marco's "Nursery Rhymes" Idea, who was suddenly stricken so seriously ill that an emergency operation was necessitated last week, is convalescing satisfactorily at George Washington University Hospital, it is a pleasure to report. It is expected that she will be able to leave for her home in Los Angeles in about ten days.

In the meantime, Miss Cromwell is being cheered on to victory by the members of the current "Greetings" Idea, at the Fox, and officials of the theater.

Ralph Bellamy and Marian Nixon have been assigned to the leading roles in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," the Fox picture now in production, since we are so close to the subject even if not actually on it. Originally, Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor were cast for these parts, but have been transferred, instead, to the leads in "The First Year," a camera-and-microphoning of the famous stage play by Frank Craven.

---

It is barely possible, come to think of it, that there may be a slight and purely temporary revision downward in this column's zest for volume these next few days. The doctor has discovered that I have a nerve! You probably knew it all along.

---

According to the last census, upward of 5,000 letters have been received here so far by Arthur Tracy, "The Street Singer," of radio fame, making his first local stage appearance in person at the Palace this week. The majority of them are requests for certain songs. Then, of course, there are the others!

In addition to his five stage shows daily—four is the usual number, except on Saturdays and holidays—the favorite of the ether also is broadcasting five times this week through WMAL. He is a Columbia artist.

Do you realize that this counts up to 35 or 40 songs a day? Enough to blast any singer's vocal cords, if too enthusiastically persisted in.

It is the perpetually thoughtful and ever helpful Mr. Ray Henderson, most alert of the theater's publicists, who advises from the Harris Theater in Chicago that Katharine Cornell announces she will extend her tour in Rudolf Besier's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" to include California. Following her current engagement in the Harris Theater in Chicago, she will appear in St. Louis, Kansas City, Los Angeles and San Francisco. She will open her Los Angeles visit on Tuesday night, May 31, and will be seen only in that city and San Francisco on the Pacific Coast.

She will end her season in the latter city and then will take a long vacation, which she plans to spend in Austrian Tyrol, before she returns to the New York stage next winter.

Miss Cornell has extended her Chicago engagement one week. In addition to the several records "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" has established in cities on Miss Cornell's tour, it now holds the record of Detroit theaters, as Miss Cornell's week in the Cass Theater there brought more money to the box office than any other attraction, dramatic or musical, ever has taken in Detroit in eight performances at the Cornell scale of prices.

From the standpoint of appeal at the box office, this is one of the miracle plays of all time!

In other columns of today's issue of The Post, I am confident will be found something of the dinner given in the Hotel Shoreham last evening in observance of the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary of Col. William Harriman Rapley, whose name is inseparably linked with the distinguished history of the National Theater in this city.

It is one of the keenest regrets of a good many years of writing in and about the theaters of Washington that a recalcitrant nervous organization denied this department the privilege of being among those present to pay the tribute of sincere regard to this genial and kindly gentlemen whom every one who knows him looks upon as friend.

My slightly twitchy but heartiest congratulations, Col. Rapley. May the years continue to open before you in a long and happy vista and yours always be the "two on the aisle."

Members of the United States Marine Corps stationed in Washington, together with their wives and families, will be guests of the Rialto management this evening to see Victor McLaglen, whose greatest screen triumphs have been in Leatherneck roles, and Charles Judels, appearing as a French sailor, in their explosive bit of nonsense called "West Is East."

Now I know what did it! It was Vic driving that blimp a week ago today. Omigosh!

GRAPE GROWERS ASK LIQUOR LAW CHANGE

Californians Seek Sale of Naturally Fermented Beverages.

San Francisco, April 25 (A.P.).—Representatives of 9,000 grape growers of California today unanimously adopted a program advocating revision of the eighteenth amendment to permit the sale of naturally fermented beverages.

The program, drafted by Donald D. Conn, managing director of the California Vineyardists Association, calls for a national liquor plan to permit restricted manufacture of wines for use in homes and hotels under certain supervisory conditions.

The use of fortifying material to increase the alcoholic content would be forbidden, limiting the strength to that produced by natural fermentation.

In his report, Mr. Conn declared the California grape growers had been "betrayed" by a reversal of policy on the part of the Government in prohibition enforcement under which wine-making in the home has been outlawed.

He asserted that for twelve years the Government had "approved and assisted the growing and sale of juice grapes for home wine-making," only to reverse itself under a court decision handed down by Federal District Judge Merrill E. Otis in Kansas City last November.

He asserted the present enforcement policy threatened disaster to the huge grape industry in California.

(Associated Press.)

Legalization of naturally fermented beverages, suggested by the director of the California Vineyardists Association, Donald D. Conn, met little favor yesterday with antiprohibitionists in Congress.

Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, chairman of the House wet bloc, expressed the view that "Congress will never agree to a change in the prohibition laws that favors one industry."

While House prohibition supporters remained silent on that proposal, Secretary Hyde and the office of Attorney General Mitchell denied Conn's statement that Fruit Industries, Ltd., manufacturers of a grape concentrate, "had its genesis as a result of conferences between the Department of Justice, the Treasury and the Department of Agriculture in Washington."

ANNUAL INSPECTION MADE AT ANNAPOLIS

Lankford, Member of House From Virginia, Is Head of Board of Visitors.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 25.—Representative Menalcus Lankford, of the Second Congressional District of Virginia, was elected chairman of the board of visitors to the Naval Academy which assembled here today for a four-day stay during which the annual inspections of the institution to determine its needs for the next academic term will be made. The board's report will be transmitted to Secretary of the Navy Adams and both houses of Congress.

The official group, which is composed of seven appointees of President Hoover, five senators and six representatives, members of the naval affairs committees of the respective branchs of Congress, settled to its task during the forenoon. The board was officially received by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy, and his academic staff officers at the Officers Club at 11 o'clock and immediately started on an inspection of Bancroft Hall, the midshipmen's dormitory and largest of the group of buildings, and the sick quarters, housed in the same structure.

With this over, the inspection officials were entertained at luncheon by Superintendent Hart, following which the first business meeting was held. Aside from the selection of Chairman Lankford, the group was divided into several subcommittees to facilitate the work of inspecting the academic departments.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the board witnessed a snappy infantry drill, and an hour later Admiral Hart gave a reception at his quarters in honor of the official party.

Katherine Thomas Engaged to Count

Oppersdorff Will Marry Boston Society Girl in Paris.

Boston, April 25 (A.P.).—The engagement of Miss Katherine Lyman Thomas, of Boston, to Count Mathias Oppersdorff, whose family estate is at Oberlogau, Upper Silesia, was announced today by Mrs. Robert H. Stevenson, of Boston, Miss Thomas' aunt.

Miss Thomas is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Douglas H. Thomas, of Baltimore, and Count Oppersdorff is the son of Count Jean Georges Oppersdorff and Countess Oppersdorff (Princess Radziwill). Miss Thomas made her debut here several years ago and is a member of the Vincent Club and the Junior League of New York. She has lived in Europe for almost two years. Last fall she was bridesmaid for her sister, Miss Rosamond Whitridge Thomas, who married Count Oppersdorff's brother, Count Edouard Opperadorff, at the home of her cousin, Ambassador John W. Garrett, of Capri, Italy.

The wedding will be in July, in Paris, at the home of Elbridge Gerry Chadwick, of New York. Miss Thomas' uncle, Count Oppersdorff has been decorated by Poland for his services during the formation of the country after the World War.

Film Firm to Fight Director in Court

Refusal of Von Sternberg to Make Picture to Be Contested.

Hollywood, April 25 (A.P.).—Paramount Studio, announcing it intended to find out whether persons under contracts "can do as they please," stated today it will resort to court action in a break with Josef Von Sternberg, noted director.

In the same announcement, which took Von Sternberg to task for walking out of the studio because it declined to accede to his wishes in the preparation of a new film for Marlene Dietrich, German star, the studio laid down a virtual ultimatum to the actress.

B. P. Schulberg, managing director, informed her that a new director, Richard Wallace, had been selected to lead her in the picture, "Blonde Venus," and told her that if she refused to proceed, legal steps will be taken "to protect our rights."

As Schulberg, veteran producer of the industry, made his declaration Von Sternberg was aboard a train speeding to New York. Miss Dietrich, while supporting the views of her director, remained in Hollywood and appeared at the studio today.

20,000 Forest Acres Burned in West Virginia

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 25—An estimated 20,000 acres of forest land was burned over by the first forest fire of the season in this section over the week-end, burning on a five-mile front across Sleepy Creek, west of here. Driven by a wind it sped its devastation until fire-fighter volunteers and a rainfall brought it under control yesterday after a 34-hour battle.

Authorities blame the origin of the fire on incendiaries on Sleepy Creek Mountain, where it was first noticed Saturday. Material burned was largely small underbrush and dried-out leaves.

State Police Rout Demonstators.

Indianapolis, April 25 (A.P.).—City and State police drove a band of demonstrators from the State House steps today when they assembled to protest against the continued imprisonment of Theodore Luesse, writer for a Communist newspaper. Luesse is serving a term at the penal farm on a charge of obstructing justice.

"TRIAL BY JURY" and "H. M. S. PINAFORE". The Civic Light Opera Company, Milton Aborn, managing director and stage manager; presents a Gilbert and Sullivan double bill. Reviewed by Elinor Brady.

| Bill, Boystay | Herbert Waterous |
| Josephine | Theo. Pennington |
| Little Buttercup | Fay Templeton |
| Hebe | Ethel Clark |

The Civic Light Opera Company, opened its week of Gilbert and Sullivan classics last evening with the favorite Gilbert and Sullivan double bill, with robust Fay Templeton and a splendid ensemble.

"Trial by Jury," of course, is satirical in essence; "Pinafore" essentially lyric. The two combine the best to be found in the entire Gilbert and Sullivan repertory. The gay Gilbertian satire, particularly of "Trial by Jury," portrays human nature and the trials and joys of love and of officialdom, in 1870 as being much the same as our own.

"Trial by Jury," nonsensical and frivilous, is sung in a consistently farcical mood that makes the simple episode of a trial of a breach of promise suit humorous and merry.

Theo Pennington, as the plaintiff, is striking in appearance and sings with ease and finesse. She has a facile control of pitch, decisive soprano tones, poise and grace. Frank Moulan handles the role of judge with skillful interpretation, particularly in the rendition of the "Judge's Song," in which he would delight the heart of Gilbert himself with the way he mouths the sophisticated wit of the author's lines. The other male voices also are good and the chorus is not only competently vocal, but extremely pretty, as well. The acting is surprisingly good. Costuming is in the courtly manner and the settings in a British court of jurisprudence true to form, although there are moments when the stage seems a trifle crowded.

The old reliable "H. M. S. Pinafore" brings back a perennial and popular favorite in Fay Templeton of ready wit, and of "plump and pleasing personality," who more than ever holds her audience. William Danforth, as Dick Deadeye, is the villain who attempts to foil the romance on board the good ship Pinafore. He sings in a hearty manner and interprets his role humorously. Ethel Clark is a particularly dainty and attractive little echo of the Right Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., first lord of the admiralty. This pompous individual is characterized by Frank Moulan in a well-modulated bass and with his unctuous humor. Howard Marsh is the gallant young seaman handling a tenor role earnestly and particularly well in the duets with Josephine, the captain's daughter, of whom he is enamoured. Josephine is sung by Theo Pennington.

Fay Templeton, as Little Buttercup, injects both the humorous and the pathetic note into the romance. The chorus of fifteen male voices commands several encores and is supplemented by an ensemble of noteworthy feminine pulchritude.

The music of "Pinafore" is melodious, lilting; in changing mood, sometimes merry and light, again vigorous and masculine. The simple romance of the captain's daughter, wooed by the first lord of the admiralty and in love with the lowly seaman, takes a final moralistic turn that smacks rather more smartly of the remote 1870's than the present 1930's.

| Marie Pouliski | Kathryn Givney |
| Mike Feeny | Burke Clarke |
| Gangster | Maurice Jarvis |
| Gangster | Karl Nielson |
| Chief Kelly | John Kline |

This Edgar Wallace drama, satirical in vein, offers a splendid piece of material for a half dozen of the National Players, who further endeared themselves to Capital audiences last night with performances that fully justified the curtain calls they received.

"On the Spot," in its first Washington presentation, displayed early the reason for its New York success and, despite its somber beginning and its rather ghastly climax, which, however, is to be anticipated, is thoroughly entertaining.

Dealing with the whims and fancies of a gangster chief in Chicago, his affairs of the heart, his business dealings, his overwhelming egotism, "On the Spot" has plenty of amusement in it. Mr. Wallace apparently was shooting at certain figures prominent in the headlines of the Nation when he wrote the play and his pen cut deeply into the superficial glamour with which beer barons and whisky runners have been cloaked by American sentimentalism.

There is a rich brand of humor woven into the story and it crops out even in the most serious situations just in time to save the play from becoming one of the old-style melodramas.

Tony Perrelli lives like a king in his palatial apartment. There with him is Minn Lee, his Chinese-American "wife." He plays soft music on the organ for her while outside on the streets his gunmen slay rival gangsters. He sends a floral "harp" to Shaun O'Donnell, whom he has just had killed. The other gang leader calls for vengeance. So Tony promptly puts two of his own men "on the spot" to wipe the slate clean. Also, that he may take the woman of one of them. Then he tries to send Minn Lee to manage one of his houses in Cicero, only to put his hands in a pair of handcuffs for something he never did.

Donald Woods does a dandy job as Tony, except for a slip now and then from Italian into British accent, but he shares honors in the piece with Leona Powers, as Minn Lee, and Kathryn Givney, as Marie, Con O'Hara's girl. They are the only two feminine characters, but both are perfect in extremely difficult roles; Miss Powers as the suffering mistress who sees her man leaving her for another but still loving him and Miss Givney as the hard-boiled moll who goes to the man who can give her the most.

Owen Davis, jr., as Jimmy McGarth, collegian gone wrong but repentant, who pays with his life to satisfy Tony's debt to the other gang, has an appealing role, well played. John Kline, as Chief Kelly, of the detective bureau, and playing the part he had in the New York presentation of the play, looks and acts the role to perfection. Forrest Orr adds much humor to the offering as Tony's right hand man, Angelo, as does Raymond Bramley as O'Hara, loud-mouthed New York gunman imported by Tony. There's another hearty laugh in every appearance of Burke Clarke as Mike Feeny, head of the other gang. He is auspicious even of himself.

A brief prologue showing a gangster dying without divulging the names of his slayers lends proper atmosphere to the play. Well staged, even with only one setting, and delightfully enacted. "On the Spot" may be recommended for an evening's fun and relaxation.

GAYETY

"RAINEY 'DAISIES." Columbia Burlesque, featuring Nora Ford, Lola Pierce, Ann Meyers, "Boob" Blake, Hap Hyatt and Lew Petel. Reviewed by W. L. Wright.

The members of the "Rainey Daisies" Company deserve high praise for the splendid show they offer, in view of the serious automobile accident Sam Raynor, leading comedian, and Anna Meyers, prima donna, were in only a few days ago. Sam is in a Baltimore hospital suffering from six broken ribs and a crushed chest. Miss Meyers, following the best traditions of seasoned troupers, is carrying on in spite of a badly injured leg and three stitches in her cheek. Her performance last night was nothing short of remarkable.

The absence of Sam Raynor made necessary an almost complete revision of this show and the substitution of "Boob" Blake and Hap Hyatt in the fun roles. This pair, with the aid of Lew Petel, to feed the lines, do not labor in vain as the many laughs bear testimony.

Singing the blues as only she can, Nora Ford was the sensation of this presentation. In a becoming outfit of orange and black, the "Songstress of the South" put over her numbers to score a big hit. Be sure to see Nora!

Lovely Lola Pierce, Charlotte La Burr and Jean Gaskell loaned their charms to the festivities and were the recipients of much well-deserved applause. Another who should be mentioned is Bee Keller. Her good work was much appreciated by the customers down front.

JOHNSON, HOPES HIGH, SEES DECLINE OF MACKMEN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

IT is both meet and proper that the Army-Navy football game of 1932 be played in Washington this fall, and the gentlemen in Congress who are taking steps to force the issue are doing a threefold service.

The direct beneficiaries will be the respective academies, which are itching to resume their sports rivalry but are kept far apart by quibbling over eligibility rules; the football hungry fans of the Capital who have witnessed few major league grid attractions here, and the Bicentennial Sports Commission, which, through its share of revenue that would be derived from the game, could proceed with extensive plans for free athletic shows here during the summer.

If Washington as the seat of the Nation's Capital is not the logical site of the game, or if there is any other reason why the two service academies should not play here, then George Washington was a British spy.

Assignment of the game to Washington calls for a great alignment of influence which must be capped by the assent of President Hoover, in whose power it is to direct the two academies to play.

Unless there are congressional or other high political intermediaries, Annapolis and West Point are well prepared to let the 1932 clash go by the boards. They are still far apart over the eligibility matters, and neither school has shown a great willingness to make concessions. For two seasons they did not meet, and they resumed only at the behest of charity in 1930 and 1931.

Representatives Britten and Bankhead have given evidence that they intend to urge strenuously the assignment of the game to the Capital, and the Washington football-going public and the Bicentennial Commission have two powerful friends in these gentlemen.

It can not be easily forgotten how, in 1926, Representative Britten, as chairman of the House naval affairs committee, overcame a thousand obstacles and transplanted the annual contest to Chicago, transporting the entire regiments of cadets halfway across the continent to keep up the best traditions of the game.

An Army-Navy game in Washington this fall would have particular significance in a Bicentennial year. It is not hard to recall to memory that George Washington was the first commander in chief of both the Army and Navy, the father of both services as it were.

Washington presents opportunities for more pageantry than has ever embellished a football clash between the two service academies. The presence of the President would be virtually a foregone conclusion. Official, legislative, judicial and diplomatic life of the Nation would turn out in greater force than at any other Army-Navy battle. The presence of foreign ambassadors and ministers would lend a new and pleasing note.

The Capital has never been witness to an Army-Navy game. New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago have been host to these memorable contests. No city, however, has a greater claim on the game than Washington, where the national significance could be better appreciated than in any other city.

Due to the lack of funds, the hands of the Bicentennial Sports Commission, which has planned a summer of free shows for visiting hosts, are tied. A share of the receipts of an Army-Navy game here would solve the financial problem for the commission.

The Bicentennial Sports Commission's program does not provide for revenue-producing events. Such affairs as water carnivals and the President's Cup regatta, polo matches and track meets are not calculated to approach paying their own way. Funds are imperative if the program is not to collapse.

If the efforts to bring the game here which have been instituted by Dr. George C. Havenner, executive chairman of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, are fruitful, Dr. Havenner will have achieved one of the outstanding items in the annals of civic enterprise in the District.

Sonnenberg Winner on Tackle

Martin Defeated as 1,500 See Bolling Field Feature.

Cordovano, Winters in Sensational Draw; Pojello Wins.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

TWO fat gents named Gus Sonnenberg and Bull Martin aimed flying tackles at each other last night at one and the same time. It startled Bolling Field's first capacity crowd, since it was one of the first times on record where there was evidence of two complete thoughts in a wrestling ring at the same time. The old record was one, and a mat referee.

Sonnenbergs' tackle "took." The great simultaneous thinking and tackling act came after 25 minutes and a few unimportant seconds. Mister Martin had been hurled up against the rubber-band ropes by Mister Sonnenberg from about the center of the ring. Martin hit the ropes, bent them out to about the fourth row of the 82 customers, whirled around and was hurled back, with head lowered and lumbering along at about 7 miles an hour.

Just as he started back Sonnenberg dived. His head hit Martin's middle just below the center of gravity and lifted that worthy completely off the ground. He turned a somersault in the air and landed on his back. Sonnenberg strolled back and sat on him.

Martin Burlesque In Evidence.

The garrulous burlesque of every Martin match was present throughout. The belligerent Bool once sent Referee Billy Jones sprawling with a flying butt, and "mugged" him on another occasion.

Sonnenberg, looking more and more like a rassler, and less and less like the college boy, was the aggressor throughout and probably deserved to win.

The rabid fans wanted to fight Martin, and if they had belonged to the show they could not have done better. One had to be held at bay by anxious friends, while another stretched into the ring and tried to trip up the good Dr. Martin in the name of fair play.

Karl Pojello won a cut-and-dried 12-minute decision over Clivio Massimo, but Sam Cordovano and Danny Winters earned a tremendous ovation in a 30-minute draw, which was terminated as Winters picked up the unbeaten (in Washington) former Georgetowner and commenced the first few twirls of the generally fatal airspin.

Russian in 30-Minute Show.

Ivan Vacturoff, a 220-pounder with a rassler's body and a clown's sense of pantomime, put on a 30-minute show with Marvin Westenberg. Some of the more edifying moments of this scramble found Westenberg herding the protesting Russian around the ring with beautiful kicks to Serge Vacturoff's red pants, and a similar act in which each stepped on the other's toes. An M. P. had to subside Vacturoff after the match.

Pete Dallas and Frank Wycoff won the other matches, beating Bob Grant and Bob Wilkie, respectively, in 13 and 20 minutes, or something.

Curles Neck Farm Sold To Sportsmen's Group

Richmond, Va., April 25 (A.P.).—The sale of Curles Neck Farm, James River estate, to a syndicate of capitalists and sportsmen, who will breed race horses and polo ponies, was made public today.

R. M. Pettit, of New York, heads the syndicate, and is associated with Dan Runkle, a nationally known polo player and sportsman, also of New York. A third member of the syndicate, whose name was not made public, was said to live in Baltimore.

The estate was sold for a sum said to be in excess of $500,000.

Curles Neck Farm, an estate of 5,000 acres on which stands a handsome colonial mansion, embraces 1,000 acres of hunting marsh and 1,000 acres in timber.

White House Is Scene of Net Draw

Hoover to Officiate at U. S.-Canada Davis Cup Ceremony.

Canadians Work Out at Chevy Chase as Americans Rest.

PRESIDENT HOOVER will greet the Davis Cup players of Canada and the United States at high noon today at the White House, and dip a hand into a hat, a bowl or anything else that is handy, and draw out the names of the world-known tennis stars who begin play Thursday afternoon at the Chevy Chase Club in the first round of the American zone play.

With the arrival of Bernon S. Prentice, America's nonplaying captain yesterday, Davis Cup plans begin to gather momentum. Coincident with the arirval, George Meldrum, veteran president of the Canadian Tennis Association and well known throughout the world as a tennis father, sent his men through vigorous elimination work-outs, to be used as the basis of his team selections.

Rainville Scores Over Nunns.

Through intermittent showers yesterday Marcel Rainville, most electrifying of the Canadians, defeated Gilbert Nunns, crack former Canadian junior champion 6—3, 6—4, 6—4, in a bitter battle which further established Rainville's right as a member of the team. Late yesterday afternoon Dr. Jack Wright—whose place on the team already is assured—matched his classic strokes against those of Canada's newest net marvel, Walter Martin. This morning at 10 o'clock Rainville will take on Martin, but, overlooking a stunning rise in Martin's efficiency, the singles players who will combat America this week-end are likely to be Rainville and Wright.

With six solid weeks of tennis packed into them, America's able-bodied group spent an easy day. Ellsworth Vines went to a movie, while John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison played a soggy round of golf. Van Ryn and Allison, old friends of the Canadian players, jibed them from the sidelines as Wright and Martin played. Just as they came in from their golf and drew near the court, Wright swept a beautiful backhand drive down the line and then shouted to the Americans that he had done it simply to throw terror into them.

Shields to Arrive Today.

Shields is expected at this club this morning, an arrival which will complete the list of players named a month ago by the Davis Cup committee as fit defenders of America's laurels in the first round of play.

Some time last night Capt. Prentice decided upon his choices, both in singles and doubles. The American leader said yesterday that as yet he did not know who would play singles, but at the same time he praised the recent play of Allison and Vines as superb.

"Allison is almost '15' better than he was last year," Prentice, bundled in a great coat, said. "His defeat of Shields, 6—1, 6—2, 6—1, all but represented the real difference between the two players. Of course, Vines is great. Van Ryn has for the time lost confidence in his ground strokes and Shields is a bit under par, but that should be ironed away by the end of the week."

The Davis Cup captain described the play of Vines and Shields as a doubles team by stating, "They play very good singles on the doubles court."

Vines, Other U. S. Stars May Invade Europe Early

Intimation that the Davis Cup team which will meet Canada this week-end at the Chevy Chase Club—Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn and Frank Shields—will not remain intact as play continues in the American zone, was expressed yesterday by Bernon S. Prentice, nonplaying captain of the native net forces:

Vines and several other players, possibly Gregory Mangin, national indoor champion, and Sidney B. Wood, jr., Wimbledon champion, may be sent abroad by the American division of the international play committee in the near future, to compete in the French championships and at Wimbledon, thus returning the visits of French and British players to these shores last summer and this winter.

If successful against Canada, America next meets Mexico in New Orleans, and if again victorious prob-

BARRY AND BROWN TO COLLIDE

Rosenbloom Bout Is Goal in Portner's Feature Tonight.

By JACK ESPEY.

NATIE BROWN and Reds Barry, whose names are synonymous with big "gates" at Portner Arena, collide again tonight in the Alexandria ring in an effort to decide an argument begun last January. They've been assigned eight rounds in the feature spot of a 30-round program by the Day Nursery Athletic Association. The first preliminary opens at 8:30.

The winner will be regarded the best heavyweight in the fightless District of Columbia, a doubtful honor at the most, but still an honor in the minds of the two rivals. Both have defeated Marty Gallagher, pride of Foggy Bottom, and in their January clash finished all even after eight rounds.

Tonight's bout has the experts guessing overtime. No one knows what to expect other than a hard fight. Both boys have flashed improved form since their last meeting and can not afford to lose.

Barry Seeks Chance At Rosenbloom.

Barry goes into the brawl mindful of a chance to engage Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion, at Twin City Arena next month. He also is fully aware that defeat will kill that chance.

Brown, who enjoys something of a national reputation and who has won five straight bouts since January, knows that his prestige will decline in the event he loses to a comparative unknown, as Barry is classed.

Physically, they are about on a par. Both stand about 6 feet, weigh close to 190 and are young and durable. Barry is the speedier, while Brown has the edge in experience. Brown probably is the stronger puncher.

The semifinal and prelims are attractive. Joe Fino, Mexican bantam sensation, meets Harry Groves, tough little Baltimorean, in the six-rounder next to the final. Fino comes highly recommended on the strength of a pair of wins over Frankie Murray, veteran Los Angeles scrapper. Groves is considered hardy enough to extend him and possibly may land a kayo punch.

Litton to Test Young Van.

Ray Litton and Young Van, middleweights, loom best of the four-round boys. Litton, determined to redeem himself for a knockout suffered at the hands of Henry Irving in March, is out to snap Van's winning streak, which covers five bouts. Van, never having tasted defeat, unquestionably faces the hardest test of his short

Alumni Track Cups Spur Badger Team

Madison, Wis., April 16 (A.P.).—Outside of winning conference titles, University of Wisconsin track men value most highly the capture of an "events trophy."

These trophies, bronze plaques, are donated by Badger stars of other years and awarded annually to the best performers in the various specialties. The first was put in competition in 1925.

Only two of the donors belong to classes later than 1917, and many are still holders of the university record in their events.

Brown, of Indians, Yields Only 6 Hits

Vosmik and Ferrell Clout Homers as St. Louis Loses, 10-5.

St. Louis, April 25 (A.P.).—Clint Brown held St. Louis to six hits as the Cleveland Indians took the second of the series with the Browns, 10 to 5, in the only American League game played today.

Ferrell slapped out a homer in the second for the initial score of the day and to give the Browns a good start, but St. Louis was having a poor time both in pitching and hitting. For the rest of the contest the Lndians held a lead. Vosmik contributed a home run in the seventh, so that the teams divided four-base honors.

WALK IN 12TH LOSES FOR BRAVES

Cantwell Forces in Winning Run for Phillies, 4-3.

BOSTON, April 25 (A.P.).—Losing his control after two were out in the twelfth inning, Relief Pitcher Ben Cantwell walked Pinch-hitter Douglas Taitt to force in the winning run and give the Phillies a hard-earned 4 to 3 victory over the Braves today.

Left on bases—Philadelphia, 16; Boston, 11. First base on balls—Off Collins, 3; off Nichols, 2; off Zachary, 5; off Cantwell, 3. Struck out—By Collins, 6; by Zachary, 2; by Cantwell, 2. Hits—Off Collins, 13 in 11 innings; off Nichols, 1 in 1 inning; off Zachary, 12 in 10 innings; off Cantwell, 1 in 2 innings. Winning pitcher—Collins. Losing pitcher—Cantwell.

Foe's Poor Putting Aids Wales to Win in Golf

Walton Heath, England, April 25 (U.P.).—Playing as an hereditary member of the House of Lords, the Prince of Wales won today in the second round of the parliamentary golf handicap. He eliminated A. Bray, London editor, 4 and 3. The prince had drawn a first round bye.

Hope that Wales and Lady Astor would meet ended when the latter was eliminated, 2 down, by Capt. Arthur Hope after having scored a brilliant first round victory.

The prince played steadily, but well might have lost had it not been for Bray's miserable putting. Wales was three up at the turn, four up on the eleventh, and after losing the twelfth, regained a four-hole advantage on the fourteenth. He halved the fifteenth to win the match.

He will meet Harcourt Johnson in the third round.

Mrs. Moody Sails Soon For Foreign Campaign

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, intent on regaining her French and Wimbledon tennis titles, arrived in New York today en route to Paris, checked in at her hotel and then went shopping.

Mrs. Moody sails for Paris Wednesday on the Aquitania and will compete in the French hard court championships May 22-June 5. Unless she changes her mind she will not play in any minor tournaments.

Nats' Manager Asserts A's Dangerous, But Weaker; Praises Weaver's Hurling

Heady Work in Box Is Great Factor in Rookie's Success.

Crowder Due to Face Pennock Today in New York Game.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Yankee management, like that of the Philadelphia Athletics, does not need much of an excuse to call off ball games. Although folks on the streets were wandering about this morning without feeling the need of overcoats, word was received at the Washington club's headquarters here that it was too cold for baseball, and so the athletes were given a notice of an afternoon off. Conveniently for many of them, word of the postponement was received at noon, giving them plenty of time to hustle to the Jamaica race track to try to pick up an honest dollar or two.

Manager Walter Johnson and a group apent most of the afternoon lounging around the hotel lobby and raving over the fine pitching of Monte Weaver. "I've said from the first that Monte was a real pitcher," said the Nat pilot, "and it looks like I'm right for a change. It isn't that Weaver has so much stuff, although he has plenty, but it is the fact that he is cool and collected and uses his head out there that makes him a handy man to have around. Some pitchers get panicky when they see a star hitter come to the plate with men on bases, but Weaver doesn't and that's why I'm predicting great things for him.

Pitches to Batter's Weakness.

"He doesn't suddenly forget how to pitch to these good batters, but simply tightens up his belt, bears down and pitches to their weakness. A fellow that does that will go a long ways in baseball, mark my words."

Weaver, by the way, is the first player the Nationals have ever gotten from George Weiss, now business manager of the Yankee chain store baseball system, who has ever made good at Washington. More than a score have been bought from Weiss, while he was first at New Haven and later at Baltimore, but every one failed to make the grade.

But the Nationals will be satisfied if Monte continues to show even approximately the form which has marked his play since reporting to Manager Johnson. His victory yesterday was his fourth in as many starts since donning Nat livery, for he won his major league debut last fall in the only assignment he drew. And the fact that two of his 1932 victories were over the Athletics makes his showing all the more spectacular.

Crowder-Pennock On Mound Today.

"General" Alvin Crowder, scheduled to have pitched this afternoon for Washington, will carry on tomorrow, with the veteran southpaw, Herb Pennock, expected to oppose him on the mound. Although beaten twice this season, Alvin pitched fine ball and the dope indicates that he will give the slugging Yanks plenty of trouble.

This baseball is a hard game to dope out and under the "Strange As It Seems" heading comes the statement that the Mackmen have received the poorest pitching of any team in the American League so far this season. In their recent series with the Yankees, Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw, Mack's big three, all were knocked out, while the Nationals have impressively beaten Walberg, Earnshaw and Mahaffey.

Regarding Earnshaw, the chances are that he did not work hard enough at spring training. He did all of his conditioning at Hot Springs, Ark., where there was no one to see that he did sufficient work. He pitched but three innings prior to joining the Athletics at Philadelphia for the city series which started in early April.

Mack's Hurlers Must Get Going Soon, Is Johnson's Belief.

A's Lack Old Spirit; Sees Nats Better Than Yanks.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, April 25 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics will have to pull themselves together shortly or they will see the next world series from grand-stand seats, Walter Johnson declared today.

The manager of the Washington Club is cautious about counting the Macks out of the American League race. He has learned by bitter experience they won't "stay put." But he has hopes.

"A team that's been in the habit of winning like they have can't take a lot of beating," the Big Train explained. "Unless their pitchers get going right away and Mr. Mack gets his infield straightened out, they'll never beat us out this year. They can't win without Earnshaw and Grove at their best, and they can't win with those youngsters, Williams and McNair, on second and short.

Says Spirit Is Changed.

"Frankly, they looked mighty poor against us yesterday. Not at all like they did last year. It might be that the beating the Cardinals gave them in the world series had its effect. They don't seem to have the same spirit. Cochrane doesn't look so good behind the plate. His pitchers are allowing base runners to take long leads. Mickey has to hurry his pegs and it seems to have him rattled.

"Maybe they'll get going, though. It's dangerous to count out any team that has men like Grove, Earnshaw, Cochrane, Simmons and Foxx."

As for the Yankees, Johnson has plenty of respect for their hitting, but doesn't consider them as well balanced as his own club. He has a hunch his team has improved sufficiently to beat them out this year. He added:

"I don't believe McCarthy has the kind of pitching it takes to win a flag."

Johnson Elated With Pitching.

Much of Johnson's confidence in his club is based on the fine work of his flippers thus far. Alvin Crowder, Bob Burke, Carl Fischer and the Rookie Monte Weaver have turned in exceptional work.

"It looks like Crowder will have a big year," he said. Fischer is greatly improved, looks like a real winner, and Weaver has everything."

One of the luckiest breaks the Nats got, in Johnson's opinion, was the signing of Moe Berg as a free agent. He's given the team more punch behind the plate and is handling the pitchers in great style. The snappy play of the veteran Joe Judge around first base also has been very comforting.

"I gave that job to Joe Kuhel," Johnson said with a smile, "but Judge took it right away from him."

Ring Body Reaffirms Ban on Bat Battalino

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 25 (A.P.).—Reaffirming its indefinite suspension and $5,000 penalty against Bat Battalino, the Cincinnati Boxing Commission today knocked the supports from under a scheduled match between the former featherweight champion and Billy Petrolle at Chicago.

The match was to have been fought next month. While the suspension stands, however, Battalino can not set foot in a ring in territory under jurisdiction of the National Boxing Association.

Battalino was suspended indefinitely and fined $5,000 for the "title" battle he staged with a stablemate, Freddy Miller, of Cincinnati, here January 27.

The bout was stopped in the third round. Miller cleared himself, but his claim to the title was not allowed.

Cards Rally to Win At Cincinnati, 4-2

Champions Win on Hits by Frisch, Bottomley, Collins and Gelbert.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 25 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds swapped places on the National League cellar steps today, the Cardinals mounting one by virtue of a 4-to-2 victory and the Reds slipping farther down.

Until the sixth inning it seemed as if Cincinnati would get the best of a pitching contest. Chick Hafey's triple in the second, followed by Morissey's double, gave the Reds a run, which Lucas seemed able to hold.

Then in the sixth Frisch singled and Bottomley followed suit past Harry Heilmann. Collins doubled and Manusco's pop out and Gelbert's single were enough to make it three runs for the inning.

Hoyt on Trail of Al Schacht After Using 4-Inning Diet

NEW YORK, April 25.—Waite Hoyt, formerly of Boston, New York, Detroit and Philadelphia, and now of Brooklyn, paid the Washington Club a visit at the hotel this morning. He was particularly anxious to see Coach Al Schacht, who recommended a diet for him, which was guaranteed to take off weight. It did, for Hoyt now is 28 pounds below normal weight and is worried because he can not get any of it back.

"Schacht's diet not only brought me down to the size of a skeleton but it also reduced me about four innings on the mound. By the time I have pitched about half a game, I'm all in," said Hoyt.

"Well, why don't you quit the diet?" some one asked.

"I have," said Hoyt, "but I've lost my appetite and my stomach has shrunk up so that it won't hold much food any more."

It so happened that Schacht was visiting his home folks in the Bronx and did not get Hoyt's report first hand. "I'm sorry I didn't see Al," said Waite, as he was leaving, "but tell him for me I've got a good diet for him—broken glass garnished with arsenic."

Walker Rules 7-5 Choice As Levinsky Match Nears

CHICAGO, April 25 (U.P.).—After three weeks of hard training at Madame Bey's Summit, N. J., camp, Mickey Walker, twice a champion and now a heavyweight contender, arrived today to put the finishing touches on his chunky little frame for Friday night's 10-round bout against King Levinsky at the Chicago stadium.

One of the last of the great fighters of the nineteen-twenties still at the top, Walker, approaching 32, doesn't show any signs of slipping after more than 100 battles in the ring and many more that can't be found in the record book.

Walker never liked to train, but when he really sets his head to it he can buckle down to business as well as any fighter.

"Don't ask me if I'm in good shape," the jovial Irishman said as he stepped off the Broadway Limited today. "See that shiner? I didn't get that in any street brawl."

Walker said the difference in weight, height and reach wouldn't bother him and switched the conversation.

Jeffords Colt Draws Away Near End

Goes Into Command at Start, Beating Out Big Beau.

Blimp Loses by Nose to Bright Bird in Second Race.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 25.—A son of Man o' War with a nautical tang to his name—one Boatswain—was piloted around this race track this afternoon by Buddy Hanford, with a high-class group of Derby and Preakness candidates puffing in his wake. Boatswain, himself a Preakness hopeful, from the W. M. Jeffords holdings, was an impressive colt in this race and his stock for the Pimlico classic is on the rise.

Big Beau, Hal Rice Headley's Preakness and Derby nominee, was second, a length and a half behind, with Clotho, named for both big races, third, another length away.

The threatening weather kept the crowd below the 10,000 mark for the first time during the meeting. The regulars were relieved to find the $2 lines stubby after that run on the tickets last Saturday.

Big Beau enjoyed only a few seconds as the leader of the group that sought the Mayfield Purse, the day's feature. Hanford shook Boatswain to get him in front and he steadied the colt on the trip up the back stretch. Big Beau, Clotho and Snobful were doing the principal running behind. Gilbert, on Big Beau, made several efforts to catch the flying son of Man o' War, but his mount was not equal to the task. The three leaders came down the stretch just as they went around the clubhouse turn—Boatswain, Big Beau and Clotho.

Ladfield Beats Vishnu.

Mrs. C. Crain's Ladfield, candidate for the Preakness, defeated the 3-year-old big stake nominees that went to the post in the Pagebrook, a spring of 6 furlongs. Vishnu, not named for the Preakness or the Derby, was second, ahead of Indian Runner a Derby hopeful.

Wise Count and Vishnu were first to show on top after the break with Ladfield, laying third. Vishnu took the lead on the outside and cut over toward the rail. Wise Count slowed after that and Ladfield moved up to carry the fight to Vishnu in the stretch drive.

Buddy Hanford began the day with a winner. He had the mount of the Foxcatcher Farms' Golden Fate, and the Satrap colt hot-footed it home ahead of Drombo and Coligny, the latter grouped in the field. Drombo came up on the outside to battle it out with Golden Fate, which was prominent from the start and set most of the pace.

Blimp Beaten by Nose.

Bright Bird, Raymond Green's son of Bright Knight, took a nose decision from Blimp in the second race with Babble third. Bright Bird made every post a winning one and it was not until the last sixteenth of a mile that Jockey Jimmy was pressed. Blimp came up on the outside with a rush that just missed taking the purse.

Bright bird opened up an advantage of four lengths at one stage.

Jockey J. Neel rode Durva to victory in the fifth race, beating the favored Stone Martin. Margaret Mc got up for the third money. Durva and Stone Martin fought it out for the trip with the latter going to the front at the far turn but losing out in the drive down the stretch.

Fair Bill Wins Easily.

Fair Bill went to the post a 4 to 5 shot and ran that way. The consistent plater was kept well behind the pace set by Skirt and Jockey Arthur let the Fair Gain horse go on the swing around the stretch turn and he won going away. Top Hattie managed to hold on for second with Mainsheet third.

Redcliffe didn't quit today and C. Jackson, colored rider, brought the veteran gelding home romping in front of Fair Lawn and Make Believe much to the delight of the longshot players.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

For the third time Joe's secret handicap system showed a fat profit yesterday with 4 winners out of 4 picks. Ladfield won at $15.60, Boatswain won at $6.60, Fair Bill won at $3.40 and Redcliffe won at $29.60. What a day! Asbestos lost two bucks. Roll is $17.90 today. Today's code, 5-16-5-19-7-6.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GOLDEN FATE, $9.40, $6.30, $4.30; DROMBO, $12.20, $8.20; COLIGNY (field), $8.70.

GOLDEN FATE, showing good speed, raced STAR PORTER into submission in the first half mile and drew out steadily through the final stages. DROMBO, rushed hard following the start, swerved out badly rounding the turn, but finished resolutely when straightened into the home stretch. COLIGNY well placed from the start, came with good courage in the final test. STAR PORTER tired suddenly inside the closing furlong. BROAD BILL finished with belated speed. ROYAL DURBAR was racing stoutly nearing the finish. JUDGE JUDY made up a lot of ground. GOLDEN WORDS broke fast, but was unable to stay with the leaders. AXIA raced greedily.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:12. Winner, R. Green's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRIGHT BIRD, $14.90, $7.80, $5.70; BLIMP, $5.40, $4.50; BABBLE, $25.80.

BRIGHT BIRD, quickest to find his stride, took command soon after the break, opened up a winning lead rounding the turn, but was forced to a stiff drive to withstand BLIMP. Latter, a stout factor from the beginning, moved up fast when called on and was wearing the winner down nearing the finish. BABBLE entered contention with a rush and closed courageously under very weak handling. THE OKAH, kept forwardly placed, came with good courage in the final test. PRINCETON weakened steadily in the final quarter mile. BLACK TYRONE was never a serious factor. CALGARY KAY raced poorly. BLACK BOARD was held safe. BEST MAN was outrun.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Pagebrook. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:40. Off at 3:43. Winner, Mrs. C. Crane's dk. b. c. (3), by Ladkin—Minefield. Trained by R. E. Potts. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:13 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADFIELD, $15.60, $6.40, $5.40; VISHNU, $7.90, $5.20; INDIAN RUNNER, $7.00.

LADFIELD, taken under slight restraint when taken out of tight quarters in the opening furlong, secured racing room on the inside to reach the leaders entering the home stretch, swung to the outside thereafter and wore VISHNU down in the final sixteenth mile. VISHNU raced WISE COUNT into early submission, drew clear when straightened into the home stretch, but could not resist the winner. INDIAN RUNNER caused some crowding when moving into contention midway of the turn. He held on well for the final drive. BARCELONA PETE began slowly. He closed full of run when placed to punishment. WISE COUNT quit badly. PEACOCK ALLEY and PARAMOUR were crowded back when interfered with rounding the turn. WESTY JUNIOR lacked speed.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Mayfield. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:10. Off at 4:11½. Winner, W. M. | ENGLISH KNIGHT | 112 | 7 | 7 | 6h | 7½ | 10 | 10 | 10 | Schaefer | 7.85 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOATSWAIN, $6.60, $4.50, $3.30; BIG BEAU, $7.10, $5.30; CLOTHO, $6.50.

BOATSWAIN, rushed hard to take command going to the first turn, was steadied in front and held BIG BEAU safe. Latter, in nearest pursuit of the winner, made determined efforts through the final half mile, but was held safe. CLOTHO, prominent and going in good form, was unable to improve his position when put to a drive and was bearing out approaching the finish. SNOBFUL saved ground throughout and closed gamely. GUSTO closed full of run after being slow to get going. DAISABORO showed a good test. SEMAPHORE had no mishaps. SENADO quit. ENGLISH KNIGHT was crowded back going to the first turn.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:41½. Winner, Mrs. J. B. Theall's b. f. (4), by Durbar II—Neva S. Trained by J. B. Theall. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:40 3-5, 1:47 3-5.

| PIGEON HOLE | 110 | 8 | 5 | 6½ | 5½ | 6h | 9½ | 10 | J. Smith | 2.35 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DURVA, $13.30, $5.40, $3.80; STONE MARTIN, $4.00, $3.10; MARGARET MC, $6.00.

DURVA, rated close up in the early racing, responded gamely when put to a drive, wore the pacemakers down and was going easily at the end. STONE MARTIN, prominent early, went into command when leaving the back stretch, but was unable to withstand the winner after racing FULL DRESS into defeat. MARGARET MC, slow to get going, circled her field and closed stoutly. FULL DRESS, rated under slight restraint, weakened steadily when put to a drive. GLENSIDE stumbled nearing the final furlong pole and had to be taken up when racing strongly. STYRIAC lacked early speed. TREWS faced in spots. PIGEON HOLE showed a dull effort.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:10. Off at 5:16. Winner, J. C. Fletcher's ch. g. (6), by Fair Gain—Speedy Girl. Trained by J. P. Mayberry. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:25, 0:50 1-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:42 3-5, 2:09 3-5.

| WELLET | 107 | 5 | 7 | 4½ | 4h | 8 | 8 | 8 | Magner | 29.85 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR BILL, $3.40, $2.70, $2.40; TOP HATTIE, $8.30, $4.90; MAINSHEET, $3.60.

FAIR BILL, reserved for the first mile, gained stoutly when released from restraint and, continuing gamely when put to pressure, wore TOP HATTIE down inside the final furlong. TOP HATTIE, going in improved fashion, raced close to SKIRT, displaced the latter when ready and held on willingly when forced to a drive. MAINSHEET, allowed to settle in her stride, came willingly when placed to punishment. ANGRY LASS, as usual slow to get going, closed stoutly in the last half mile. SKID was unable to reach the leaders. SKIRT quit badly. WELLET was done early.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:45. Off at 5:46½. Winner, Mrs. M. A. Hall's ch. g. (7), by Sir Martin—Rockland. Trained by B. Grason. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:50, 1:16 2-5, 1:42 3-5, 2:08 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—REDCLIFFE, $29.60, $10.40, $6.60; FAIR DAWN, $5.00, $3.40. MAKE BELIEVE, $4.60.

REDCLIFFE, sent into an easy lead at once, raced along under steadying restraint, saved ground the entire trip and had something in reserve at the end. FAIR DAWN, followed in closest attendance of the winner, was held safe when the real issue came. MAKE BELIEVE, forced to race on the outside for the entire journey, was unable to reach the pacemakers when put to a drive. TAZEWELL, placed under pressure and punishment after five furlongs, was never dangerous. DADDY NELSON had no excuses.

Harvard Track Team Out of Penn Relays

Cambridge, Mass., April 25 (A.P.). The Harvard Track Team has been withdrawn from the Penn relay carnival which will be held in Philadelphia Friday and Saturday, William J. Bingham, director of athletics, announced tonight.

The withdrawal was made because of the proximity of general examinations, early in May, which determine whether seniors graduate.

AT THE POST
with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK.

Buddy Ensor was granted a license by the Maryland Racing Commission yesterday and probably will ride Wary, Mrs. John Hay Whitney's colt, in the $10,000 Aberdeen tomorrow. Johnny McTaggart was set down four days for rough riding. Lightning Bolt will be rested until Arlington. Fenton Whitaker, who rode here last year, died in Enfield, N. C. Chief news.

If you have the horse urge today, here they are. BILL.

FIRST RACE—CORRYMEELA, Ral Parr's Colin filly, showed a neat turn of speed in her only test and may improve off that effort to defeat these juveniles. PERFORMANCE, another that displayed promise, broke on top in her only race and can be second with a little better exhibition. IMAGALE is well thought of.

SECOND RACE—JAFFA takes off 10 pounds today and may reverse the decision that FAIR JACK took from A. G. Weston's filly here. It will take a good ride to turn the trick. BOSCOBEL for third.

THIRD RACE—SLAVE SHIP was an easy winner in her maiden test and big things are predicted for the slick son of Black Toney and Lightship. Seems to have the race in the bag. MICROPHONE was forced to take second money the other day when English Knight popped out of the skies. Was smart last year and I take him for second. BRAVE AND BOLD for third.

FOURTH RACE—AVALON and HER GRACE, co

Mrs. Haynes' Low Gross Second

Mrs. Von Steinner in Tie for Low Net With 80 Score.

Department Tourney Booked June 6-7 at Kenwood.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

DESPITE the fact that yesterday was a dreary, rainy day, threatening the ruination of new spring costumes, every one of the 101 women golfers who were entered in the tournament on the Chevy Chase course appeared at the appointed time on the starting tee. There was not a single default, be it said to the everlasting credit of the brave and enthusiastic players, and although quite a number withdrew when the thunder began to rattle overhead, all the others carried on until the final hole had been played.

The event was the 36-hole medal play competition for the handsome trophy donated by Mrs. F. R. Keefer, president of the Women's District Golf Association. Eighteen holes were played yesterday and the remaining round will be played today. The trophy will be awarded to the player with the low net score for 36 holes, but prizes were given yesterday for the low gross and low net for the first 18 holes.

Winifred Faunce Stars.

Miss Winifred Faunce, of Manor Club, was the individual star of the day, winning the low gross prize with a card of 86 and tying Mrs. Alma von Steinner, of Congressional, for low net with a score of 80. Miss Faunce had a handicap of six, while Mrs. von Steinner had a card of 91—11—80.

Miss Faunce's 45—41—86 was one stroke better than Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes' 46—41—87. The cards of these two leaders follow:

Miss Faunce... 4 7 4 5 6 5 5 6 3—45
Mrs. Haynes... 6 6 5 4 4 5 6 6 4—46

In—

Miss Faunce... 4 6 4 3 4 5 4 5 6—41—86
Mrs. Haynes... 4 4 5 3 5 5 4 5 6—41—87

With rain pouring down and the course wet and slow, the majority of the scores were high, only eight being able to break 100, as follows: Miss Winifred Faunce, Manor, 86; Mrs. J. M. Haynes, 87; Mrs. Alma von Steinner, Congressional, 91; Mrs. Everett Eynon, 92; Mrs. Y. E. Booker, Washington, 93; Mrs. C. K. Osborne, Army-Navy, 96; Mrs. Ora Emge, Beaver Dam, 97, and Miss Susan Hacker, Chevy Chase, 99.

The highest score was 160, made by a player who must have thought she was shooting dice, for she had four 7s and five 11s on her card. The fifteen players who lead in low net scores are as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Mrs. Alma Von Steinner, Congressional | 91 | 11 80 |
| Miss Winifred Faunce, Manor | 86 | 6 80 |
| Mrs. Y. E. Booker, Washington | 93 | 10 83 |
| Mrs. J. M. Haynes, Columbia | 87 | 4 83 |
| Mrs. C. K. Osborne, Army-Navy | 96 | 11 85 |
| Mrs. Everett Eynon, Columbia | 92 | 6 86 |
| Miss Louise Claytor, Chevy Chase | 100 | 14 86 |
| Mrs. H. R. Quinter, Columbia | 100 | 13 87 |

| Mrs. E. M. McClelland, Manor | 107 | 16 91 |
| Mrs. T. N. Beavers, Manor | 107 | 16 91 |

For the players who scored over 105, and most of them attributed their bad luck to the fact that a black cat persisted in hovering around the first tee, a consolation tournament with prizes has been arranged for today, the pairings and times of play for the large number remaining in the tournament being as follows:

Junior Crowns at Stake In Boys' Club Ring Tonight

BOXING champions in eight weight divisions ranging from 60 to 130 pounds will be crowned by the District of Columbia Association of the A. A. U. tonight, at the Boys Club, where the finals of the Golden Glove Tournament will be held starting at 8 o'clock.

Noel House and Boys Club representatives each placed four boxers in the finals by virtue of victories in the semifinals last night before 500 enthusiastic fans.

The winning Noel House standard bearers were Katello, 70 pounds; Cecchini, 80 pounds; Donis, 110 pounds, and Holtzclaw, 130 pounds. The Boys Club winners were H. Gevinson and Kastinas, who will meet for the 120-pound title; Vermillion, 130 pounds, and Pappas, 70 pounds. Other organizations represented in tonight's bouts are Nye House (E. Keyser, 80, and M. Kattela, 90; Goodacre A. C. (Pietro and Riley, who will contest the 60-pound championship); National Training School (Albano, 90); Jewish Community Center (Kraft, 100); Merrick A. C. (Kemp, 100), and Friendship House (Hewitt, 110).

Last night's summaries:

80 pounds—E. Keyser (Nye) defeated Snouffer (Georgetown B. C.); Cecchini (Noel) defeated Elliott (B. C.).

110 pounds—Donis (Noel) defeated Molesko (N. T. S.); Hewitt (Friendship) defeated White (N. T. S.).

120 pounds—H. Gevinson (B. C.) defeated L. Merryman (Sterling); Kastinas (B. C.) defeated P. Keyser (Nye).

HURTS BENCH 4 STARS IN NATIONAL

Wilson, Martin, Cuyler and Shires Idle From Injuries.

NEW YORK, April 25 (A.P.).—Lady Luck has contrived in the last few days to rob the National League of much of its color and four of its star performers—Hack Wilson, Pepper Martin, Kiki Cuyler and Art Shires.

Where in other years the spotlight has focused on the various hospital rooms in which Babe Ruth has laid his massive frame to recuperate from various ailments and accidents, this year it has played on the bandaged faces, ankles and legs of the older circuit's better known performers.

Hack counted on by Max Carey as the big gun of the Jolly Dodger's attack, twisted his ankle in the very first game of the season going after a fly ball. Last week he wrenched his knee. He will be out for several more days.

Martin Out 3 Weeks
With Hurt Shoulder.

Martin, trying to get along under the load of a world series reputation and not doing so well, collided with Mickey Heath, first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, and came out with a wrenched shoulder which will keep him on the bench at least three weeks.

Cuyler is lost to the Cubs for an indefinite period with a cracked bone in his ankle.

Shires was knocked out twice the same day. First he blocked a batted ball with his nose and then went down for a full count when Joe Stripp crashed into him. At the hospital it was found he had a broken nose and a torn ligament in his leg. He is out for perhaps a month.

Grantham Returns
To Line-Up.

The first major casualty in the National League was George Grantham, Reds' second baseman, who sprained his ankle in an exhibition game just before the start of the season and returned to duty only today. Woody English, Cubs' shortstop, broke his finger in an exhibition game and is still out of action.

To place against this casualty list the American League has only one record of note: Babe Ruth's slight attack of grippe last week.

PAYNE FACES BUSINESS TODAY

Pitch Holds Hopes of Western for Victory in Series.

BUSINESS and Western, neither of which seem destined to play important parts in the final distribution of honors, have it out this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Eastern Field, in the scholastic baseball series.

Western will be seeking its first series victory, while Business will be endeavoring to win its second game in three starts, which would boost it into second place behind Eastern and Central.

Western has an even chance with Big Bill Payne hurling. Western's hitting weakness probably will be offset by Payne's good pitching.

Business to Use
Two Hurlers.

Business, if it follows its customary practice, will use both of its pitchers, Jimmy Garner and Lou Silverman. Not very strong boys, Coach Woodworth has found that he can get genuine effectiveness by using each for half a game.

Eastern's game with Gonzaga yesterday was rained out. It may be played today on a neutral field.

The only other event on the day's scholastic card is a tennis match, concerning St. John's and Devitt.

Collegiates Leading In County Bowling

The Collegiates, champions of Section 2 of the Prince Georges County League, led at the end of the first night's play in the first annual Maryland State bowling tournament, now in progress at the Bethesda alleys. The team rolled 1,711. College Park was second with 1,689, and Fru Ju was third with 1,662.

George Isemann and Harry Ashcroft were high in the doubles with a combined total of 705. They are from Hyattsville. L. Smith and H. Naylor, of Hyattsville, were in possession of second place, only three pins behind the leaders. A Rockville team, H. Brown and S. Lydanne, was third with 658.

The tournament will continue throughout the remainder of the week.

DIAMOND DUST
FROM THE SANDLOTS

WHEN the Rockville A. A. defeated the Majestic Radio team in a double-header Sunday, 12-1 and 4-0, it marked the debut of "Tubba" Farrell as a baseball coach and manager. "Tubba's" team won. At Holy Cross College, Farrell starred in three sports, and was recognized as one of the outstanding college athletes in the East.

Last fall, his first year out of school, he coached and played tackle on the Apache football team and did a nice job of it. Later on he was the keyman in the attack on Vic's Sport Shop basket ball team. Rumors have been floating around to the effect that he will succeed Dave Keppell as coach of the team next year. Keppell will resign to accept another coaching position.

Farrell's debut in a baseball managerial role was impressive. He obtained the best in his men, as the scores indicate. Rockville made the Majestics look like an antiquated crystal set. The suburbanites are supporting the team 100 per cent, and the combination of a good team and a good coach should make for success.

Bunker Hill Post will draw its players from Eastern High School, it was announced yesterday. The last call for candidates has been sounded and all desiring to try for the team should report today at 4 p. m. on Diamond No. 1 of the Monument Grounds.

Because there are too many teams bearing the title of "Eagles" in the city, the Eagle A. C. has decided to change its name to the Sioux A. C. Games with the Norfolk Grays, Bristol Tigers, Danville Beavers and York, Pa., team have been scheduled.

The Ballston A. C. will meet tonight at the home of Claude Rosenberger at 8 o'clock. Practice will be held this afternoon, Thursday and Saturday, at 5:30 p. m. on the home diamond.

Burton or Stickney will twirl for the Brightwood Red Sox when that team opposes the Joe Kuhel Midgets today.

Joe Ross can use a few reliable unlimited players on his Union Engineers team. Candidates can reach him at Metropolitan 1074 between 5 and 7 p. m.

The Joe Cronin Insects pounded out an 8-5 victory over the Nussbaum Insects in a well-played game yesterday.

Mangaer Dingler, of the Gulf Refining Co. team, would like to get in touch with Bob Polen. Dingler can be reached at Columbia 0549 between 5 and 6 p. m.

Arlington Post No. 139 will sponsor a team in the Virginia American League series this year. Games with strong midget and junior teams are wanted. Call H. D. Smith, at Clarendon 1846, during the day.

The Dixie Pigs would like to book a game with either Gaithersburg or the Fredericksburg Elks for next Sunday. Bill Mitchell is arranging the Dixie schedule. He can be reached at Hyattsville 1515.

There will be no rest for the Commerce team this week. Today it will drill on the Ellipse at 5 o'clock. Tomorrow it is slated to oppose the Gulf Refining Co. on the North Ellipse, and the following day it engages Auth's unlimiteds on the South diamond. The climax will follow on Friday when Swift and Co. will be entertained on the South Ellipse. Manager T. C. Holland wants all players to meet today, at 4:45 p. m., in room 127-B of the Commerce Building.

The Koontz Service Station Seniors will hold an important meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock at 2202 Shannon place southeast. All players are requested to attend.

An important meeting of the Swann Service Seniors will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at 1717 Seventeenth street northwest. All players are requested to turn in their signed contracts at this time.

Auth's will play the Washington Red Sox at 5 p. m. today on the South Ellipse. Sunday the Meat Dealers are slated to oppose the Virginia White Sox at Arlington.

The Griffith-Blue Coals will drill today at 5 p. m. on the Rosedale Playground diamond. A game with an out-of-town team is wanted for Sunday. Call Manager Willie Glascoe at Atlantic 4953-J.

The Ninth Street Christian Church Team is anxious to obtain a franchise in the Georgetown Church League and would like to get in touch with the league secretary. Manager John Smith can be reached at Hyattsville 1434.

The Woodmen of the World will meet Thursday night at the home of Manager Armstrong at 8 o'clock. The team is in need of a good pitcher and an out-of-town game for Sunday. Call Potomac 0276-J.

George Washington Post will practice tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on the West Ellipse. Manager "Buck" Trundle requests all candidates to report promptly.

Schmeling Is Cheered In Wisconsin Workout

Oshkosh, Wis., April 25 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, heavyweight titleholder, was cheered roundly by fight fans jamming the Recreational Gymnasium here tonight to watch him in three rounds of exhibition fighting.

Schmeling went two rounds with Jack Shaw, New York, showing some fast fist work. In a third round with Pedro Lopez, of Oklahoma, the champion belted Lopez at will.

TRIBE OPTIONS MARLEAU.

The Cleveland Indians have optioned Eddie Marleau, who led the Middle Atlantic hurlers last season in victories, with 22, to the Allentown Eastern League Club.

Molly Pitcher Council, No. 42, Daughters of America, has been instituted in Alexandria with these officers: Mrs. Ethel A. Smithers, councilor; Mrs. Lauve Helwege, associate councilor; Mrs. Lucetta Monroe, vice councilor; Mrs. Mary Priest, associate vice councilor; Mrs. Eleanor Foltz, junior past councilor; Mrs. Alice Proctor, associate junior past councilor; Mrs. Mamie Roberts, warden; Mrs. Ruth Bruin, conductor; Mrs. Edith Owens, inside sentinel; Mrs. Mattie Fulton, outside sentinel; Miss Gretta Ludwig, recording secretary; Mrs. Minnie Kelley, financial secretary; Mrs. Lena Scott, treasurer; Mrs. Mary King, trustee for eighteen months; Mrs. Margaret Wells, trustee for twelve months; Mrs. Mary Kerns, trustee for six months; Mrs. Hattie Ludwig, pianist.

Visitors at the institution of the new council included O. B. Hopkins, national deputy; Shirley Miller, national organizer; Mrs. Villa E. Dale, State council deputy, and the State councilor and her staff of officers.

The Alexandria Rotary Club will be addressed today, at its luncheon in the George Mason Hotel, by Dr. Francis J. Lardone, professor of ancient Roman law at the Catholic University of America, on "Kidnaping."

Herbert E. Cross, secretary of the club, has been elected delegate to the district conference which meets in Danville next week. A nominating committee consisting of S. Nelson Gray, Lawrence E. Roland and Col. Clarence Deems, jr., has been appointed, and will present its report today.

Alexandria is preparing for an elaborate reception to the 29 governors attending the twenty-fourth annual conference in Richmond Thursday afternoon in Gadsby's Tavern and a short talk will be made by Gov. Roosevelt of New York. The governors, before coming to Alexandria, will visit Fredericksburg and Mount Vernon.

In the corporation court of Alexandria yesterday, Judge William P. Woolls, presiding, the following cases were disposed of:

Milton Shephard, colored, indicted on seven counts for forgery, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary.

In the case of W. H. Weaver, convicted in the police court on a charge of destroying evidence, appealed to the corporation court, a nolle prosse was entered.

The case of B. E. Squires, indicted on a charge of grand larceny, was continued until the next term of court.

Thomas Robinson, colored, indicted for assault and battery on James E. Beach, was sentenced to six months in jail. Robert Watts, also colored, indicted in connection with the same case, was found not guilty.

The Alexandria branch of the Salvation Army is arranging to open summer quarters at the northwest corner of West and Commerce streets, where transients will be fed. The present temporary quarters at 308 King street will be closed.

EXHIBIT 864: RICH MAN (AMERICANUS).

("There are no rich men left in America."—Charles M. Schwab.)

SCENE—Industrial Curiosity Section of an American Museum. A boy and his father are standing before a large glass case.

Boy—Daddy, what's that?

Father (examining it closely)—I can't quite make out. Oh, yes, now I see the inscription. It's a Rich Man.

Boy—What's a Rich Man, popper?

Father—I'm not certain. I haven't heard of one in some time, but I believe he was a man with a load of money and no financial worries.

Boy—Did you ever see a Rich Man, daddy?

Father—I think so, but it was a very long time ago.

Boy—Did he look like the one in this case?

Father—The one I seem to remember was fatter and had more color, but that was far back before the first market crash. This one may represent the type common after the initial slump. They deteriorated rapidly, I understand.

Boy—Isn't it a good specimen, popper?

Father—It's fair. You have to make allowances for stuffing and mounting, of course. No rich man looks very good after he's been stuffed.

Boy—What's that under his left arm?

Father—That's an umbrella. It proves very definitely that this specimen was taken after the crash. Before it they never carried umbrellas.

• • • •

BOY—Why not, popper?

Father—There was some silly notion it was never going to rain any more. A new era, I believe, or something.

Boy—What are all those scratches on his forehead?

Father—Those are not scratches, Willie; they're wrinkles.

Boy—Did all rich men have wrinkles?

Father—From September, 1929, they all had them in a big way. Some of the later specimens were so wrinkled it was impossible to make them presentable for museum purposes.

• • • •

Boy—This one's cross-eyed, popper.

Father (giving a closer examination)—So he is!

Boy—What made him cross-eyed, popper?

Father—He got that way trying to watch disappearing assets over both shoulders at the same time and still keep an eye on what Congress was doing.

• • • •

BOY—He has only one leg.

Father—Yes, the other one was shattered by State and Federal tax bills.

Father—That's a ski.

Boy—What did he wear a ski for?

Father—The descent was to steep and the storm so intense that he figured he might as well make the trip as smooth as possible, I guess.

Boy—Popper, how did the museum get the rich man?

BUS COMPANY SELLS PASSENGER SERVICE

Tidewater Lines, Inc., Is to Develop Its Freight Transit Business.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Maurice Otterback, president of Anacostia Bank and vice president of Tidewater Lines, Inc., announced yesterday that the passenger service of the corporation has been acquired for operation by Peninsular Transit Corporation. Tidewater Lines, Inc., will now devote its entire facilities to the operation and further expansion of its freight lines. Although the corporation came into existence as a passenger carier, its development in freight transportation has been its outstanding accomplishment.

Its passenger service has been in continuous operation since 1910, when Semmes Motor Lines inaugurated service between Washington and points in Southern Maryland and later extended the service up the Crain Highway to Baltimore. Peninsula Transit Corporation has been operating bus lines since 1919 and has developed an experienced organization, fully capable of rendering satisfactory service.

C. & P. Telephone Co.

Expenditures necessary for the proper maintenance of the telephone system throughout Maryland and for replacements amounting to $47,140 have just been authorized by the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore City at its regular monthly meeting held in Baltimore. About 15,500 manhours of labor will be required for this work, according to a statement made by telephone company officials.

Projects included the installation of additional switchboard equipment in Baltimore, central office apparatus at Salisbury and Easton and the reconstruction of plant.

BOND LIST LOWER IN LIGHT TRADING

Turnover Is Smallest Since Last August; Curb Market Moves in Narrow Range.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The bond market drifted listlessly today and, although the averages gave way fractionally, there was an appreciable drying up of offerings.

Sales totaled but $6,310,000, par value, the smallest volume for a full session since August 3, last year.

The United States Government list was somewhat easy at the start, while traders digested yesterday's Treasury announcement of the new offering, aggregating $450,000,000 of notes and certificates. Afterward, the listed issues advanced moderately and most of them closed slightly above Saturday's figures.

At the same time Controller Tremaine, of New York State, opened negotiations for the sale of $75,000,000 of 2¾ per cent one-year notes. The low interest rate attached to this offering was attributed to the recent demand for high-grade municipal loans.

Corporate Bonds Dull.

Most corporate bonds indicated little more than an extremely tired feeling. Gains of fractions to 2 or more points on the most meager transactions were recorded by some liens of Atchison, Allegheny, Canadian Northern, Burlington, Chicago & Northwestern, Erie, Grand Trunk of Canada, Illinois Central, M-K-T, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania and Wabash.

Softness was displayed by bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, Great Western, Rock Island, New York Central, Southern and Union Pacific.

Loans of American Telephone, Cincinnati Gas, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Federal Light, Kansas Gas, Goodrich, Lackawanna Steel and some of the oils were inclined to steady.

International Telephones weakened.

Curb in "Dead Center."

The curb market stalled in dead center today, with prices holding to a narrow range and trading dwindling to the smallest volume in recent years. The turnover was roughly 90,000 shares.

On the whole, the list developed a fairly firm undertone. In the utilities, American Gas and Electric, American Light and Traction, Commonwealth Edison and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore all closed fractionally higher.

Electric Bond and Share was up a fraction for a time, but closed unchanged at 14.

Niagara Hudson, which reported first quarter earnings barely changed from those of the same period of last year, was up ⅛ at 4⅜.

Oils failed to respond notably to a 20-cent-a-barrel increase in Pennsylvania Crude. Gulf slipped off a point in thin trading. Standard of Indiana fluctuated very narrowly, closing off ⅛. Imperial was a firm spot, up ¼. Industrials were again largely neglected.

Wall Street Briefs

An analysis of March quarter earnings statements issued so far shows that a fair number of leading industrials managed to earn a substantial part, if not all, of their dividends for the period. In this group may be listed American Telephone & Telegraph, General Foods, National Biscuit, Lambert Co. and Loose Wiles Biscuit. A few companies reported profits exceeding dividend requirements, notably International Business Machines and the Wrigley Co.

Wall street sees the troubles of the cane sugar industry well epitomized by the drab financial record of the Cuba Cane Products Co. Receivers for the company were appointed last week after about two years of vain effort to keep afloat in the face of ruinously low prices for raw sugar and the apparent inability of the industry to find a remedy for its ills. The predecessor company, Cuba Cane Sugar Co., also ended its corporate existence in receivership in 1929.

Sentiment in the steel industry has become a bit more cheerful, according to reports reaching Wall street, and some of the larger producers are said to be preparing for a moderately larger volume of business.

Commercial production of anthracite in the last five weeks "has shown sufficient gain to check the downward trend prevailing over the previous 47 weeks and to evidence a slightly upward tendency at the end of the 12-month period," the Anthracite Institute reported today. Weather conditions were not wholly responsible, for March was only seven-tenths of one degree colder than the average March.

The dividend payable April 15 on the Class A stock of the International Hydro-Electric System went to 9,535 holders, a record number, and an increase of 7 per cent over the number of shareholders of record at the previous dividend payment, the company announced today.

Arrangements were made today for the sale of a New York Curb Exchange seat at $21,000, a decrease of $1,000 from the previous sale, and a record low value since 1927. A curb seat sold at a record high of $254,000 in 1929.

More Expansion Found In Commercial Credits

A further gradual expansion of commercial credits was indicated yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly statement of member banks' condition in leading cities throughout the country.

"All other" loans increased $16,000,000 for the week ended April 20, while investments in Government securities expanded by the same amount, against an increase of $46,000,000 in investments of all other securities.

Net demand deposits increased $77,000,000, and time deposits increased $26,000,000.

New York Floats $75,000,000 Loan

Huge Issue Oversubscribed 100 Per Cent; Proceeds for Tax Anticipation.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—A New York State offering of $75,000,000 2¾ per cent short-term notes was 100 per cent oversubscribed, State Comptroller Morris S. Tremaine announced this afternoon. The notes are dated May 1, 1932, and mature May 2, 1933.

Banks and investment firms were invited to submit tenders on that amount of 2¾ per cent notes dated May 1, 1932, and due May 2, 1933. Proceeds will be used in anticipation of taxes and other revenues.

On March 31 the State marketed an issue of $50,000,000 3¾ per cent notes due on January 15, 1933, at par. The lower rate carried by the new issue is regarded by bond dealers as a commentary on the improvement that has taken place recently in the investment market.

Three vacancies in the Allied Chemical & Dye Co. board were filled at the annual meeting today by the election of Wallace Campbell, Paul E. Whitten and H. F. Atherton. One of the new members took the place of Emile Tournay-Solvay, whose retirement was announced today.

Thomas H. O'Brien, general manager of the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co., today was elected a director to succeed G. B. Whelpley, Joseph W. Allen was elected to the board in place of Albert H. Wigging.

Sherwin Williams & Co. today declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, placing the stock on a $3 annual basis compared with $4 previously. The dividend is payable May 16 to stock of record April 30.

Southern's Fares To South Are Cut

Pullman Rates Also Touch New Low to Points in North Carolina.

Lowest Pullman and rail fares ever offered from Washington and Alexandria to Asheville and other points in North Carolina will be featured by the Southern Railway this Saturday.

These exceptional bargain rates will make it possible to enjoy the week-end trip at a very moderate cost. Those who make the trip will arrive back in Washington at 6:55 o'clock Monday morning.

The Southern System has adopted a new slogan, "Train Travel," and this exceptional opportunity is offered as the first inducement to popularize the idea.

WORLD TRADE IN 1931 OFF $11,000,000,000

Total $20,000,000,000 Under 1929; Debtor Nations Restrict Imports.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—A survey by the national industrial conference board, issued today, discloses that the total monetary value of foreign trade of the 22 leading countries of the world declined from $40,685,000,000 in 1930 to $29,614,000,000 in 1931.

The report shows that the value of exports and imports of the countries considered was $18,705,000,000 lower than in 1929, in which year their foreign trade totaled $49,319,000,000. The value of commodity exports dropped from $19,042,000,000 in 1930 to $13,843,000,000, in 1931, and commodity imports from $21,643,000,000 to $15,771,000,000.

The conference board finds some encouragement in the fact that the various debtor countries have severely restricted their imports, and that the gradual readjustment of balances may be expected to facilitate the movement of international funds and assist in the recovery of prices by relieving the pressure on the balances of the debtors.

"If this adjustment is accompanied by a return to sound methods of public finance," the report concludes, "the foundation will be laid for economic recovery and for resumption of international financing, which will be required in large volume for the development of natural resources of the undeveloped parts of the world."

Otis Elevator Business 60 Per Cent of Last Year

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The Otis Elevator Co. in the first quarter of this year did a volume of business approximating 60 per cent of that done in the first quarter last year, said J. H. Van Alstyne, president of the company, at the annual stockholders' meeting today.

March and April were much better than January and February, he reported.

In both England and France the company's business is holding well, with France ahead of 1931 and 1930. The company's business in Italy has just about held its own. The company recently obtained an order for $150,000 worth of furnace hoists from Russia.

Otis executives expect that the second quarter statement will reflect an increase in building business due to liquidation of the labor situation.

A petition is being circulated on the floor of the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange to close the exchange for trading purposes on the Saturdays in May. The by-laws of the exchange provide for Saturday closings in June, July, August and September.

Women Voters' Parley Studies National Needs

Detroit, April 25 (A.P.).—The needs of the Nation as seen through two years of study by representative women, were reported today before nearly 600 delegates to the tenth biennial convention of the National League of Women Voters.

Preparing for their general session, which opens on Wednesday, the delegates opened the "little convention," meeting in twenty committees for discussion of topics outlined at the convention two years ago, recommendations will be made and action taken at the opening business session on Wednesday. In the principal committee session attended by Miss Belle Sherwin, of Cleveland, national president, the delegates heard Courtenay Dinwiddie, of New York, general secretary of the National Child Labor Committee, characterize as a "grim jest, the fact that 1,000,000 children in 1930 were employed in industry, while "thousands of adults were desperately in search of work."

Alfonso Goes on Rome Visit.

LEGAL NOTICES

PURSUANT TO A DECREE ENTERED BY the Corporation Court for the City of Staunton, Virginia, in a chancery cause therein pending, the undersigned Bonded Commissioner, together with other Commissioners named in said decree, in order to settle the estate of the late Mrs. Matie W. Grasty, the beautiful property known as Breezy Hill Inn, situated on North Augusta street, in Staunton, Virginia, will be offered for sale at public auction at 10 o'clock a. m., THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1932, on the premises. This property is recognized as one of the show places of Staunton, and has a frontage of 313.2 feet on North Augusta street, and contains five lots and extends from Augusta street to Bagby street, in the rear. The residence is steam heated, contains 16 rooms, with three garage in the rear, with servant quarters overhead. This property offers a splendid opportunity to some one either seeking a handsome residence or a home for tourists. It is particularly well known to tourists, a number of years age having been extensively advertised while operated under the management of Miss Pearl B. MacGowan. The property is on the Lee Highway entering Staunton, and will be sold on the following terms. One-fourth cash, balance in one, two and three years, evidenced by bonds of the purchaser, bearing interest at 6 per cent from day of sale, and secured by a contemporaneous deed of trust on the property.

FLORIDUS CROSBY,
Bonded Commissioner

WIMBLEY CASE SET TO GO TO JURY TODAY AS TESTIMONY ENDS

POLICE DENY CHARGES OF ABUSING PRISONER

C. & O. Canal Chart Shown in Effort to Prove Canoe Upset in Midstream.

Before nightfall the lives of Harry C. Wimbley and John M. Crowder are expected to be placed in the hands of the twelve men, who, for six days, have listened to evidence supportive and refutative of the charge that they purposely drowned Wimbley's wife in the C. & O. Canal.

Most of today's proceedings will be taken up with arguments to the jury of Cedric Johnson and Louis L. Whitestone, for the defense, and Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins for the Government. The trial approached its climax late yesterday when the defense suddenly rested its case without calling Crowder to the stand.

To rebut Wimbley's testimony that he had been abused by the police, Mr. Collins called Detective Sergts. Floyd A. Truscott and Dennis J. Murphy, of the homicide squad, and Max Jungren, who was held by the police while investigation of the drownings was under way. All denied Wimbley's charges that he had been subjected to abuse.

In addition to Wimbley, only three witnesses were called by the defense. Paul R. Rupert, a civil engineer, of Clarendon, Va., introduced a chart of the canal showing the point where the body of Mrs. Wimbley's child was recovered. This was intended to prove that the canoe overturned in midstream as contended by Wimbley, and not at the bank, as told by Crowder in his alleged confession.

Patrolman Adolph W. Esser testified for the defense that the body of the child was found in midstream. To sustain Wimbley's contention that his wife was subject to fainting spells and to raise the belief that she was stricken by one while standing in the canoe near Chain Bridge the defense called to the stand a pharmacist, J. Hoyt Lamb. He testified that he filled a prescription which contained a nerve sedative.

To refute Wimbley's claim that he did not intend to follow his third wife, Ida Mae Graves Dickerson, to Missouri the Government called Mrs. Dickerson and Jungren to the stand. Both of them testified that Wimbley had expressed the intention of going to Missouri.

Property in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Dickerson, whom Wimbley married under the name of Dickerson, testified in rebuttal that she was present when Wimbley said to Daisy Wilson, fiancee of Jungren: "My brother recently sold a piece of property in Oklahoma for $32,000, half of which is mine. We can go back to Missouri and you (Miss Wilson) and Jungren can live on the farm now occupied by Ida's people."

Detective Sergt. Truscott testified that Wimbley had neither fallen from a chair nor was he abused when the alleged confession of Crowder was read to him on September 22, as has been told by Wimbley. In his confession Crowder admitted a plot against the lives of Mrs. Wimbley, her parents and her brothers and sisters.

Justice James M. Proctor asked Detective Sergt. Truscott: "What was his attitude? Did he complain of anything?" referring to the incident when the Crowder confession was read to Wimbley.

Examination of Wimbley.

During the morning session, which was devoted to the cross-examination of Wimbley by Mr. Collins, Justice Proctor was frequently obliged to warn Wimbley against arguing with the district attorney.

Asked by Mr. Collins why he said "sand-bags" instead of "school bags" which he said he was going to buy for the children of his first wife in Baltimore, Wimbley said: "Your case isn't so weak, Mr. Collins, that you have to pick on little things like that, is it?"

At another point he asked: "You're not trying to put anything over on me, are you?" Justice Proctor warned Wimbley that he, and not Mr. Collins, was under examination.

Says Mind Was "Hazy."

Wimbley said his mind was "hazy" when asked why a relative's address and not his was was placed on a letter he wrote from Oklahoma to Mrs. Wimbley. "There's been come funny things pulled in this trial, Mr. Collins," he said. "I'll grant you that there have been 'some funny things pulled at this trial,'" replied Mr. Collins.

Wimbley also admitted under cross-examination that he had a "weakness for women" and that he had taken out an insurance policy on his third wife, Mrs. Dickerson. "Even though you had no affection for her, you would have collected that policy if anything had happened?" asked Mr. Collins.

Three Cars Purchased.

"I don't see anything wrong with that," replied Wimbley.

He denied that he bought a $10,000 accident insurance policy on Mrs. Wimbley with the intention of murdering her. He said his wife had about $2,100 when he married her in 1930. He said that the money belonged to his wife and him.

"And it was this money that you used to buy the first three cars you purchased?" asked Mr. Collins.

"One of the $1,000 bonds we had we cashed when we bought our first automobile," he replied. He added under further questioning that the last of the three cars was burned in Oklahoma and he collected $1,050 insurance for it.

Man Suffering From Poison.

Julius P. Phillips, 46 years old, is in Emergency Hospital suffering from the effects of a quantity of poison he is alleged to have swallowed while in a third floor room of his home at 485 H street southwest. His condition is not serious.

WOMAN ESCAPES IN UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

How a lamp post and an automobile can get in this position must be explained. The car skidded, swung around to the right, and then slid back. The left front wheel hooked the post, pulled it down until the axle slid up on the pole and the car was impaled through the windshield. The driver, Mrs. Anna S. Sirola, wife of Policeman John Sirola, of the Ninth Precinct, escaped injury. The accident occurred in Potomac Park near the Tidal Basin.

K. OF C. ANNIVERSARY MARKED BY BANQUET

Auxiliary Bishop Speaks at Dinner of Washington Council of Order.

The need for religious faith in these times of economic stress was pointed out last night by the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, when he spoke at the Mayflower Hotel banquet celebrating the 35th anniversary of the Washington Council, Knights of Columbus.

The Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, president of Georgetown University, called attention to the need for respect for authority. William E. Leahy, leading attorney, spoke on loyalty to country, church and order.

The banquet began after grace had been pronounced by Bishop McNamara. Rossa F. Downing spoke in behalf of the charter members present. The others were Edward P. Harrington, Dr. H. J. Crosson, William A. Lusby, William L. Solean and Henry W. Sohon.

Other speakers were Grand Knight William H. Murray, P. Michael Cook, toastmaster; William J. Kinsella, John Philp, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General; Fred J. Rice, State deputy, and the Rev. F. X. Cavanaugh, State chaplain.

Songs, music and dancing were provided by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney's Players' Guild and by George O'Connor and Matt Horne. Val J. Iseman was in charge of arrangements.

Among the guests were D. J. Callahan, supreme treasurer; A. B. J. Williamson, Anthony J. Scullen, James B. Flynn, George Herring, Fred Brady, A. Reid Stanton, the Rev. Joseph F. Denges, L. Harold Sothoron and Dr. A. D. Wilkinson.

Girl Hurt in Auto Crash Succumbs

Miss Cole Dies in Hospital; Drivers of Cars Under Bond for Hearing.

Miss Carolyn Cole, 19, of Biglerville, Pa., died at Providence Hospital early yesterday. She was hurt in a crash on the Centerville-Manassas road Sunday.

The drivers of the two cars figuring in the accident were held on $2,000 bond each for a hearing next Monday before Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie in Fairfax, Va. They are Jim Peters, of Manassas, and Carl Davis, of Ox road.

Miss Eloise Compton, of Manassas, who was with Miss Cole in Peter's car, also was hurt, receiving serious cuts and bruises. Both girls were students at Marjorie Webster School here.

Plumber Is Blamed In Gas Death of 2

Eugene Casey Is Held for Grand Jury in Case of Gray and Wife.

A plumbing contractor was held for the grand jury yesterday in connection with the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Gray, of 1208 Holbrook street northeast. The couple were found dead Saturday, overcome by carbon monoxide gas. A gas heater was burning in the apartment.

A coroner's jury was told that a vent pipe from the heater was supposed to have an outlet through the wall, but had been blocked up, preventing escape of the burned gas.

"We believe the deaths were caused by carbon monoxide gas poisoning resulting from a faulty connection of the gas appliance to the flue, and we believe the plumbing contractor to be responsible for said deaths and hold Eugene Casey," the verdict read. Casey, 27 years old, maintains offices at 900 F street northwest and lives at 1425 Whittier street northwest.

Police Learn How to Catch Kidnap Bands

Washington's police are prepared for a kidnaping case.

Last night detectives and policemen heard a detailed account of one of New York City's extortion cases, the Rosenthal kidnaping, from the lips of a noted investigator from the Metropolis.

Capt. James J. Coy lectured the policemen in the Interior Department Auditorium. He told in minute detail the successful investigation, pointing out mistakes which were made, as well as the brilliant steps taken by the police.

The talk was arranged by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police. Gen. Glassford hopes to have other such lectures for the department, using experienced Washington detectives to recount some of their most interesting and informative cases.

The Rosenthal case, which attracted wide attention, resulted in the conviction of four men on charges of kidnaping and the recovery of nearly all of $50,000 ransom money.

HUSBAND IS SEIZED IN ASSAULT ON WIFE

Rockville Man Charged With Attempting to Shoot His Estranged Mate.

After firing two shots during an argument with his wife at Second street and North Carolina avenue southeast, William H. Norwood, 27 years old, of Rockville, Md., was arrested by police of the Fourth Precinct last night and is being held on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and carrying concealed weapons.

Norwood's wife, Mrs. Thomsie Norwood, 25 years old, was slightly injured when one of the bullets was deflected from the sidewalk and struck her leg. She refused hospital treatment.

Mrs. Norwood is employed as a nurse at 139 North Carolina avenue southeast. She said her husband, who is a cripple, made an appointment to obtain some money. They had been separated for some time, she said. When Norwood arrived to keep the appointment, he appeared to be under the influence of liquor, his wife declared, and produced a gun after arguing with her for several minutes. She grabbed his hand and the bullets hit the pavement.

Suicide Verdict Given In Death of Gas Victim

A certificate of suicide was issued yesterday in the case of Walter Vitt, 46 years old, who was found dead in the kitchen of his apartment at 1221 Twenty-first street.

Vitt, a former guard on the Arlington Memorial Bridge, inhaled illuminating gas Sunday night. It is believed that ill health and loss of his position caused his act. He is survived by his widow, who lives in California, and a brother, George Vitt, of Annapolis, Md.

Defendant Is Winner In Suit for $250,000

The suit was based upon a charge of malicious prosecution and abuse of legal process in that Thomas was arrested allegedly on the complaint of Gordon, and the charges were dropped the next day in Police Court. Thomas had asked for $250,000 because of this arrest.

Aids in Both Houses Given Congressional Tags for Cars

The Senate yesterday voted to allow elective officers, disbursing clerks and assistant secretaries of both houses of Congress to use congressional tags on their automobiles, with all of the privileges that go with the tags.

One of six local bills to pass the Senate, the measure would permit the officials designated to park at any available curb space, except near fire plugs and loading platforms. An amendment was adopted extending the privilege to the attending physician at the Capitol.

Two bills were adopted authorizing the Commissioners to close certain streets and alleys, and another to permit the closing of Quintana place, between Seventh street and Seventh place northwest. The streets and alleys affected have their existence only on paper.

A fifth bill approved would relieve the District Commissioners of the necessity of providing formal contracts with bond on repair jobs up to $5,000. The Senate also voted to exempt from taxation District property of the National Society of Colonial Dames of America.

CLEW HUNT PUSHED IN HENRY SLAYING

Gambler to Be Buried Today; Kendrick and Yudelevit Trials Delayed.

Efforts toward a solution of the murders of Milton W. (Milsie) Henry slaying and the man found in the Potomac River with a wire wound around his neck, were at a standstill yesterday when no further clews developed.

Detective Sergt. Frank O. Brass is investigating clews in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. According to Detective Sergt. George Darnall, the murdered man found in the Potomac was probably killed up the river and his body floated down, as no record of a missing person answering his description can be found in Washington files.

Funeral services for Henry will be held this morning at the Hines undertaking home at 10 o'clock. According to the family, the body will probably be taken to Baltimore for burial.

The trials of John Kendrick and Harry Yudelevit, on charges of assault with intent to kill Policeman T. D. Bacon, of the First Precinct, were continued yesterday until May 2 because of publicity given the killing of Henry, well-known gambler.

Both Kendrick and Yudelevit were reputed to have been paid $300 a month by Henry to act as his bodyguards. They were in jail when Henry, reputedly a "fingerman" for a mob of gangsters, was shot to death last week.

Drivers Held for Jury After Fatal Collision

Two drivers were held yesterday for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Cora B. Thurman, 64 years old, of St. Louis. The charges were placed after a coroner's jury heard testimony regarding the accident early Saturday morning in which her neck was broken. She died a few hours after being admitted to Emergency Hospital.

Mrs. Thurman was riding with her husband, John H. Thurman, in the taxicab of Walter S. Masilwain, 27 years old, of 1008 Massachusetts avenue. The cab was in collision with a poultry truck operated by James Rader, 26 years old, of Petersburg, Va., at Thirteenth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest.

2 Central High Girls Found in New Jersey

Two Washington fathers left for Point Pleasant, N. J., last night to bring back their daughters who had gotten that far in their round-about journey to California. The girls, both Central High School students, disappeared from their homes Saturday morning.

STRICTER CONTROL OF BUSES FORECAST AFTER CRASH PROBE

Stronger Vehicles and Shatter-Proof Glass May Be Ordered.

COMPANIES' OFFICIALS FILE THEIR OBJECTIONS

Rule Against Long Hours of Drivers Expected; Blame for Wreck Debated.

More stringent regulations governing the operation of motor buses and the working hours of the drivers are expected to be promulgated by the Public Utilities Commission as the result of an all-day public hearing yesterday based primarily on the fatal collision between vehicles of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. April 1 at Seventeenth street and Rhode Island avenue.

Ultimate requirements for better construction of motor vehicles used in bus service and the possible substitution of safety glass in the windows and windshields may also be adopted though this change probably would be more gradual.

Officials of both street railway companies were questioned at length by William A. Roberts, special counsel of the commission, regarding the comparative safety for passengers of all-steel bodies and the composite coaches of wood and metal now generally in use. The utility men contended that the additional protection was not sufficient to justify the added expense and weight.

Long Hours Permitted.

The railway men also found fault with the nonshatterable safety glass on the grounds that it becomes discolored and is more expensive.

One rule that will most likely evolve from the hearing is that every bus driver will be required to take 8 hours of consecutive rest in every 24 hours. Capital Traction Co. representatives said that while they recommend such rest periods to their drivers they permit them to make special trips within these rest periods.

Although the average working day of the bus drivers was said to be 9½ hours, charts and statistics were introduced to show that often this working day was spread over 14 hours or more, with rest periods interspersed.

The only proposal approved by all concerned was that the amber light be eliminated on the red signal in traffic-light operation. William A. Van Duzer, traffic director, testified during the morning that this is now being done.

The hearing was marked by no clashes between counsel of the two companies or with the commission's attorney. Neither was any objection offered to the numerous exhibits entered on the record. Both companies refrained from attempting to lay the blame for the accident on the other.

Both Could Have Stopped.

Ira L. Reynolds, chief engineer of the commission, as the final witness, submitted several charts and mathematical computations to show that the Capital Traction Co. bus entered the intersection on the amber light and could easily have stopped before reaching the crosswalk when the green light went off. He also showed that the Washington Railway & Electric Co. bus had ample opportunity to stop.

E. S. Pardoe, superintendent of bus operations for the Capital Traction Co., testified that the bus involved in the accident was in good condition although it was almost 7 years old. G. W. Shockey, superintendent of motor transportation, and J. E. Heberle, assistant to the president, explained the working hours and methods of training bus drivers.

During the morning session Henry L. Reh, a taxicab driver, testified that the Washington Railway & Electric Co. bus entered the intersection on the red light, and he estimated that it was traveling at from 30 to 35 miles an hour. He said the driver made no effort to stop before the crash.

H. L. Dove, superintendent of bus operations for the Washington Railway & Electric Co., said that L. H. Mealey, who was the driver of the bus, had been working nine hours and two minutes when the accident occurred. He testified that every bus driver who drives for twelve consecutive months without an accident is given a tailor-made uniform by the company.

WASHINGTON LAUDED BY MARVIN IN TALK AT MIDCITY BANQUET

HITS AVARICIOUS GROUPS ON FARMING AND LABOR

Assails Violators of Liquor; Brief Speeches Are Made by Several Others.

Flashing the picture of modern America against the background of George Washington and the ideals for which he stood, Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, assailed the political and social life of our times and asserted that avaricious groups are destroying the fabric of labor and agriculture, in an address last night at a Bicentennial banquet of the Midcity Citizens Association at the Burlington Hotel.

Dr. Marvin referred to the shunning of nationalism in political affairs as the great danger in the United States today, charging that the country thinks in terms of organized minorities rather than through an organized majority. He said that if he had the time he could prove that "certain groups in labor are destroying the entire fabric of labor," and that other groups are "tearing asunder the fabric of agriculture."

The local university president showered scorn on violators of the eighteenth amendment. "It is a law and is here to be obeyed," he said. "Let us be honorable about it and change the law first, if we must. No one has a right to interpret it except the United States Supreme Court."

Spirit of Cowardice Hit.

Pointing to George Washington's "personal integrity," his contempt for the graft that was prevalent in his day and in his firm belief in the prompt payment of the Nation's debts, Dr. Marvin said that he wished "we had more of this spirit today, instead of the spirit of cowardice that seems to be abroad."

The manner of handling financial matters by the individual modern American was not spared by the speaker. "No person," he declared, "can live honorably in any community who spends more than his income, who buys today what he expects to pay for by degrees into the future."

Dwelling on Washington's "fundamental belief in a divine Providence guiding the destiny of nations," Dr. Marvin affirmed that no nation or people have ever been great who did not believe certain spiritual forces are constantly at work, and that they will finally dominate all things."

Democratic Service Is Aim.

Discussing the subject to which he is closest—education—Dr. Marvin said that it is the aim of his university to train young America for democratic service, rather than to create an intellectual snobbishness. This, he added, should be the aim of all education throughout the Nation.

Brief talks were made by Harry King, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce; George W. Offutt, president of the Washington Board of Trade; Miss Sybil Baker, director of the District Playground Department; Mrs. E. K. Peeples, director of the Community Center Department, and Judge Robert E. Mattingly.

Entertainment, featuring colonial songs and the singing of Washington, was given by Miss Swannie Crofton and Ambrose Durkin. A. J. Driscoll, president of the association, presided. The banquet was the first ever held in the eighteen years' history of the Midcity Association. It was voted to make a banquet an annual event.

Boys' Band to Play Tonight at School

Concert at Eastern High to Honor Isaac Gans, Sponsor of Group.

The 75 members of the Washington Boys Independent Band will render a concert honoring Isaac Gans tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium of Eastern High School. Mr. Gans, who is sponsor of the band, also will be honor guest at a reception to follow the concert.

Speakers for the occasion will be Representative Morgan Sanders, Tex.; Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Commissioner District of Columbia, and George W. Offutt, president of the Washington Board of Trade.

The Washington Boys Independent Band is considered one of the outstanding organizations of its kind in this section, having three times won the amateur prize award here for the best band. Maj. C. J. Brown is commanding officer.

Boy Cyclist Fractures Skull.

David Turnburke, 10 years old, of 1232 Water street southwest, is in a serious condition at Casualty Hospital with a fractured skull and laceration of the hand, received yesterday when he crashed into a tree on Fourth street near F street northeast, while riding his bicycle.

BRIDGE TROPHIES

Mrs. Sarah Humrichouse, of Hagerstown, Is Principal Beneficiary.

An estate of almost $100,000 was left by Dr. James H. Gaines, U. S. N., retired, when he died March 10 at Atlantic City, it was disclosed yesterday when the American Security & Trust Co., named as executor in the will, filed a petition for its probate.

A niece, Mrs. Sarah Humrichouse, of Hagerstown, Md., was named as the principal beneficiary. She is to have the income from $40,000 in securities for life, and upon her death, the fund is to be divided among the three children of Edwin L. Gaines, a nephew of the deceased, of Culpeper, Va.

A daughter of Mrs. Humrichouse is given $5,000 in bonds, and 20 shares of stock of the New York Central are given Sue West, a niece, and a like number of the same railroad's shares are to be distributed among three grandchildren of a brother, Arjalon F. Gaines.

The Theological Seminary and high school of Virginia is given $1,000 in Pennsylvania Railroad stock and 300 shares of the same stock are to be held by the Trust company for the benefit of Edwin R. Gaines. Mrs. Elanor Jennings Greene, a nurse, was given 30 shares of New York Central stock in appreciation of her kindness to Dr. Gaines while he was ill. Helen, Frances and Edwin Ruthvan are given the residue of the estate.

Woman and 2 Children Victims of Gas Fumes

Mrs. Mary Cohen, 35 years old, and her two children, Simone, 11 years old, and Daniel, 7, were partially overcome last night by carbon monoxide poisoning in their home at 915 1 street northwest. After treatment by the Fire Rescue Squad, under direction of Sergt. H. F. Harding, they were removed to Emergency Hospital.

Mrs. Coben noticed the effects of the gas and went to arouse her daughter, when she weakened and fell. Her daughter, Simone, tried to assist her and also was overcome. Aid was summoned by the boy. The gas was escaping from a jet in a water heater.

Man, 92, Hurt by Auto Driven by Virginia Girl

A 92-year-old man, H. C. McGrath, of 213 Rock Creek Church road northwest, suffered a possible fracture of the hip yesterday when he was knocked down by an automobile at Market Space and D street northwest.

He was struck by an automobile operated by Miss Elizabeth Berry, 20 years old, of McLean, Va. A passing car took Mr. McGrath to Emergency Hospital.

Reports $210 in Jewelry Stolen.

Elizabeth Hansford, of 1108 Sixth street northeast, reported to police yesterday that $210 worth of jewelry and clothing articles were stolen from her home some time over the weekend.

Trinidad Citizens Protest New Northeast Gas Holder

Vigorous opposition to plans of the Washington Gas Light Co. to erect a gas holder in the Northeast section was registered by the Trinidad Citizens Association last night. The resolution objected to installation of the holder "anywhere in the vicinity of Mount Olivet Cemetery and west of Bladensburg road northeast." A committee was appointed to attend hearings on the matter before the Public Utilities Commission.

The association will also protest to the P. U. C. "the charging of an exhorbitant fee by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. for changing phones from one account to another when a new tenant moves to a home, pointing out that the Washington Gas Light Co. makes no charge in changing meters.

Failure of civic organizations to protest against exclusion by the District appropriation committee of the item of $800,000 for local relief was deplored in another resolution, and a committee was appointed to attend hearings on the bill before the Senate District committee and request that the item be restored.

Protest was voiced over the action of the traffic director in removing certain traffic lights on K street northeast. George J. Cleary, president of the association, presided at the meeting, which was held at the Wheatley School.

DEFICIT FOR CHEST MAY PASS $300,000, DIRECTOR DECLARES

Elwood Street Says Need of Funds Challenges All Workers.

PLANS MADE UNCERTAIN BY DELAY IN CONGRESS

Special Trophy Is Presented to Team A-7 for Getting More Than Quota.

"The future presents a challenge to all of us, whether social worker or layman, in the National Capital," said Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, speaking yesterday at the organization's fourth annual meeting.

Mr. Street's talk followed the annual reports of committee chairmen on the work of their departments during the past year.

The director pointed out several problems that the Community Chest workers must consider in their work next year.

"First, for 1932, we face the problem of meeting the deficit due to additional unemployment relief needs which threatens to rise at least to $300,000," he said.

"Our plans are complicated by the uncertainty as to whether Congress will appropriate the $600,000 requested by President Hoover for expenditure for relief of needy Washingtonians through the Board of Public Welfare.

$300,000 Scheduled for 1932.

"Of this $600,000, about $300,000 would be available for 1932; the other $300,000 would be for the first six months of 1933. If this sum were made available it would make possible the transfer of most of the unemployed families being cared for by the family welfare agencies to the Board of Public Welfare and would go a long way toward eliminating the prospective deficit," Mr. Street said.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Glee Club under the leadership of Robert Davidson opened the meeting with three numbers.

Arthur Hellen, secretary of the Chest, read the minutes of the preceding meeting.

A special trophy was presented to Team A7 of the Chest drive workers for getting subscriptions totaling $136,885, or 115 per cent of its quota.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners, was introduced to the workers and paid a brief tribute to the Chest organization.

Committee Chairmen Report.

The report of the treasurer, Robert V. Fleming, was read by I. J. Roberts, assistant treasurer, in Mr. Fleming's absence. Mr. Hellen read the report of the campaign chairman, E. F. Colladay. Joshua Evans, jr., chairman of the budget committee, presented the report of his group and spoke briefly on the budgeting work. Ernest S. Johnston, advertising manager of The Post, presented the report of the publicity committee. Joseph D. Kaufman, chairman of the speakers' committee, gave the report for his group.

Other reports read included the endowment committee, by Mr. Hellen in the absence of Stanton C. Peelle, chairman, and the purchasing committee, in the absence of Gen. B. F. Cheatham, chairman; committee on church cooperation, by E. M. Willis, chairman; the committee on office management, by J. B. Wyckoff, chairman, and the executives' council and tellers' committee report, by Walter S. Urford, chairman.
